BACK, That Is, BACK!

Backward, turn backward, o time in thy flight, is the watchword this weekend.

Daylight saving ends in British Columbia at 2 a.m. Sunday, and clocks which have been running an hour ahead of standard time, should be moved back 60 minutes at that time.

But there's no penalty for waiting until you wake up Sunday.

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker was given a rousing and prolonged standing ovation today after a 90-minute damn-the-Grits and boost-the-Tories speech to the Progressive Conservative party national executive.

Even executive members known to oppose Mr. Diefenbaker's continued leadership of the party applauded him and one said afterwards: "It was a good performance."

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke to 120-odd members of the executive in private session and at the luncheon break said the reception was "tremendous." He told Gordon Churchill and Richard Thrasher, who have been co-leaders of the national organization, to brief reporters on the meeting.

At the executive session it was announced that Mr. Thrasher takes over the full duties of national director of the party after sharing them with Mr. Churchill, who remains chief liaison link among party headquarters, the Conservative caucus and the party leader.

APPLAUDED FREQUENTLY

In closed session, executive members interrupted Mr. Diefenbaker's speech repeatedly with rounds of applause and laughter with his political sallies. In the enthusiasm created by the meeting, Mr. Churchill told reporters:

"I have never seen such enthusiasm and such a prolonged ovation for Mr. Diefenbaker in all these seven years he has been leader."

One of the anti-Diefenbaker element said the leader tended to dwell too much on recent party history in his speech, but Mr. Churchill said Mr. Diefenbaker also urged the delegates to bring forward their suggestions for future party policy.

Mr. Diefenbaker, his hair tousled, circulated the hotel conference hall after his speech, meeting delegates and renewing old acquaintenceships. He was to leave almost immediately for a speaking engagement in Winnipeg.

A conference source said Mr. Diefenbaker emphasized four main themes: The history of the party in politically difficult times, the work of the opposition in Parliament now "compelling the government to retrace its steps and modify its program," the increasing number of disclosures tending to show in retrospect that Conservative government decisions were based on wise precedents, and inspiration for the party to face the future with hard work but with confidence.

Mr. Diefenbaker also laid his continued leadership on the line —as he did in a press conference two months ago—by saying he will submit it to a vote of confidence in the national general meeting of the party expected to be called for early next year.

SUSPECTS GET CHANCE TO ANSWER

Security Case Review Set Up by Government

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has introduced procedures to review cases in which members of the forces or federal employees become tagged as security risks.

Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Friday night that henceforth such persons will be told of the accusations against them and given a chance to tell their side of the story to a secret board of review.

But, he said, the security of the nation precludes the establishment of any quasi-judicial tribunal such as has been suggested by the New Democratic Party.

The NDP urged the setting up of such a body after it was learned Gordon Knott, a Lake Cowichan, B.C., youth, was dismissed from the navy as a security risk on the basis of false information received by RCMP.

After NDP members raised a row in the Commons, the justice department ordered a new investigation which turned up the error. Justice Minister Chevrier made a public apology to Knott and ordered his security file destroyed.

REJECT NDP ARGUMENT

Mr. Pearson and Justice Minister Chevrier, who expanded on the prime minister's statements, also rejected an NDP argument that persons should not be branded as security risks because of the beliefs or activities of relatives.

In sensitive security jobs, people related to known subversives were liable to be subjected to pressure to pass on secret data.

Those with relatives living in countries behind the Iron Curtain were particularly open to terrible emotional pressures.

Knott was listed as a security risk because an uncle was said to be a Communist. It turned out it was not his uncle, but another man of the same name.

Mr. Pearson said the board of review will consist of members drawn from the existing security panel. This panel is composed of government officials of deputy minister rank who study reports from the RCMP on suspected security risks.

INFORM SUSPECT FIRST

This procedure will apply:

The suspect will be informed in general of the allegations against him and be invited to refute them personally in an interview with the permanent head of his department or agency.

The board of review will examine all the facts and hear

REGINA DOES IT AGAIN

REGINA (CP) — For the second year in a row Regina is the first major Canadian city to surpass its United Appeal campaign target.

Officials said today $143,915 has been collected, surpassing by more than $1,400 its objective. It took 38 days to reach the target—tying last year's record. The target was $12,000 more than in 1962.

BUT WHERE?

Peace Talks Slated

MARRAKECH (AP) — The Moroccan government announced today it will take part in four-power talks to end Morocco's frontier dispute with Algeria in Bamako, Mali, Tuesday.

The announcement, from Information Minister Abdel Hadi Boutaleb, came after President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria said he would leave within 48 hours to attend a summit conference on the border conflict in Tunis, Tunisia, or Tripoli, Libya.

Algeria announced Friday night that a summit conference between Ben Bella and King Hassan II of Morrocco would be held in Tunis Monday with six other African leaders participating.

But the word from the Moroccans had been that they wanted a foreign ministers conference to precede the meeting of the heads of state.

Hamilton Wins

HAMILTON, Ont. (UPI) — Bernie Faloney pulled his second quick kick out of the hat with 26 seconds left today to give Hamilton Tiger-Cats an 11-10 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders and first place in the Eastern Football Conference.

Sailor's Release May Get Hearing

The case of a discharged Victoria seaman could be the first to be reviewed by a new board on national security risks, lawyer Lloyd McKenzie suggested today.

The barrister referred to the discharge of petty officer Eric Clifford Petersen from the RCN on grounds that his father-in-law had been a depression-days member of the Communist party.

Mr. McKenzie earlier this year protested the discharge to Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, who reported to the Commons that the matter rests.

Commenting on Mr. Pearson's announcement of the new board, Mr. McKenzie expressed the hope that the Petersen case may be the first one taken up.

VAST IMPROVEMENT

Creation of the board is "a vast improvement" over the previous situation in which a person could be accused, dismissed from government service and have no appeal, Mr. McKenzie said.

"But it is difficult to know whether this is the best possible tribunal to ensure that justice is done. It is certainly worth a try. In the first place, it gives the accused an opportunity to be heard."

Mr. McKenzie said the structure of the board seems to achieve a form of judicial impartiality.

"Security matters are of special nature and can't be held in an open trial," the lawyer noted.

MANSLAUGHTER

Fisherman Given 10 Years

A Galiano Island fisherman today was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter after a Saanich widow had offered to put up $1,000 to buy him a fishboat and give him "a fresh start."

Mrs. Hazel Jones' offer was made in Assize Court here after John Stanley Crocker, 21, had been found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of 80-year-old Joseph George on Galiano Island last Aug. 12.

Joseph McKenna, QC, Crocker's defence counsel, pleaded for a suspended sentence in view of this generosity, but Mr. Justice J. G. A. Hutcheson said manslaughter is "still one of the most serious crimes."

NO EXCUSE

"Drunkenness is no excuse for manslaughter," the judge told Crocker, "and a person convicted of it is liable to imprisonment for life.

"Your record during the last two years indicates that you have shown a repeated disregard for the laws of the land and the rights of others.

"I hope you will take advantage of the opportunities you will have in prison to cure your weakness and to improve yourself and fit yourself to take your proper place in society when you are released."

Before sentence was passed, Mr. McKenna read a letter from Mrs. Jones in which she offered to put up $1,000 to buy a fishboat for Crocker.

HAD EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Jones said she lived 12 years on an Indian reservation in Idaho before coming to Saanich and had considerable experience in Indian welfare.

"I would like to do something for him if he will give up drinking," she wrote.

Mr. McKenna said Crocker had several previous convictions and in each case he was drinking at the time.

"The difficulty," he added, "is that Indians in this area — and white men as well —go out fishing for a number of days,

ABANDON HOPE 39 MINERS STILL ALIVE

PEINE, Germany (UPI)—Mine officials abandoned hope today for 39 miners trapped 330 feet underground in the Lengede-Broistedt iron mine. But they said there was a "very, very slim chance" that four others might be still alive in an air pocket at the 270-foot level.

Rescue teams were drilling toward the 270-foot level despite lowering hopes. A flicker of hope raised when a picked up knocking sounds was dashed when experts decided the sound came from the rattling of rocks.

High Tides Precede Ginny

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Ginny, still dangerous and unpredictable, romped near the North Carolina coast today.

The erratic storm, which became a hurricane 90 miles off Cape Hatteras last week, shuttled in toward land early today.

In an early advisory, the weather bureau estimated her centre to be about 60 miles southeast of Wilmington.

The weather bureau warned that all precautions should be continued along North Carolina's southeastrn coast. Gales and tides two to five feet above normal levels, with rough seas, were expected.

American SIU Alleges Fascism

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA—A renewed boycott of Canadian ships by U.S. maritime trade unions has been "drawn to the attention" of the U.S. government, Labor Minister Allan MacEachen said today.

MacEachen told reporters that while he personally had not been in touch with U.S. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, the Canadian government was relying on previous assurances by the Kennedy administration of co-operation to end Great Lakes labor strife.

"This matter has been drawn to the attention of U.S. authorities," MacEachen said of the renewed harrassment of Canadian vessels in U.S. lakes ports.

He indicated the contact with Washington had been made by his departmental officials. He also hinted that the issue would be carried to the ministerial level should the U.S. picketing continue to spread.

He made the statement after vice-president of the Seafarers' International union in the U.S. Al Tanner, said in Detroit U.S. unions would picket Canadian ships in protest against "seizure" of the Canadian section of the SIU through imposition of a public trusteeship over the SIU and its rival lakes unions.

MacEachen Warned of Boycott

The Canadian government trusteeship is "the same as actions against labor unions taken by Hitler and Mussolini," said Mr. Tanner. "And Canada is only a few miles away."

The statement recalled a warning Oct. 9 by Canadian Labor Minister Allan MacEachen. He told Parliament when the trusteeship legislation was first introduced that there might be a "total boycott" against Canadian ships in U.S. ports.

The situation could "grow worse before it gets better," he said then.

In Superior, Wis., Friday, four members of the Great Lakes district of the SIU suspended picketing of the J. N. McWatters after being served with the injunction. The court order was secured by lawyers for Scott Misener Steamships Limited of Port Colborne, Ont., owners of the ship.

The pickets carried signs, one of which read: "Der Fuehrer MacEachen has placed Canadian seamen in captivity, following in Hitler's footsteps."

Mr. Tanner said picket boats will be used in the various Great Lakes demonstrations, and SIU men will also patrol docks to carry the union's story to other union members. The protest will last "indefinitely."

Picketing was under way Friday in at least two U.S. ports — Buffalo and Superior. A temporary injunction, however, suspended the picketing today at Superior.

"It is obvious that Mr. Tanner does not understand the purpose of the trusteeship—to restore free trade unionism in Canada," Mr. MacEachen commented.

Earlier, Canadian Labor Congress President Claude Jodoin charged that the boycott of Canadian ships in U.S. ports was "completely unwarranted."

Meanwhile, the three federal trustees flew to their homes Friday for weekend rests after getting shipping in Canada back into smooth water following a conference Thursday with Hal Banks, head of the SIU in Canada.

In Vancouver, Mr. Justice Victor Dryer angrily denied that any bargain had been made with Mr. Banks to get the walkout ended. The trustees had made it clear, he said, that if Mr. Banks didn't end the illegal strike, "we would."

Viet Nam Program Disturbs Mission

SAIGON (Reuters)—A United Nations fact-finding mission to South Viet Nam today scrapped the remainder of the program prepared for its visit by President Ngo Dinh Diem's government.

Mission officials said: "There are no fixed appointments for the future. All future arrangements are at present under discussion."

Members of the UN survey mission were reported to be unhappy with the tightly-organized program prepared by the government for their study of allegations of government persecution of Vietnamese Buddhists.

The government has denied that the official program was "imposed" on the mission.

The prepared program envisaged four days of guided visits to the provinces before the mission's scheduled departure next week.

This left them little time or opportunity to speak to the people other than government officials in Saigon.

The government Friday called off without explanation a scheduled visit by the mission to a key Buddhist pagoda in Saigon.

LATE SUMMER OR EARLY SPRING?

Easterners Never Had It So Good

CHICAGO (AP)—The season is autumn and winter is only 58 days away, but the characteristics today are those of spring.

For example, many heat records are toppling daily; raspberries and strawberries are taking advantage of the unseasonably warm weather to hatch a new brood; roses are still blooming and hydrangea are reappearing.

The brisk coolness of typical autumn is replaced by humid weather, parched land, hundreds of forest fires and rationing of water.

Hunters who revelled in the snap of early-morning October as they stamped through the dew-stricken weeds have placed their guns back in the closet. The sport has become dangerous because of fire hazards.

In the U.S. midwest, temperature records are falling and even the vegetation is confused.

Heat records fell for the second consecutive day in Cincinnati. Friday's 83 was the warmest Oct. 25 since 1902. Thirty-five miles east of Cincinnati, the 1,100 residents of Mount Orab are working day and night to lay a 3.5-mile pipeline. The town's water supply will be exhausted by Monday.

A year ago today, Ohio's first snow of the season blanketed much of the state. Now, 419 fires have been reported since Oct. 1 involving 2,515 acres of land.

TORONTO (UPI) — Record temperatures baked southwestern Ontario's parched farmland again Friday as a government emergency committee geared for an assault on a two-month drought that threatens to ruin many farmers.

H. F. Crown, vice-chairman of the emergency committee, said numerous offers of aid in hauling water to stricken areas have come from the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, several dairies and trucking firms.

Canadian National Railways offered to provide a 20-car water train service from Sarnia with 10,000 gallon tank cars, and Supertest Petroleum Corporation Limited said it would provide tank trucks to carry water on request.

. . . IF THEY NEED WATER WE'D BE HAPPY TO . . .

Areas suffering from lack of rain are invited to write, wire, or telephone Bill Mackie, care of Victoria Weather Office, Gonzales Heights.

He has gallons of it, and would be happy to export it in quantity.

But as things stand, Mr. Mackie has to forecast a changeable, blustery weekend, with occasional clearing to tease the outdoorsmen, generally cloudy with showers and steady rain.

Temperatures in the range of 35 to 42 overnight, possibly creeping up to 50 Sunday. Winds? Of course; (i.e.) 15 to 25 overnight, increasing to 25 with gusts up to ? Sunday afternoon.

Publisher Gray Campbell of Sidney is all smiles today as he shows friends copies of his flossy new book, Raymond Patterson's "Far Pastures," which is just out today.

One critic has already told Gray: 'I didn't believe it was possible for a man of Patterson's age to improve so much as a writer. To check my belief, I went back and read 'Dangerous River' all over again. There's no doubt about it—the older Patterson gets, the better he writes."

Jack Lenaghan, organist of the CJVI show, "Rolling Home" (with pianist Al Smith), did a double-take when he read in a musical journal that Graham Steed, formerly of Christ Church Cathedral here, was featuring in a recital a piece described as "Prelude and Fugue on a Theme of Victoria."

"I thought for a minute that Graham had composed a musical tribute to his old city," Jack chuckles, "and then I realized that the theme referred to was of 'Vittoria'." The work, incidentally, was composed by Britain's Benjamin Britten.

Is Victoria really progressing? A few years ago sale of fireworks was limited to the last three days before Halloween. The system went a long way toward curbing the noise and damage both on Halloween night and the week preceding that wild night.

Now Victoria sales extend over seven days. (Started Friday, as you could hear all over town Friday night.) There was the usual rash of nuisance calls to police.

And while the city has grown more lenient, the surrounding municipalities have clamped down. Last year they agreed to restrict sales to the last two days of the month.

Of course, smuggling across the municipal borders is rampant.

Can't help wondering how many children will be injured, how many fires started, before the City Fathers sit down with Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich councils to reconsider the situation.

Our former TV editor Phil Lee writes to say he has a "modern" house in London, England, with gas jets in every room and a coke boiler in the kitchen.

"Heaven help us if we get a winter like last year's. No wonder the English are made of stern stuff."

But Phil is thrilled with London's theatreland and declares the staging is better than on New York's Broadway.

Major William Leslie and his Harbor Light Combo of the Salvation Army proclaim they are all alcoholics—but they haven't taken a drink for years.

Major Leslie gave up alcohol after attending a Sally Ann meeting in Vancouver's Skid Row many years ago. Then he organized a swing band among other alcoholics reformed by the Army.

The Harbor Light Combo will play hymn tunes in swing time at tonight's symphonic festival of praise in the Victoria High School auditorium.

Local politicians in the NDP ranks have been invited to Vancouver next Saturday for "Harold Winch Night."

Mr. Winch, MP for Vancouver East, has been 30 years in elected public office in both the provincial and federal fields. First elected in 1933, he was leader of the opposition in B.C. between 1941 and 1953. The appreciation night is being held at The Commodore, 872 Granville.

The tale has filtered down through the ranks that a Victoria University professor who shall be nameless took on a colleague at blackjack not too long ago.

Backing the professor was the university's new "brain," an IBM 16-20 thinking machine.

The professor-machine combination got cleaned of $60 the way we hear it, indicating that the mind of the card shark may be craftier than even the most expensive machine.

Times sports writer Ernie Fedoruk vows he'll use the stairs rather than the elevator the next time he visits the Royal Jubilee Hospital's maternity wing.

Ernie and his wife, Eileen, were trapped in an elevator for about 45 minutes after visiting a friend Friday evening.

Was Mrs. F. worried?

"Nope," declared Ernie, "but she did think it was unfortunate that a husband and wife were trapped by themselves . . . ."

Apparently the fuses blew, said Fedoruk, who noted that B.C.'s inspector of elevators put his signature on an "approved certificate" only as recently as Oct. 2.

the suspect's story, to ensure "a second look" at the case.

The board will then recommend to the minister concerned the dismissal or retention of the employee.

The minister will make the final decision and a recommendation to the cabinet.

Members of the board of review will not include the deputy minister who first investigated the case.

The announcement was welcomed by opposition spokesmen, although Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and Andrew Brewin (NDP — Toronto Greenwood) expressed doubts that a government board could provide sufficient safeguards against injustice.

Mr. Diefenbaker suggested that a justice of the Supreme Court of Canada or the president of the Exchequer Court of Canada be named chairman of the board or review to give it more independence.

The former prime minister said certain loyal government employees must be dismissed because of defects of character that make them vulnerable to blackmail by Soviet spies. These agents, recruited most of their contacts among homosexuals.

"In the time I was prime minister, I do not recall any case in which the activating reason for participation (in espionage) by an individual was for monetary gain," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

102-Year-Old Dies

SQUAMISH, B.C. (CP) — Funeral services were held Thursday for Henry Love, 102-year-old retired logger who died here Monday. "He just ran out of gas," said Pat Brennan, chairman of the village commission, commenting on Mr. Love's death. An active outdoorsman, Mr. Love applied for his last hunting licence at the age of 97. He got it free.

DOCTORS AIM TO CUT UNNECESSARY VISITS

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Medical Association's top economist suggested Friday that patients pay directly part of physician's fees under doctor-sponsored health insurance plans.

B. E. Freamo of Toronto said such a plan of partial payment would reduce the number of unnecessary visits by patients to doctors.

He spoke to the annual meeting of the Manitoba Medical Association.

Officials made it clear at the conference that Mr. Freamo's suggestion could foreshadow a change in the operation of the wide-spread medical care plans set up by doctors.

Members of prepayment plans pay a regular premium which generally guarantees them treatment without other cost.

Mr. Freamo envisaged a modification under which patients, except for indigents, would pay a percentage of the cost for treatment directly to the doctor in addition to the premium.

Half of Aged Exist At a Poverty Level

OTTAWA (CP)—John S. Morgan, professor of the school of social work at the University of Toronto, estimated Thursday that about half of Canada's aged persons live at a poverty level.

He told a special Senate committee investigating problems facing the aged—those over 65—that he bases his statement on a series of studies which have been conducted in the United States and Britain.

Mr. Morgan said the American studies showed that about half of the older persons in the U.S. live at a poverty level. He said a British survey showed that some 44 per cent of that country's elder citizens were in a similar position.

"The economies of both of these countries are much like ours," he said. "I suspect that this is also true of Canada."

Mr. Morgan also said that because of inadequate incomes a large percentage of Canada's older persons live under "dreadful" housing conditions. This situation could be solved only by a massive public housing effort.

LOCAL CHURCH 77 YEARS OLD

Centennial United Church will celebrate its 77th anniversary with a week of special events, including a turkey dinner Tuesday at 5:30 p.m.

The Sunday morning service will be conducted by Rev. R. J. D. Morris, minister of First United Church; the evening worship by Rev. W. Van Druten of Gordon United Church, Langford.

Power Behind Ratepayers 'Not Nelson'

Coun. D. H. Nelson of Esquimalt today denied he is the power behind a ratepayers' group supporting him in an effort to unseat Reeve A. C. Wurtele in the December elections.

Reeve Wurtele has charged that the newly-formed Esquimalt Voters' Association is "Coun. Nelson's campaign group."

"I intended to contest the reeveship of Esquimalt before any suggestion of support was received from the Esquimalt Voters' Association," Coun. Nelson said.

"Naturally, I appreciate the support of this representative group."

AIDED REEVE

"I do not think it is right for anyone to take exception to this in view of the fact it was an organization of the ratepayers formed 12 years ago that put the present reeve in his position."

The association has also announced it will support Coun. E. S. Cassels, who is seeking re-election; newcomer Russel Atkinson, a service station operator, and real estate salesman C. L. Fraser, an unsuccessful candidate in the July byelection.

Association chairman Percy Boyd, 1169 Highrock Place, said some of the group's aims are more committee meetings open to the press and public, increased recreational facilities and more attention given to municipal planning.

and when they come ashore, there is a tendency to drink too heavily."

Crocker, he said, had been out fishing in Active Pass for three days before he became involved in a struggle with Joseph George in which George was killed. Most of them had drunk heavily from a half-gallon jug of wine, and later from a bottle of rum.

Crown prosecutor Lloyd McKenzie, QC, said Crocker had previously been convicted of breaking and entering and theft, robbery with violence and breaking parole during a one-year prison sentence.

Father Thomas L. Mackay of the Oblate Fathers stationed at Kuper Island Reserve, and Father J. L. Bradley of Bishop's House, Victoria, offered to help Crocker if he were given a suspended sentence.

The trial lasted nine days.

Bank Manager Jailed

'GET FINGERPRINTS,' CHIEF SUGGESTS

Bad Cheques on Increase

Police chief Jack Gregory warned city businessmen Friday about the skill of professional bad-cheque passers.

"Don't be a sucker," he told Lions' Club members at an Empress Hotel luncheon. "This year the city of Victoria is heading for another record year of bad cheques."

In 1961, city merchants alone lost $19,357. Last year, the loss rose 25 per cent, he said.

Passers of fraudulent cheques, said Chief Gregory, can be divided into three categories.

"Those with an alcoholic problem — to maintain their level of alcohol.

OVERDRAWS ACCOUNT

"The so-called 'honest' man who will overdraw his account, sometimes intentionally.

"And the professional. His success lies in his ability to fool you. He must convince you he is an honest and reliable man."

The professional, said Chief Gregory, passes from 10 to 20 fraudulent cheques a week

In larger centres, he said, the con-man will affect the dress of the type of industry in the town.

"He has quite a wardrobe."

Chief Gregory said the man will spend several days in a town acquiring local knowledge. He will learn the name of a well-known figure and use it.

GOOD BACKING

"What better backing could you have for cashing a cheque?"

He said the con-man is well equipped with the necessary machinery for producing cheques, identification material and other items.

One of the most important things is acquisition of a firm's cheques.

"Blank cheques are often stolen during a break-in," he said. This often is not noticed.

"When you return to your offices," he told the Lions, "look at your cheque books. See whether there are any blanks torn out of the middle."

NUMBER CHEQUES

Serially-numbered cheques are best, he said.

"A post-dated cheque is not a cheque at all. It is just a promissory note. Passing one is not a criminal offence unless fraudulent means are used to cover the date."

A professional bad-cheque passer, he said, is equipped with club membership cards, credit cards, and a driver's licence to prove his name.

"That doesn't mean a thing if the cheque bounces."

FINAL TEST

The chief said there is only one true test:

"Fingerprints.

"As a final test, ask if the man will submit his fingerprints on the back of his cheque. Use an ordinary stamp pad.

"Any professional cheque passer will shy away from giving his fingerprints."

One of the police departments helping prevent such fraud, he said, is a fraud cheque section in Ottawa, with cards on known cheque passers.

Exiles Ferried From Cuba

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—The 60-foot yacht Nana delivered 18 well-dressed Cuban refugees to Key West Thursday on a ferry trip the U.S. state department tried to prevent.

Capt. Harold Derber, a British citizen, tied up the yacht at city docks, after arriving under U.S. Coast Guard escort.

Immigration officers put the refugees, including men, women and two children, aboard a bus and sent them to Miami for disposition at the district immigration office.

Reporters were not permitted to talk to the refugees.

Coast Guard district headquarters at Miami said it was detaining the Nana at Key West pending word from the U.S. district attorney regarding a violation of a federal law which requires a foreign vessel to give 24 hours notice before making a U.S. port.

Derber, his secretary and two crew members were questioned by immigration officers, but were not arrested.

Derber made the yacht trip from Havana to the United States as a test to determine whether he could legally ferry Cuban exiles to Florida.

State department authorities had warned Derber he faced fines up to $1,000 each for undesirable aliens he might land here.

LITTLE GIRL ABDUCTED, FREED AFTER ATTACK

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—A five-year-old girl was abducted from a busy shopping centre parking lot Friday night by an unshaven young man, criminally assaulted and dumped into a ditch where she was found early today.

Doctors said the girl, Michelle Moran, was in good physical condition despite her ordeal. They said she was suffering to a minor degree from exposure and would be kept in the hospital at least for today as a safety measure.

'ANTIS' MUST GO

Diefenbaker to Get Executive Shield

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Any lingering opposition to the leadership of Rt. Hon. John Diefenbaker will be isolated and eliminated, if possible, by the national executive of the Progressive Conservative Party when it meets here over the weekend.

Plans are to be made for the party's annual meeting expected for mid-January, at the two-day executive meeting, Saturday and Sunday.

Steps will be taken at the executive meeitng, according to reports current here, to remove Conservative party members now occupying important positions who are known to be anti-Diefenbaker.

Among those mentioned as a target of those determined to stamp out opposition to Mr. Diefenbaker is E. A. Goodman of Toronto. He holds the key post of chairman of the resolutions committee.

Formerly a close freind of Mr. Diefenbaker he was one of those who turned against the former prime minister prior to the general election last April.

Douglas Harkness, former minister of national defence in Mr. Diefenbaker's cabinet who resigned in protest over the Conservative government's defence policies, is not a member of any of the executive committees. However, he hopes to have a talk with some of the members of the executive.

Mr. Diefenbaker has made it clear in public speeches that he expects the January meeting to endorse his leadership.

The office of chairman of the resolutions committee is important in the national executive. That committee could control the resolutions going before the national leadership convention and presumably could see to it that any smoking of a lack of confidence in Mr. Diefenbaker's leadership did not reach the floor.

'LET'S BUILD MERCHANT MARINE'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver labor leader suggested Friday that the federal government should take the $452,000,000 from the cancelled naval frigate program to build a Canadian merchant marine.

Charles Wilson, president of the Marine Workers and Boilermakers' Industrial Union, Local No. 1 (CLC), said in a statement that each frigate in the now-cancelled program was estimated to cost $35,000,000, of which only 40 per cent would be spent in Canada. The rest would be spent in the U.S. and Britain on electronic equipment.

"Let us build 45 23,000-ton modern refrigerated passenger and cargo vessels, the type that now enter our harbor in Vancouver from every country in the world."

U.K. Economic Expansion Program Unveiled by Home

PERTH, Scotland (CP) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home today opened his campaign for election to Parliament with a ringing promise that "we are going straight ahead, and straight ahead fast."

The new British leader laid down a seven-point policy for his Conservative government ranging from rapid expansion of the economy to improvement of medical care for the whole population.

Sir Alec is seeking election to the Kinross and West Perthshire House of Commons seat made vacant by the recent death of Conservative W. G. Leburn.

Since Leburn was more than 12,000 votes ahead of his nearest opponent in the 1949 general election, Sir Alec seems certain of an easy victory.

Sir Alec, who surrendered six noble titles in order to qualify for a place in the Commons, scoffed at suggestions that his appointment to succeed Harold Macmillan signified a Conservative swing to the right.

"We are not lurching to the right, we are not lurching to the left," he said. "We are not lurching at all."

OUTLINES POLICY

Sir Alec said the hard core of his government's policy would consist of these seven points:

Expansion: "We shall expand the economy as fast as our resources allow."

Modernization: "We shall use all the power that modern science and technology offer to keep our industries up to date, to make our railways and roads second to none in the world. Already we are spending more per head on scientific research than any other country in Europe."

Spreading prosperity: "We shall see that no part of the kingdom is left out of the general prosperity."

Education: "We shall see that higher education is open to every boy and girl in Britain who is qualified to take advantage of it."

Housing: "We shall speed up the rate of house building, slum clearance and modernization."

Social welfare: "We shall continue to look after pensioners and all those in need. We have steadily improved rates of retirement and other pensions and benefits, including sickness and unemployment benefits and war widows' pensions."

Health: "We shall, with our new hospital plans on the one hand and our plans for local authority services on the other, bring to every part of the country standards which till now have been limited to a very few large cities and towns."

Sir Alec also said Britain must continue to maintain its independent nuclear deterrent "so that the British foreign secretary sits at the peace table as of right."

RATHIE 'JOKING'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor William Rathie said today he was only "joking" when he suggested that homeowners refuse to pay electricity bills if B.C. Hydro tries to unload bus systems in Vancouver and Victoria.

However, he said in an interview, metropolitan area taxpayers should realize they must protest any move by the provincial government to slap extra costs on municipalities.

B.C. Predicts Winter Works Record Year

A record winter works program is predicted this year by provincial government officials.

Although the winter works season doesn't start until Nov. 1, there have already been 146 applications for projects costing a total of $12,674,671.

The federal government pays 50 per cent of payroll costs totalling $4,646,286, the province and municipalities 25 per cent each.

The projects include sewers, waterworks, roads, parks and buildings.

BIT MORE

The province's share of payroll costs works out to $1,194,121. This is fraction more than the aid for approved projects at this time last year, when the winter works season started a month earlier.

Deadline for applications is April 30.

"There will be many more applications to come," said a municipal affairs department official.

"The municipalities seem to have realized this is a good thing and they're taking advantage of it."

Vancouver Firm Low Bidder

A Vancouver firm is the low bidder on a provincial project to widen and strengthen three Island bridges on the Trans-Canada Highway.

Low bid of six came from Vancouver Piledriving and Contracting Co., which submitted a tender of $96,273.

The job is to improve the Cowichan, Chemainus and Haslam Creek bridges between Victoria and Nanaimo.

'DICEY MATTER'

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A New Westminster police commission official said Thursday that a probe of the police department is underway, centering around disappearance of evidence in a court case.

Commissioner Brig. E. G. Eakins said the missing evidence is "not money, but it is a dicey matter and we want to investigate all the facts . . ."

'. . . May Have Passed Watershed of Danger'

PERTH, Scotland (Reuters)—Britain's new prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, said today the world has been on the "brink of war" three times in the last three years, through crises in Berlin, Cuba and Laos.

In a speech here Douglas-Home said the West "may have crossed the watershed of danger" in its relations with Russia because of the nuclear test ban treaty.

He said: "If that proves to be so, then new possibilities in the field of disarmament and control of nuclear weapons will emerge.

"Then negotiation will come to replace force and the threat of force."

Referring to the explosive situations in Berlin, Cuba and Laos, he said they could "easily have escalated into a nuclear war."

"The whole weight and authority of Britain was thrown on the side of peace and danger has passed."

These Need Answers

THREE SERIOUS ALLEGATIONS regarding hospital services have been presented to the people of British Columbia; they are of such a nature that they call for immediate investigation to satisfy public concern. But the study should not be carried out by a government employee responsible to the minister whose department has been challenged.

Dr. R. E. Adams of St. Joseph's Hospital told the British Columbia Hospital Association convention in Vancouver that the infant mortality rate in a hospital (which he did not name) in this province is twice as high as would normally be expected. He said that this situation was due to inadequate government financing, resulting in a lack of sufficient nursing staff.

Health Minister Martin, in rebuttal, suggested that "neglect by the medical profession" could be the reason for the high mortality rate.

Obviously the matter cannot be left at this point. The public must know the full facts and be given assurance that if such a situation exists the causes shall be discovered and a quick remedy provided.

This is not a matter to be exploited in a conflict between the hospitals and the minister of health. Charges or implications by either side will not satisfy the legitimate demand of the public to have all the answers. And the chief purpose of all parties concerned must be the immediate relief of any conditions which may increase the risk of death for newborn infants.

Other charges by Dr. Adams, following on his more spectacular statement, likewise call for searching study by the government and the public. His recitation of statistics describes British Columbia as lagging behind the Canadian average standard in many important aspects.

This province has, says Dr. Adams, the lowest proportion of staff per patient in Canada, whereas in 1948 we ranked first. Hospital wages have increased at a lesser rate in British Columbia than in Canadian hospitals in general. New staff has been recruited at a slower rate, total hospital bed capacity has increased more slowly than the Canadian average. Such figures lie back of the widespread protests of hospitals that they are not given enough revenue by the government to do the job they should be doing.

These are comparisons which do not look well to a province whose government boasts of its freedom from debt, of its large budget surpluses, of its generally high degree of prosperity.

When to these charges are added recent strikingly similar criticisms of the province's welfare work—lack of sufficient staff, too low a proportion of fully qualified workers, and so on, compared with much better conditions which existed before the Bennett government came into office—and continuing protests against the lack of funds granted to higher education, then an alarming picture of deterioration in vital public services begins to emerge.

Are our tax revenues being spent in a properly balanced governmental program? This is the major, fundamental question that should be asked by the public. And it should be answered by the government with something more than testy countercharges, bland assurances, or silence.

More Dollars for Forests

CANADA'S FORESTRY MINister, Mr. J. R. Nicholson, gives words of hope and encouragement to all British Columbia when he indicates federal plans to step up financial assistance to forestry research and development.

This is the significant note in his recent press conference following meetings in Ottawa with ministers and deputies from provincial forestry departments.

The important questions remaining are: how soon and how much?

Through his personal identification with British Columbia's forest industries prior to election to the House of Commons, Mr. Nicholson understands the needs in this province. He understands, too, that Ottawa matches on a 50-50 basis many provincial expenditures in particular fields of forestry work.

But he also knows that this share-and-share-alike formula can only be extended to the limits of British Columbia's portion of about $8 million allocated federally for such work throughout Canada. The province has still to proceed with research and development beyond that point and when it exceeds federal allocations it must carry the load.

The financial aspects of last week's conference are more significant than the spectacular arrangement by which the federal government will make troops available for use in fire-fighting emergencies.

Great concentrations of manpower are valuable of course, when a forest fire has taken firm hold and an army of men is required to fight a broad front of flame or to try to enclose the large perimeter of a fire.

In protection work, however, British Columbia gives full recognition to the superior value of prevention and a quick attack on a fire just starting. That calls for the use of specialists and expensive equipment—particularly helicopters as well as transport and water-bombing planes. If they can speed to a small fire and put it out before it spreads into a conflagration, the savings are obvious. Hence the need is for funds to mobilize and equip such forces.

Troops for emergency use are worthwhile, but by the time they are called into action, a fire usually has reached disastrous proportions.

A Matter of Planning

THE CONTROVERSY OVER construction of a gasoline service station at the main entrance to the Gordon Head campus of the University of Victoria emphasizes the need for long-range and coordinated planning for the whole neighborhood of the university precinct.

Original plans for a commercial district adjacent to the Henderson-Cedar Hill Cross Road intersection have apparently been shelved by Oak Bay as a result of the rapid residential growth nearby and the need for a congenial approach to the university entrance. But the service station purchase had been made as early as 1958, and this sole commercial property will now dominate an environment in which it will be inappropriate.

An agreement by the gasoline company to delay work for six months while an alternative might be worked out has been abruptly terminated and development of the corner lot is under way. But even though the oaks and firs have been stripped from the property, it should not be too late for Oak Bay to propose a solution and reserve this vicinity for some more appropriate function.

A little leadership by municipal and university authorities should be able to achieve a solution that will preserve the residential-university environment without loss to the oil company. But haste is necessary.

Room for Both

FEARS THAT THE NEW MAYfair Shopping Centre might have a deleterious effect on the future vitality of downtown Victoria, by siphoning off too much of the revenue of downtown retail establishments, have been largely counteracted by the vigorous reaction of the city centre merchants to the new development.

Mr. Lloyd Davies, chairman of the merchants' committee of the Downtown Business Association, makes it clear that promotional activities such as Thursday's "Downtown Day" sale feature, which are planned on a monthly basis, will not constitute a "declaration of war" on shopping centres. All businesses are part of the economic community, he points out, and his group is merely assuring that the centre of that community, downtown Victoria, is kept alive as a vital unit.

The importance of keeping the downtown area of any metropolitan centre alive and in good financial health is self-evident. In view of the rapid growth of Greater Victoria there is, fortunately, no reason to fear that with a proper program of preparation, the city centre businesses cannot withstand the competition presented by suburban shopping plazas. Each type of centre has its own special advantages, and both can contribute to the economic well-being of the Victoria area.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

During a heavy rain storm it is facinating to see how a tiny trickle of water from some upper slope gradually works its way down to form with other small run offs and gradually make a stream.

The water, gathering strength as it flows down hill, slowly forms a small brook as it is joined by other runs of water.

Here one can see how erosion takes place: the water tears at the grass roots and washes away the dirt, which in turn helps to create a scouring effect upon other soil.

The flow, increasing in volume from many other little trickles and over-flows, begins to cut a wider channel in its rush to the lower regions.

In its journey it may find some depression and spread out to form a miniature lake. This in turn, fed by other little runs of water, soon fills and finds a way to overflow its banks.

Here perhaps it has lost some of its sediment and as it flows on it becomes a clean rivulet of water. But as it makes its way it soon gathers other particles of soil mingled with roots and debris.

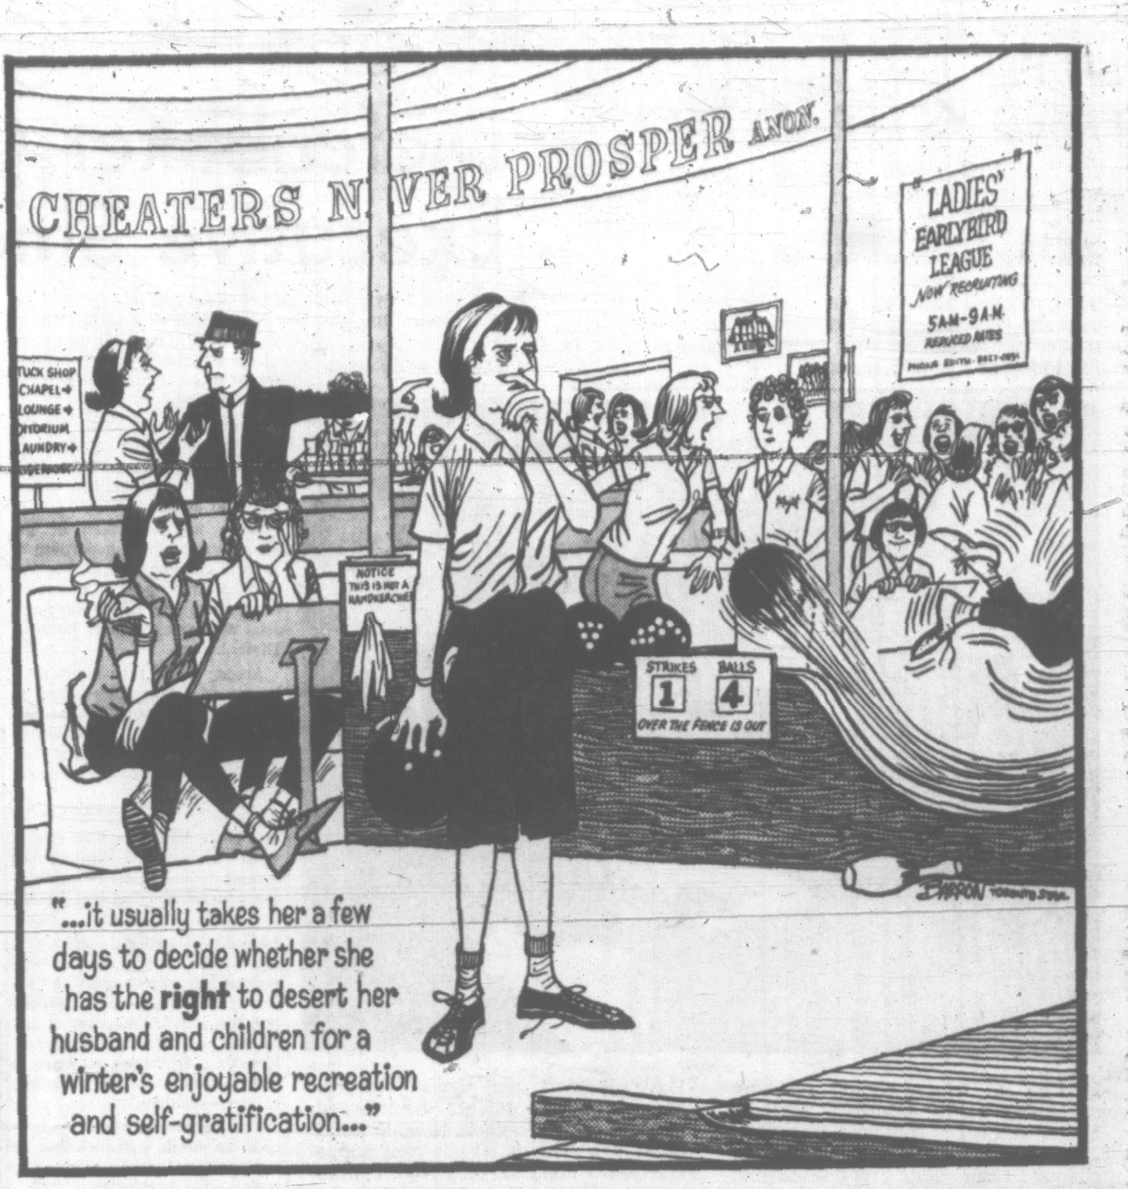
It gradually makes its way to some old water course where it becomes a part of a recognized stream.

Perhaps its flow will be somewhat slowed here, for during the summer season the creek bed has become dry and the grasses, reeds and rushes have grown into a tangle.

As it joins the main stream it tumbles over rocky outcrops, perhaps forming swirls and eddys which help to cut into the earth and form deep channels.

Where the hard rock forms a ridge it will tumble over the edge, making a waterfall which in turn will cut a deep basin. Perhaps the roots of some tree will be undermined. It will fall and so widen the water course and gradually form a river.

Here one can see the ever changing face of the earth.



"...it usually takes her a few days to decide whether she has the right to desert her husband and children for a winter's enjoyable recreation and self-gratification..."

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Trouble With de Gaulle Just Beginning

Alsop

ONE last, rather ugly footnote is required by this reporter's just-completed Asian journey. In brief, if the signs in the Far East mean anything at all, President Kennedy's troubles with President Charles de Gaulle have only just begun.

At the moment, former French Prime Minister Edgar Faure is paying a kind of good-will visit to Communist China, reportedly with official encouragement from the de Gaulle government. More important still, the head of one of the big French oil and general trading companies, Guillaume Georges Picot, left Peking only a couple of weeks ago, after a long stay as the leader of a trade mission representing the French Manufacturers' Association.

Red China Recognition

In addition, during his recent visit to Washington, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville let drop the remark to Secretary of State Dean G. Rusk that it was now "illogical" not to recognize Communist China. From these portents, certain tentative predictions can be made.

First, Gen. de Gaulle will probably recognize the Peking regime if suitable conditions can be negotiated. This means, above all, that the French must not be put in the same humiliating category as the British, who fell over themselves in their haste to recognize Mao Tse-tung's government, but are still not permitted to have a representative in Peking above the rank of charge d'affaires. De Gaulle will only be satisfied with sending an ambassador of full rank, and receiving one in return.

Petroleum Exports

Second, this mutual recognition, if it is arranged, will probably be accompanied by the extension of substantial French credit to the Chinese Communists. The choice of Georges Picot to head the trade mission implies the hope of petroleum exports to China, to replace the oil fuel the Chinese still precariously import from the Soviet Union. If the credit is extended, the terms are likely to be designed to set a pattern, which may be followed by the Japanese and others who are tempted to do business with the Chinese Communists.

The French are quite astute enough, of course, to see that they are highly unlikely to make large profits from trade with Peking. There is also nothing that makes recognition of Communist China more "logical" today than it was in the past. As always in the past, France and her African allies have just, once again, cast their votes against Communist China's admission to the United Nations. But that, apparently, is likely to change next year.

What, then, are the motives of this significant and potentially damaging new manoeuvre, to which the French government is known to be giving active consideration? The answer appears to be that "motive" is the wrong word.

This is rather a reaction—an instinctive rather than a motivated reaction—to Nikita S. Khrushchev's snubs of Gen. de Gaulle, to the nuclear test-ban treaty, to the slight warm-up of Soviet-American relations, and to other linked phenomena. In other words, if Moscow insists on treating President Kennedy as the one Western leader with whom it is worth doing business, the grandeur of France demands a comparable relationship with the other Communist giant.

In the Wind

These are shocking things to say. But shocking things have happened already, and the fact that they have happened increases the probability that a French policy-change towards Peking is in the wind. From Saigon, this reporter sent the news of an elaborate, long-continuing French intrigue to defeat American policy in Viet Nam, by promoting conversations between the North and South Vietnamese "behind the backs of the Americans."

The phrase is quoted from President Ngo Dinh Diem's brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, who is both the primary target and the intended mainspring of the French intrigue. South Viet Nam would have been sold out to the Communists to the North if Ngo Dinh Nhu had succumbed to the quite elaborate French-organized petitions (which included careful softening-up by the French ambassador to Saigon, the well-timed Olympian come-on statement by President de Gaulle, and a private message from the North Vietnamese Premier, Pham Van Dong). The option, it must be added, is always open to Nhu.

Specious Denial

On extremely specious grounds, the existence of this intrigue was officially denied to the U.S. Ambassador in Paris, Charles E. Bohlen. The denial merely increases the unpleasantness of the facts, which cannot be doubted.

The French government has, of course, previously indicated lack of sympathy with U.S. policy in Viet Nam. But there is the longest possible step between an honest indication of lack of sympathy and embarking on a secret intrigue to defeat the policy of a presumed ally—with no notice given to the ally, of course. From these facts, future French intentions must be judged.

FROM NEW YORK

By JOYCE EGGINGTON

61 Million More Mouths Each Year

THE family of man is growing at the rate of 61 millions a year—which means that every 12 months a population three times the size of that in Argentina is added to the already overcrowded world. Of these new arrivals, baby girls born in France, the Netherlands and Norway have longest life expectancy—almost 75 years. The best hope for boys is in the Netherlands, Norway and Sweden, where the life expectancy averages slightly over 71 years.

These figures are published in the United Nations Demographic Year Book, a massive annual report on the growth and movements of the world's population, compiled from the latest censuses taken by various goivernments. U.N. satisticians have computed that there were 3,069 million people on this planet in mid-1961, which meant an annual increase of between 1.8 and 2 per cent over the past 10 years. Sixty per cent of this increase occurred in Asia, although the most densely populated area is still Central Europe with 138 people to every square kilometre. The most densely settled country is the Netherlands, followed by England and Wales, Belgium and Japan.

Tropical and Central Africa—and particularly the Ivory Coast—has the highest regional birth rate and the highest death rate. The lowest recorded birth rates which U.N. experts consider to be accurate are in Sweden, Norfolk Island, the Isle of Man and West Berlin. The lowest death rate occurs in the Soviet Union.

The West Berlin situation is also reflected in the figure for immigrants to that side of the city—143,712 in 1961, which was nearly twice as many as for the rest of Western Germany. This figure was slightly less than for the previous year, but it contributed to a total of 907,553 West Berlin immigrants since 1956.

The report lists Tokyo as the world's largest city, with a city population recorded at 8,310,027 in October 1960, and estimated at 8,480,000 a year later. New York City comes second (7,781,984), followed by Shanghai, Moscow, Bombay and Peking in that order. London has dropped to eleventh place, since the administrative area of the city is counted in every case, and London's covers only 3,195,114 people.

Many countries boast of no really large cities at all. This is particularly true of Africa where 36 of the 53 countries which sent in returns did not possess towns of as many as 100,000 inhabitants. Britain ranks as one of the most highly urbanized countries, along with North America, Israel, Hong Kong, Denmark and Sweden.

There are more women than men in most European countries, North America and the Soviet Union, but the Asiatic countries tend to produce more males. English, Danish, Israeli and U.S. women can look forward to living to be almost 74, whereas English men have an expectancy of 68 years and U.S. men only 67. In Africa the variation is enormous—from 26 years for both sexes in Mali to slightly over 70 years for white women in the Republic of South Africa.

The world's highest marriage rate takes place in the Falkland Islands where there are 13.7 weddings per 1,000 of population. The American Virgin Islands have the highest divorce rate (4.31 per 1,000) followed by the United Arab Republic (2.32). The rate for England and Wales is 0.54; for the United States 2.18. Several countries—Italy, Spain, the Philippines, Ireland and Malta—are listed as having no provision for divorce, but among those who do, Northern Ireland and Portugal have the fewest divorces.

As for the size of households (which does not necessarily mean the size of families), these are lowest in Europe, with averages between 2.8 and 4.1 people, and highest in Asia and Oceania. The average household in American Samoa contains 7.6 people, while in the Pacific Islands the average is 6.4.

The report comments on the large increase of international travellers, especially to Finland, Japan, Jordan, Greece and West Germany. The year's analysis does not show any definite trend in the long-term migration of people to various countries, although it comments on the high rate of immigration to Israel which was largely responsible for an 8.2 per cent population increase.

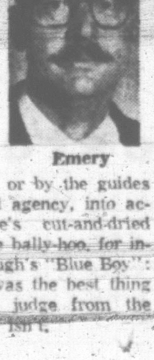
To Judge the Master, Look for Yourself



Emery

I SOUNDED off about Rembrandt last week, but I doin't want you to get me wrong. Don't get the impression that I don't think he is of the foremost rank, because I think he is. I love the guy. I was only reacting rather strongly to what seems to me to be a reprehensible habit of giving the star treatment to certain painters and selected works by those painters.

My point is simply this: to find out how good Rembrandt is, why not look around for yourself? Why be shoved by the museum, or by the guides provided by your travel agency, into accepting somebody else's cut-and-dried judgments? Look at the bally-hoo, for instance, about Gainsborough's "Blue Boy": anyone would think it was the best thing he had ever done, to judge from the hoo-ha; and it certainly isn't.

What makes a painter good is the marks he makes on the canvas, not the noises made by his dealer, collector or exhibitor. I have felt most overcome by Rembrandt's genius when I have been handling one of his drawings. In the print room of the Rijksmuseum they have six boxes of these legendary treasures: one of New Testament, one of Old Testament subjects; one of landscapes and another of portrait studies; one of animals and one of miscellaneous sketches, including figure studies.

It is when you are looking at a tiny drawing, the size of a postage stamp, of an old man's head, conjured out of six hooked strokes of a reed-pen, with a sepia wash spilled under hat-brim, in eye-sockets and in the shadow of the beard, that you realize that you are looking at a work by a man gifted beyond most other artists that ever lived. I would give six of the "Night Watch" for one of these minute and rapid studies.

There is one tremendous Rembrandt portrait that is in Amsterdam, but not in the Rijksmuseum, and if ever you get the opportunity to see it, don't miss it. It is a portrait of Jan Six, burgomaster of Amsterdam in Rembrandt's time, and it is to be found in the Six family house on the banks of the Amstel River. To see it you have merely to go to the Stedelijk or the Rijksmuseum, mumble some impressive names or wave a few imposing documents about, and they'll make the necessary arrangements.

It is worth taking the trouble to see this portrait. Jan Six is wearing his red burgomaster's cloak with gold brocade trimming; he is drawing on his gloves to go out, and his whole face is alive with the energy characteristic of a leading citizen of the republic that was then the wonder of the world. Next to Remembrandt's portrait hangs a miniature of Six by Ter Borch, who was no sketch-club amateur dabbling with a Christmas set from Winsor and Newton, but the difference is the measure of the gulf that yawns between mere mastery and genius.

But I see I have said nothing of Hals. Poor Hals. There are a quartet of unlucky painters who have suffered more than any others from the hands of forgers, restorers, star-conscious museum authorities and other blights: Hals, Rubens, Veronese and Tintoretto. The number of times I have been invited to admire some clumsy daub labelled with one of these great names is beyond my reckoning. There isn't a self-respecting museum in the world that hasn't got a bad Hals, two ruined Rubenses, and a Tintoretto that looks as though the cat had licked half of it off.

To see Hals at his best you really have to go to the Hals museum in Haarlem. (To get there you pass Breukelen, which you may recognize as the origin of another New York suburb.) There in the poor house where Hals ended his days (then, as now, only the very bad—or the very lucky—painters died rich) hang the group portraits that embody all that is great in this masterly painter.

Gerald Waring ...REPORTING

OTTAWA — Harold Winch, the moody B.C. socialist, blew his stack in the House because it seemed to him that Parliament was fiddling while he burned.

Mr. Winch's ignition point is low, so a Winch stack-blowing is not an uncommon occurrence. What brought the explosion this week was that while labor hoodlum Hal Banks strutted around Parliament's lawn at the head of 2,000 SIU seamen illegally absent from their ships, the Commons continued its days-long talkathon on where to seat Real Caouette and his 12 Creditiste MPs.

It seemed to Mr. Winch that the Commons should leave off consideration of Mr. Caouette to deal with Mr. Banks. The government rightly refused. Parliament had done its job with the passage of the trusteeship bill and the next move was up to the government.

But additionally, adjournment of the Creditiste debate to talk about happenings out on the lawn and events related thereto would have been a yielding to the pressure being applied by Banks and his men. The Commons' unflappability was creditable: it cut Mr. Banks down to size.

* * *

The way the Commons dealt with Mr. Caouette was less creditable. It recognized that the split in the ranks of the 23 Social Credit MPs had made the NDP the third largest party in the House, and accordingly it voted to seat the 17 NDPs next to the 95 Tories.

But then it declined to take the logical next step and seat the larger of the two Socred groups next to the NDP. It put the Thompson Socreds, 11 members, in this preferred position, ahead of the Caouette Socreds, 13 members.

This was the Liberals' doing. With the support of the Thompsonites, they had a majority of the effective voting strength of the House. They professed to be motivated by such considerations as the seniority of the western Socred group over the Quebec breakaway faction, and the fact that the Creditistes have not yet contested a federal election on their own.

* * *

The real reason for the positions taken on this issue can best be explained in light of the aspirations of the various groups in the game of politics and power being played in the Commons.

The Liberals declined to accord the Creditistes the status and prestige of a new party—instead, treating them as so many independent MPs—because the Grits reason that such recognition would make the Creditistes a bigger threat to the Liberals in Quebec.

The Tories and the NDP, both dedicated to the destruction of the Grits and neither having any substantial election prospects in Quebec, eagerly supported the Creditiste cause. Even in defeat they lost nothing, while now being able to pose as the champions of the rights of Quebec MPs.

Mr. Caouette sees himself as the voice of Quebec in Ottawa—and a much stronger voice after the next election. Already he is actively campaigning, with meetings and TV, to defeat the seven Quebec Socreds who stayed with Thompson. Beyond them, he has his sights on big gains from the Grits, logically expecting to capitalize on the split between federal and Quebec Liberals.

Thus it seems to me that the Liberal administration's petty victory in the House likely will do the Creditistes more good than harm.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER ALVAREZ

Laymen's Terms

Women ask, "What can I do for my poor circulation?" and I cannot offer a single suggestion, because I have no idea what the person's symptoms are. I am not sure what has made her think that she has poor circulation. It is a layman's term, not a doctor's. Perhaps she has the cold white fingers of Raynaud's disease, or the cold feet that "run" in certain families. I cannot guess.

Alvarez

Another woman asks, "What can I do for too much acid in my system?" Again, I can only guess what she has. Actually, I am pretty sure there is no such disease. Perhaps she has heart-burn, or occasionally when she belches she can taste some acid gastric juice. Other persons ask: "What can I do for acid indigestion?" And again, that term means nothing definite to me. It is a laymen's term. I suspect that in these cases, too, the person has either heartburn, due to the regurgitation of acid gastric juice into his gullet, or he has a purely nervous burning of the skin over his upper abdomen!

* * *

Another question that I can't answer is, "What do you do for a male menopause?" I could never believe there is such a thing, and I now find reports of research work that gives us strong evidence against the idea. If one measures the amount of female hormone in a woman, one finds a sudden marked drop around the age of 50, when the "change" comes and the woman's ovaries shrink markedly. In men, measurements of the amount of male hormone slowly diminish between the ages of 30 and 85 years. At no time is there any sudden "falling off." Also there are no sudden physical changes such as occur in women, and the giving of much male hormone to men aged 50 usually has no effect. A few physicians say that the injection of huge doses will produce some improvement.

Just now, a grandmother writes asking me about her grandchild who, she thinks, is "tongue tied." That, again, is an ancient idea, and I doubt if there is much truth in it. People stutter, not because their tongue is abnormally tide to the floor of their mouths, but because they are too shy about meeting people.

* * *

Another common question that I cannot answer is, "What shall I do about my catarrh?" Often from the woman's letter I have only a vague idea what she means. Perhaps she has sinusitus. All I can do is suggest that she go to a good nose specialist who can look in and see what the trouble is. She can also get her sinuses X-rayed to see if any of them contain pus.

All that some of these "catarrh" people have is a post-nasal drip, and this usually is a psychic trouble. The person feels a little mucus going down the back of her throat. But this is harmless and most people ignore it. If I sent the woman to a good nose specialist he will tell me that there is no pus in the nose and no sign of a sinusitis. The only thing I can then do is to tell the person not to worry about the drip. Often she is terribly worried simply because someone has given her the idea that if the small amount of white mucus is swallowed, it will poison her. Actually, as soon as the little bit of mucus reaches the stomach, it is digested and that is the end of it. It is digested just as a bit of white of egg would be digested.

GREAT IDEAS FROM GREAT BOOKS

History Backs Aristotle In Institution of Family

Dear Dr. Adler:

I would like to know about the ideas in the great books regarding a radical change in or abolition of our present family system and its consequent replacement by a free love society in a future highly organized state. Certainly much could be said for and against such a society.

Charles Haynes,
734 Newbury Street,
Victoria, B.C.,
Canada.

Dear Mr. Haynes:

Most thinkers in our tradition have viewed the family as an institution which satisfies universal human needs. Among these needs are the needs for sexual union and procreation, and for the care and rearing of offspring. The family also fulfills the need for the instruction of the young in the ways of the society into which they are born.

Aristotle recognized both the instinctive and ethical aspects of the family twenty-five centuries ago. He defined the family as a "union of those who cannot exist without each other; namely of male and female, that the race may continue," arising from "natural desire." But then he added significantly that the family, like the state, is a peculiarly human 'association of living beings,'' which has the "sense of good and evil, of just and unjust."

Long History

The way in which these universal human needs has been met—and the consequent form the family has taken—has varied considerably in different times and places. The early books of the Bible show that a polygamous type of family existed among the ancient Jewish patriarchs. Also the large 'consonguinal" type of family—consisting of an elderly couple, their children, children's spouses, grandchildren, etc.—seems to have been far more prevalent in the ancient world than the present "conjugal" type—consisting of a couple and their children.

Most western thinkers, from Aristotle to Freud, have agreed that the family plays a necessary and beneficial role in welding individuals into the structure and values of the community as a whole. Plato, however, stands out as a unique radical dissident, who advocated the abolition of the family in order to safeguard the common good. He proposed that the guardian class in his ideal state not only have goods in common, but also, wives, husbands, and children.

There would be no separate conjugal households, in Plato's scheme. Marriage would be strictly regulated matings between couples selected for their genetic qualities, and would last only for the few days of a marriage festival. Children would be taken from their mothers at birth and brought up in public nurseries and dormitories.

Social Unity

Plato believed that, in this way, family affection would be spread out to the whole guardian class and social unity would be assured. Possessive and selfish attitudes—the sense of "ours" and "not ours"—would be abolished, and the guardians would become one big family, in which the children would be everyone's children, and everyone would be knit by ties of kinship. Indeed, he said that "this communion of women and children and of property, in which the private and individual is altogether banished from life," is the basic principle upon which the whole state should be formed.

Aristotle opposed Plato's plan as leading to the destruction, rather than the promotion, of the common good. The political community, said Aristotle, is by nature pluralistic, consisting of families and individuals which differ from one another. Too much unity would destroy the state. As for family affection being spread out over the whole community, in which wives and children were had in common, love would be watered down rather than multiplied.

Social and political thinkers of various shades of opinion have tended to side with Aristotle in this argument. The Soviet Union, after some experiments in the early revolutionary days, has recognized the role of the stable conjugal family as a building block of the greater society. Plato's views have been applied in part, however, to family life in the Israeli communal settlements, where children are brought up in common nurseries and dormitories, apart from the conjugal couple.

French Offer Friendship

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government is making efforts to put cordiality back into the Anglo-French entente after the coolness that followed January's breakdown of Britain's negotiations to join European Common Market.

The latest example came on Thursday when Defence Minister Pierre Messmer told an audience of reporters that a co-ordination of French and British nuclear forces is "not excluded" in the future, in the form of common study of possible situations that might arise.

ADLAI BACKS NEGRO GOALS ALL THE WAY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, says American Negroes "have every right to be angry, to be resentful, to be impatient and demanding" and that he supports "every one of the goals involved in today's Negro revolution."

Speaking Friday night to the Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Foundation—of which he is board chairman—Stevenson urged the establishment of an international human rights centre. Such a centre, he said, could make vital contribution to resolving "worsening" race relations and human rights problems over the world.

Harvey Explodes, California Fizzles

Williamson

The variety of exhibitions to be seen in Victoria at present makes it necessary for me to skim lightly on the surface instead of digging, as a critic should, into the shallows and depths of the work on view.

For example, this article is being written in advance of the opening, at Hartley's Picture Crafts Gallery, of a combined exhibition of paintings by Ping Mah and Stephen Lowe, the former being a recent arrival in Victoria. So, aside from calling your attention to this display, and hoping you will visit it during the very brief showing which ends on Oct. 31, I must reserve comment till their next exhibition, whenever that will be.

A second exhibition upon which I stumbled, almost accidentally, is a small display by Donald Harvey.

This exhibition, on view at the Provincial Library, would have escaped my attention altogether had not Mr. J. G. Mitchell telephoned me and mentioned, in passing, the active program of exchange exhibitions between Vancouver and Victoria artists who use the narrow library corridor for rare and select displays.

The most recent occupant of this space was Maxwell Bates, whose two-part exhibition opens elsewhere in Victoria on Nov. 1 and which I and many others are anticipating with much pleasure.

But to return to Donald Harvey. His work is new to me, though not by reputation, and I find his small exhibition so confident, explosive and exhilarating that my only regret is that he works in such a reduced scale.

He Could Pin Our Eyes Back

These form-statements, polished and most professionally executed, cry out for huge canvases. If he does paint in a large, more grand manner, then I have not seen any examples and must be excused. If he doesn't, then he should!

By large, I mean a canvas size of approximately 6' by 8' or thereabouts, for while these present works on view are entirely self-contained and admirably fitted to their restricted dimensions, on a larger scale I feel Mr. Harvey could pin our eyes back and open new vistas which the present exhibits merely suggest.

If only they were small and delicate, but they are not. They are firm, positive statements of the type I most enjoy; reasonably figurative, fresh in coloring and, I am glad to say, original.

They are a hundred worlds removed from the drab, splodge and splash technique of the uncertain dabbler sculling around in abstract and non-objective waters, which we are accustomed to seeing in so many exhibitions.

In a library corridor they are about as out of place as a klaxon in a club heading room, but for all that they not only survive their environment, they dominate; which merely underscores the point that good painting can be seen against any background.

The Provincial Library should be congratulated for their enlightened exhibition policy.

Whether the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria should be congratulated for their present exhibition of "Some California Paintings" is not for me to say. I react more and more disfavorably against such hodge-podge shows masquerading under impressive titles. I find the majority of the present exhibits tiresome and tired.

This is annoying, of course, because one hears such fine comments about the present-day California artists; so that even being most charitable it is impossible not to emit a growl of disappointment when confronted with an exhibit several degrees more cool than the 1963 all-Alberta exhibition in Edmonton (which was a good exhibition) and several degrees worse than the last biennial exhibition circulated by the National Gallery—which is just about as low a punch as I can swing at our dear friends south of Oregon.

Not that it matters, but for the sake of the record I mention a few of the more interesting, less unworthy paintings, not overlooking the possibility that they look good because of the company they keep.

For Signboards—A Bitter Punch

W. Bowman's bit of nonsense, "The Red Door," holds its own surprisingly well from pretty well every view point, its merit being in the fact that it is not a painting at all but a wood construction designed to amuse and remind us that life, even art, is transitory.

Of the paintings, I like the oil Composition No. 1, by Channa Davis. This is a painting of much sensitivity and the integration of planes and space relationship is well-handled.

The invitational entry, Lundy Siegrist's "Sundown," ties for second place in my list, alongside "Light Pattern," by Louis Gutierrez, a most able, interesting collage in the best Spanish contemporary style.

What might have been a first-class painting is titled "Number 383," by William Morehouse, but unfortunately something has gone wrong in the lower righthand section, and I suspect the trouble rests with the isolated, broad stroke of yellow paint, presenting an unwanted, detached mass which floats out over the picture plane.

The James D. Phelan committee must have been hard-pressed to issue awards, but I for one would certainly have issued prize money to Joan Baldasari for her "Help Stamp Out Signboards," with its great expressway image and the infuriating, jarring signboard in the top left half of the painting which adds its own bitter punch to the title.

Of the water colors, only Meredith Olsen's "Sacred Hill" is of interest. A fine study, really, and worthy of a permanent home.

Also at the gallery is an interesting show of contemporary ceramics by Zoltan Kiss and Thomas Kakinuma; each a distinguished potter and their exhibition has been specially brought to Victoria.

I hope to comment on this more fully in next Saturday's column.

Two-Man Oriental Show Reveals Exceptional Art

By HUMPHRY DAVY

If Victorians want to see Oriental art at its best, they shouldn't miss the two-man show of Stephen Lowe and Ping Mah at Hartley's Picture Craft Gallery, 748 Fort Street.

It is one of the best and most interesting shows of its kind held here in years, and undoubtedly will attract many people this week, as it did on the opening night, Thursday. There are more than 100 pictures on exhibition.

Mr. Lowe, whose work first attracted attention a few years ago, seems to excel himself. His birds and flowers are sure to find many admirers. One entitled the "sunflower" is exceptionally good.

Mr. Ping Mah, formerly of Vancouver, and a newcomer to Victoria, has some uniquely beautiful paintings of tropical fish. One cat painting entitled "hungry" is certain to be a hit with animal lovers.

Mr. Ping Mah appears to have many friends in Vancouver. They came to Victoria as a group especially to attend the opening of the show.

The exhibition was opened by Colin Graham, director of the Victoria Art Gallery, who noted that art forms an important bond of understanding between the west and the Orient.

Mr. Graham was presented with a painting by the artists.

Despite a lashing rain, the opening was largely attended. The exhibition is on until the end of the month.

Style, Humor And Real Suspense

THE WEIRD WORLD OF WES BEATTIE, by John Norman Harris. Toronto, Macmillan of Canada, 1963. 216 pp. $4.95.

Reviewed by R. G. Lawrence

Wes Beattie is a fictitious descendant of an upper-crust Toronto family and is half way between being the hero and the victim of an amusing detective story set in his home town.

He has to share the heroic honors with the clever detective who recognizes that the weird world in which Wes finds himself is not as weird as the "bad guys" would like everyone to think it is.

There has probably never been a detective story written to which the word "ingenious" could not apply. Moreover, this one is little different from most in that it suffers from a surfeit of ingenuity.

For example, Horace Gadwell (a playboy—wouldn't you know?) drives from Toronto to Muskoka on a snowy winter night to throw into one of the lakes a piece of incriminating evidence.

Surely this Canadian author must be aware that there is a large body of water (deep too) considerably closer to Toronto; however, you are not a true detective story fan if you haven't guessed already that Mr. Harris has his reasons for getting some of the "good guys" surreptitiously to follow Gadwell to Muskoka.

Mr. Harris' style has frequent charm; for instance, he has one of his characters say, "I got an honest job that pays real good — turning back speedometers on used cars;" occasionally the English language traps the author.

The fact that one of the characters was once a hockey player is important; thus a later phrase, entirely metaphorical, "he skated on thin ice" causes a reader to wince.

Despite some long-winded dialogue and some implausible situations, this is a genuinely funny detective story that is capable of firmly holding the reader for the most of its pages.

Mr. Harris knows what suspense is and knows how to create entertaining and believable characters.

SUBTRACT $600

Then Add The Lost Interest

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood is art conscious. Producers buy impressionist paintings by the score. Stars paint and others, like Raymond Burr, own big art galleries.

But a picture hanging in one restaurant (Don the Beachcomber's) is attracting more attention than any painting in town.

"It's the only work of art that costs $600 a year to hang," says Ray Fine, owner of the restaurant.

"I think every movie star in town has taken a look at it."

Fine got the idea of framing a real $10,000 bill under glass in the lobby of his restaurant. With insurance and armed express service, it costs him $600 a year to keep it there.

Original Wynants Presented

A 17th century drawing by an old Dutch master Jan Wynants has been presented to the Victoria Art Gallery in memory of the late Mrs. Ross Napier, a former member on the staff of the Victoria Public Library.

Mrs. Napier, who died in the spring of this year, was on the staff of the public library for 20 years. The gift was presented by her friends.

Curator Colin Graham said the gallery also received from Hon. Robert Mayhew, former ambassador to Japan, a 19th century Japanese lacquer smoking set.

Other acquisitions include a group of Chinese jade pieces, some dating back to 2,000 B.C., purchased by the gallery; a painting by Maxwell Bates, presented by the Women's Council cultural fund; a 19th century oil painting by the French master Adolph Hervier, presented by Mortimer Lamb of Vancouver, and an oil painting by M. G. Bilton, presented by Dr. Robert Hubbard, chief curator of the National Gallery.

Two anonymous gifts — a water color by Emily Sartain entitled "Lillies," and an 18th century drawing by Jan Pillement, were also presented to the gallery.

MOSCOW — Ivri Gitlis, first Israeli to play in Russia, had to play eight encores after the final violin concert of his three-week tour.

BRILLIANT young violinist, Otto Armin of Windsor, Ont., is this weekend's soloist with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. He plays on a Guarnerius violin worth $50,000, loaned to him by an admirer in Saskatchewan.

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Weather or not—by which I mean whether or not it is good gardening weather or poor this weekend—nothing could distract my keen interest in what will be happening at the Royal Theatre, Sunday afternoon.

Primarily because I will be enjoying the privilege provided by Victoria Symphony Orchestra of hearing for the first time in solo work, a young Canadian who is most extraordinarily gifted.

And then again, because I find it nothing less than fascinating to observe at close quarters the effect upon the orchestra of the workings of a different musical personality, as represented by the substitution on the podium of Otto-Werner Mueller for Hans Gruber.

As any serious student who has ever changed from one good teacher to another, will attest, every quality of the mind that makes one individual different from another, has some effect on the music which eventually emerges.

Thirdly, we will all be hearing the orchestra for the first time since the gratuitous attack upon it by Vancouver music critic Francean Campbell, about whose ears local wrath has been exploding ever since.

Will our audiences respond any differently? Will they be hearing it more favorably out of inflamed local pride? Or less favorably, out of respect for the voice from the big city.

At any rate the last proposition is of minor significance compared to the first two.

So back to the guest artist. On this occasion 21-year-old violinist Otto Armin. Some may remember that the young man was the brilliantly competent concert master of the National Youth Orchestra on tour last summer.

He comes to us as soloist from his scholarship studies at Indiana University, and I do not think it is an overstatement to say we are privileged to hear him.

Heredity Alone Not Accountable

Striking homage has already been paid not only to abundant natural talent, but to qualities of intellect and character that have brought him to his present high achievement.

That collector of rare instruments in Saskatchewan, who, on hearing Otto Armin play, offered him the use of an enormously valuable Guarnerius violin, paid him perhaps one of the most inspiring compliments he will ever receive.

The violin, returned after the tour, was reloaned to him for the present occasion and on it he plays this weekend, the first movement from the virtuosic Paganini Concerto No. 1 and Chausson's lovely "Poeme."

It is mooted, incidentally, that the violin is to be purchased for him.

Heredity alone does not account for the fact that there are four young Armins and that they are all greatly talented musicians.

Also studying under scholarship at Indiana University are Otto's 19-year-old twin brothers Paul and Richard, violinist and 'cellist respectively, and his sister Adele, an 18-year-old violinist.

Modern psychologists will bear me out when I say that environment—and therefore exposure—have been immensely important factors here.

The Armins' first string lessons were given them by their father at an early age.

THE PURIST SPEAKS

Music and talk of music was in their daily diet and opportunities to hear music were put in their way from infancy. So whatever tendency or inclination was present in the beginning had the climate and the soil to promote the finest growth.

Which, come down to it, is the major reason why I personally would take strong issue with Miss Campbell's dictum re the value of our symphony orchestra.

Whatever regard one may have for her opinion, the fact is that as a newspaper critic she is paid to express it, and it is personal to her and expendable to everyone else.

It is apparent that only one set of values operates for her, however, and it is as the musical purist and nothing else that she speaks.

The cult of the purist can see no satisfaction or value in the dedication of the less than professionally proficient musician; nothing to be gained by the promoting of live music performance in a community unless it be sustained on the highest most rarified levels.

They would—and this is what must be read into Miss Campbell's suggestions for the Victoria Symphony—debar the setting of any sights for community orchestras beyond the most obviously attainable, and tolerate little in orchestral music that did not achieve the engineered perfection of a recorded performance.

It is appalling to think how much satisfaction and real joy for performers and listeners to say nothing of student inspiration would have been lost in this city over the past 25 years, if the purists and the cultural snobs had had their way.

Mirthquake Centre Soon Rubble Heap

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — All the props and supplies have been auctioned off. Soon the bulldozers will do their work and nothing will be left of the Hal Roach studios but memories.

"It's a shame," says Stan Laurel. "Who would ever have thought that it would happen."

Stan, surviving member of Laurel and Hardy, has plenty of memories and he lives surrounded by them in an apartment overlooking Santa Monica Bay.

There are cartoons and posters of Stan and Ollie in their prime. Stan's honorary Oscar stands — ironically — on the television set. Above his desk is a signed portrait of President Kennedy, which came to Stan after he was given the Oscar.

The veteran comedian strays little from the apartment. A stroke a few years ago paralysed his side and he moves with some difficulty. He lives quietly with his Russian-born wife, answering correspondence and receiving a few friends and fellow workers.

Despite his incapacity, Stan is bright and cheerful.

Stan spent 20 years at Roach. He recalled that he first arrived as a single comedian, making 12 one-reelers and 12 two-reelers. Then he left for a year, returning as a director. That's when he began his union with Hardy.

"We always had separate contracts," said Stan. "Hal managed to see that our options came up at different times. That made it harder for us to leave."

The pair finally left Roach in 1940 and went on to make features at 20th Century-Fox. They never shared in the profits. Hence when television brought their greatest fame, they received only the glory and none of the money that was coined.

"We never knew what television was when we made those contracts," said Stan.

Fahey Musical This Weekend

Two performances of a musical play by Winnifred Lugrin Fahey will be given this weekend.

"Paris Rendezvous" will be seen at St. Luke's Parish Hall tonight, starting at 8 and on Sunday in the lounge of Oak Bay Beach Hotel at 8:30 p.m.

Featured singers are Pamela Paver, Leona Hanley, Anthony Patriarche, David Griffin, Lincoln Painter, Douglas Blagrave, Cecily Shaw. With the chorus the total cast numbers 26.

Director is Kathleen Yoxall. Peggy Zuhling and Eric Edwards will supply piano and organ accompaniment.

DONNA SMALL

DENISE TUNNEY

Youthful Recitalists Share Fine Records

Donna Small, contralto, and Denise Tunney, pianist, will appear in a joint recital at the Art Gallery, Tuesday, under auspices of Registered Music Teachers' Association (Victoria.)

Miss Small, winner of many scholarships and medals as a student at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto, has specialized in both concert and oratorio singing.

An all-round musician, she studied violin from the age of 7 and piano from the age of 11. Miss Small is vocal soloist in several Toronto churches.

During her co-tour of the Canadian West, Miss Tunney will feature piano works she is planning to play at her Eaton Auditorium debut in Toronto Dec. 14.

At 17 holder of the Royal Conservatory's special diploma as a teacher and performer, the young pianist has made guest appearances with the London Symphony Orchestra and given recitals in New Brunswick and Atlantic City, among other places.

Unique Recital Program Features Four Artists

Something very special in the concert line that promises to hold great charm and interest for all true music lovers, is promised by Victoria Musical Art Society for its November series event.

The concert takes place Wednesday, Nov. 6 in Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

Part of the charm will lie in the somewhat unusual ensemble that is to be presented, part in the styles and moods of music to be performed.

Special interest also attaches to the fact that all four artists, professionals and specialists in their chosen fields, are currently residents of this city.

Vocalist featured on the program is soprano Erica Kurth who followed a successful musical career before coming to Victoria two years ago with her husband.

Mrs. Kurth received her musical training in Vancouver and has also studied in San Francisco. She has appeared with "Singing Stars of Tomorrow" and performed with the Vancouver Symphony and in CBC recitals.

In California, she has sung at modern and Elizabethan festivals in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The instrumental part of the program for Nov. 6 will be shared by Barrie Moncur, clarinettist; Woodford Garrigus, oboist, and Neville Haddock on piano and harpsichord.

Dr. Garrigus is an exceptional musician and plays first oboe with Victoria Symphony. He is at present on the staff of Victoria University.

Also a member of the university faculty in the Department of English, Mr. Haddock is an accomplished keyboard artist. He has recently acquired a two-manual Sabathil harpsichord on which he will perform on this occasion.

On the staff of the school of music at HMCS Naden, Mr. Moncur plays first clarinet with the Victoria Symphony.

Strong Cast For Comedy At Sidney

A cast of veteran Peninsula Players' actors will be seen next Friday and Saturday in a lively comedy by Vernon Sylvaine, "As Long as They're Happy."

Taking part, under Nell Horth, director of the winning South Vancouver Island Drama Festival entry last spring, will be Joan Henricksen, Ken Smith, Margaret Dixon, Herb Drew, Joe Fenton, Vivian Cowan, Doug Taylor, Chuck Swannell, Phyllis Levar and Pat Montgomery.

The play will be presented in the Legion Hall on Mills Road, Sidney. Curtain time is 8:15.

QUIZZING the GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. I shall not be able to plant tulip bulbs until the holiday weekend in November. Where do you think would be the best place to keep them in the meantime? J.K., Haultain St.

A. Tulips do much better if they are planted into a cool soil such as is usual after our first heavy rains. A warm soil destroys the growing centre. Keep the bulbs in a cool, airy place where they will not dry out or begin to grow. See that the bulb bags are well ventilated. On the floor out of sunshine is a good spot.

Q. When are Spanish and English iris bulbs planted and in what kind of soil? P.T., Oak Bay.

A. These bulbs are planted as late as possible to prevent their starting into growth in warm soil. About mid-November is usually about right. They need a sunny, well-drained spot so that they do not rot in winter, and they can dry out during summer, after the leaves have ripened and died down.

Q. Is the crinum bulb hardy outdoors here, and if so why do we not see more of them planted for their sweetly perfumed flowers in late fall? Mrs. B.M., Oak Bay.

A. The best planting I ever saw of crinums was in Oak Bay. The bed was slightly raised, and backed by a brick wall of an old-fashioned kitchen with a huge coal range along the inner wall. I do not suppose that soil ever saw frost. In less-favored areas we grow them in large pots, but the bulbs are in the dollar apiece class.

Don't Drown Plants

Excessive watering of plants may make the leaves turn yellow or fall off.

Too much water affects plant roots because the water fills the air spaces in the soil and the roots suffer from lack of aeration.

Some plants, including cactus, jade, peperomia and snake plant, will die almost immediately if over-watered.

These methods will keep plants healthy:

Water only when the soil is on the dry side. Scratch the surface of the soil with your finger. If it is dry to the touch, water is needed.

Water thoroughly until the water drains from the pot drainage hole. Don't water again until the soil begins to dry.

Don't put your plants on a watering schedule. Conditions in the home vary with the seasons.

Let Your Interest Show In a Corner for Music

By PAULINE GRAVES

If music is an integral part of your life, why not show it? When an area is well organized and planned for a purpose, there is no need to hide it behind wraps, unless the component parts need shelter.

For example, here is a corner devoted to music, and everything is logically located, but there is no attempt to make the area appear to be anything else.

A drawer gently cradles the record player, imperative because dust presents a problem to the delicate mechanisms, but above, set back a few inches, stands the radio, the tuning dial exposed to the room.

As part of the design, slots for records line up with the radio, the slots so narrow that only a few records need stand side by side. Below, matching up to the record player is a counter, convenient for the selection of records and albums.

Additional shelves above store the old 78 albums, and there is a smaller section for the 45's.

Because this is a built-in unit, speakers are located elsewhere in the room, carefully placed for the best sound reproduction.

Although this homeowner prefers to keep his records ready for use, most record buffs protect them in the cases in which they are purchased. They are so slim that almost as many can be stored in the same amount of space, and the album name on the binding helps immediate selection.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Wayside Black-Eyed Sues Have Many Fine Prototypes

By JACK BEASTALL

The rudbeckias, known in Eastern Canada as Black-eyed Susan, and more generally as the Coneflower, are truly flowers of the fall in our gardens.

The genus was named to honor the Swedish botanist, Olaf Rudbeck, which gives us the pronounciation as rood-bek'-e-ah. Rudbeckia hirta (hairy), the wild Black-eyed Susan, is native to the eastern half of North America and is a defiant weed in farmers' fields. It is the state flower of Maryland.

Jack

Since all garden flowers are a "weed" somewhere on the globe, it is not surprising that this somewhat coarse perennial should have endeared itself to European gardeners over 300 years ago, and that it should be a favorite here for the fall border.

For garden use the plant hybridizers have given us the Hirta Hybrids in which the colors range from the gold of the wild form to deep chocolate, sometimes with brown zones or brown brush wipings on a gold base.

Unfortunately, the plants with the darker tones and the intricately marked petals have not proved so winter hardy with me as those nearer to the wild form. A chance seedling of a beautiful dark chocolate with a reddish cast I named and propagated extensively, only to lose all the plants after four years.

Rudbeckias of the hirta type are on the whole, very accommodating, since they seem tolerant of a range of soils and are not too particular as to sun or part shade.

AS ACCENT

Undoubtedly, poor soil and too much shade will bring out their coarser traits, while a rich, loose soil encourages their invasive nature. Something in between, in full sun, results in a plant and a profusion of bloom we would not be without.

These are herbaceous perennials (top growth dies to ground level over winter) which have a height of 18 to 24 inches with daisy-like flowers three to four inches across and the coned black centre which suggests the common name of coneflower.

For the back of the border, or as an accent group where height is needed, there is Rudbeckia nitida (shiny-leaves) variety Herbstsonne. This is a Dutch name, herbst meaning autumn and sonne (sonner) sun.

Growing six feet or more in height on rugged stems which defy the winds until November, with yellow reflexed petals to five inches in length, and a conspicuous green cone for a centre, a group of these rudbeckias make true autumn sun during the first rainy days of fall.

WEAK STEMS

Probably more widely grown and therefore better known is Rudbeckia laciniata (cut-leaf) variety hortensia of which the named form with double flowers is Golden Glow.

These are seen in many gardens waving their globes of gold above fences and shrubbery, but they lack the stiff stems of Herbstsonne and sprawl their four to five-foot length along the ground at the first drop of rain and puff of wind.

A newcomer to the group is Rudbeckia Gloriosa, which quickly acquired the common name of Gloriosa-daisy.

It is a tetraploid of the wild Black-eyed Susan developed by Dr. A. F. Blakeslee who has spent some 40 years selecting and hybridizing this wayside flower.

Since their introduction a few years ago as a giant single rudbeckia, double and semi-double forms are now available, and some separate colors have been segregated.

COARSENESS NOTED

Although the catalogue writers describe the Gloriosas as "vigorous, three-foot plants covered with long lasting flowers," all of which is true, the natural coarseness has increased with the increase in size of plant and flower.

This has caused many gardeners to concur with Prof. L. H. Bailey when he describes the genus as coarse annual and perennial herbs of Eastern North America, a few of which find favor for yellow effects in the garden.

Purple and reddish-purple flowers are found in the plants formerly known as Rudbeckia purpurea (pur-pur'-e-ah), the purple-coneflower, which is now found under the name of Echinacea (spiny) purpurea.

One selection which became very popular for a while was named "The King," a deep crimson-purple of which I have occasionally seen striking plants.

In my clay soil it eked out a miserable existence for three years and then rotted away over winter, indicating it to be more at home in a looser, well drained garden loam.

WEEK ON MARKETS

Chrysler Was Big Highlight

By IAN MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"I've got nothing to do and nowhere to go" might have been the theme song of Canadian stock markets this week as prices moved erratically and investors became increasingly selective in their buying.

Brokers last week predicted a consolidation period or even a minor correction and activity this week appeared to uphold this prediction. However, the long-term outlook remained favorable.

The Toronto industrial index backtracked the first two days of the week, but Wednesday the market began to recover and the index closed on the plus side for the rest of the week

Profit - taking on certain key issues helped to drive the market lower Monday, but the current picture remained strong although patchy in places.

CHRYSLER HITS PEAK

Chrysler Corporation helped boost the market Thursday when it hit a peak of $109 before settling back to $107.75 following an announcement by the company that shareholders will be asked to approve a share on a two-for-one basis scheduled for Dec. 20. The proposal will also have the effect of doubling the quarterly dividend.

Automotive stocks generally were strong, with General Motors Corporation trading heavily towards the end of the week, closing Friday up $4.25 at $90.

Massey - Ferguson was another notable performer. The issue finally broke the $16 mark to set a new high of $16.50 on heavy trading.

Other sectors of the industrial board were easier although all had strong points.

Senior metals suffered with fears that the U.S. government might clamp down on rising steel prices, but tension had eased by the end of the week.

Bethlehem Copper Corporation Ltd. had a good week among junior metals, setting an all time high of $6.60. Last week the company announced rising earnings.

SPECULATIVES ACTIVE

Speculative mines were active and helped boost the over-all volume to a respectable level. However, despite occasional spurts in one or two issues, no unusual discoveries were announced.

The foreign market traded steadily all week.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Figures Back Kennedy Bid For New Securities Levy

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Gordon Bell

First full report on the effect of the Kennedy equalization tax proposal on foreign securities sales in the U.S. has come from the Securities Exchange Commission.

It shows that new securities offered for sale by foreign corporations dropped sharply in the third quarter of the year—Aug. 1 to Sept. 30—to only $93 million compared with $435 million in the preceding quarter. However, the figure for the third quarter was still well above the same quarter of 1962 when sales hit only $56 million.

The SEC report also shows that sales of foreign corporate securities in the U.S. ran up to $656 million for the first three-quarters of the year compared with only $560 million in all of 1962.

The trend this year up to Sept. 30 certainly seems to back up American government fears that foreign borrowing plans posed a considerable threat to U.S. balance of payment problems and the SEC's figures may reinforce the administration's arguments in getting at least the major part of the securities tax through Congress.

Foreign governmen securities offered in the U.S. in the third quarter totalled $145 million compared with $180 million in the April 1 - June 30 period. Most of the offerings in the third quarter had been planned before the Kennedy proposal was annouced.

The SEC estimated total new corporate issues offered in the U.S., both foreign and domestic, at $2.4 billion in the third quarter this year. A decline in capital expansion financing and refinancing was noted, particularly in gas and electric utilities.

* * *

While indicators showed the B.C. economy at a high level during the summer months, scme declines were noted in the construction and mining sectors, according to the October bulletin of business activity issued by the provincial bureau of economics and statistics.

At 35 per cent increase in copper production during June, for instance, was offset by lower outputs of lead and zinc with the result that total production of base metals was down nine per cent from June last year. Cumulative production for the half year, however, was almost unchanged from last year. Silver production in June was off 16 per cent, iron ore up six per cent, crude oil up 136 per cent, natural gas down 10 per cent and coal up 11 per cent.

* * *

The value of building permits issued in August was $17,229,000, only about half the total for the preceding month and down about about 13 per cent from the same month last year. Reflecting the high level of housing construction in the first half of this year, August completions were 42 per cent higher than the same month last year.

* * *

In other lines, farm cash income to the end of June was $55.6 million, slightly higher than last year. At the end of July labor income reached a cumulative total of 1.3 billion dollars, an increase of seven per cent over the first seven months last year. Exports during July rose nine per cent and were six per cent higher for the first seven months over last year. Retail sales in July were up six per cent with motor vehicle sales up 20 per cent.

Forest industry production figures were mixed. Sawmill production was up 10 per cent in July while in August there was a nine per cent increase in newsprint production, a four per cent decrease in other papers and paper boards and a three per cent increase in pulp.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

New Steel Probe Brings Shudders

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. government sent a shiver through an otherwise buoyant economy this week by preparing a broad study of steel industry pricing practices.

Disclosure of the federal grand jury inquiry sent prices of steel stocks tumbling and shook up the stock market generally.

It prompted some business leaders outside steel to question whether the move indicated a new outbreak of government-business hostility, although many executives viewed it with much less concern.

Those who feared the worst saw a parallel with the Kennedy administration's crackdown 18 months ago against steel firms that posted price increases April 10-12, 1962, then withdrew them. Others found little basis for comparison.

Steel manufacturers reacted hardly at all.

GOOD SIGNS

Meantime, there were good economic signs and a sparse scattered of troubling events.

Machine tool orders and factory orders for durable goods, two sensitive yardsticks of business ahead, bounded upward. The stock market posted a new high before news came of the steel price investigation.

Record high corporate profit reports covering the first nine months of the year poured in. The commerce department pegged the gross national product, output of U.S. goods and services, at an unprecedented annual rate of $588,500,000,000 in the July-September quarter.

The commerce department also issued licences for 1,400,000 bushels of corn to Hungary. The big U.S. grain deal with the Communist - bloc nations neared the brass-tacks stage, and a first export licence for shipment of 1,200,000 bushels of wheat to Hungary was issued by the government.

TRADE FALTERS

On the less encouraging side, retail trade was reported faltering in some sections of the country, a victim of too-warm autumn weather.

Signs of possible labor strife appeared in the auto industry. This situation remained to be clarified.

CPR CHIEF GIVEN FAST RIDE

VANCOUVER (CP) — CPR president Norris R. Crump rode in the cab of a new, experimental train at 130 miles an hour during a visit to Japan, but said Friday he doesn't see any application of that speed to his company's operations in Canada.

Mr. Crump returned to Vancouver Friday from a five-day visit to Japan and a two-day visit to Hong Kong.

The CPR president described the Tokaido line, which will run 325 miles from Tokyo to Osaka, as the most advanced piece of railroad in the world. The research work and equipment cost the line $1,000,000,000.

Oil Sands Plan Turned Down

CALGARY (CP) — Concern that supply might exceed demand meant rejection Friday for two proposals to develop the Athabasca oil sands.

In a 273-page report the Alberta Oil and Gas Conservation Board, regulator of the industry, rejected applications by Cities Service Athabasca Inc. and Shell Canada Ltd. to develop the sands, estimated to contain 300,000,000,000 barrels of oil.

Shell had proposed building a $250,000,000 plant capable of extracting 96,854 barrels of crude oil a day from the northeastern Alberta reserve, and Cities Service proposed a $356,000,000 plant to produce 100,000 barrels a day.

N.Y. Times Reports $1.8 Million Loss

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times has reported a net loss of $1,831,000 in the nine manths ended Sept. 30.

The Times attributed an operating loss of $4,431,000 in the first three months of this year to the New York City newspaper strike.

Earnings in the six months after the strike ended April 1 were improved over the same period last year, the newspaper said.

Can. Collieries Sawmill Boosts Sales, Profits

VANCOUVER (CP) — Opertions of its new Empire lumber mill increased sales by 20 per cent and net profit by 15 per cent during the first six months of 1963 over the same period of 1962, reports Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd.

Sales figures were $13,862,400 compared with $11,524,200.

Net profit was $942,500 after provision for payment of $110,000 in income taxes. This was an increase of $123,000 over $819,500 paid for the same period last year when no income tax was payable.

President Norman R. Whittall said in a report that imposition of the sales tax on building materials has had a restrictive effect on the domestic market. It has adversely affected operating costs and capital costs of replacing or adding to produce capacity, he said.

Allstate Bill Wins Committee Approval

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill to incorporate Allstate Life Insurance Company of Canada, stalled in Parilament for nearly a year because of opposition to its United States control, was approved by the Commons banking and commerce committee Friday.

Joseph O'Kell, secretary of Simpsons-Sears Limited, told committee members his company would have 25 per cent control of the insurance company.

The rest would be owned by Allstate Insurance Company of Inninois—a subsidiary of Sears-Roebuck of the U.S.

AUTO TARIFF REACTION

U.S. Takeover of Parts Firms Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—New federal incentives to auto parts exports could lead to take-over purchases of some independent Canadian parts companies by United States auto firms, informed sources suggested Friday.

This was one of the possible repercussions seen here to the policy announced by Industry Minister Drury of tariff duty rebates for imported cars and parts in return for increases in automotive exports.

Informants expressed confidence that the U.S. parents of Canadian auto manufacturers will take avantage of the incentive by expanding their purchases of auto parts in Canada.

They suggested that in view of the closely-knit structure of the auto industry, this may be achieved in some instances by the U.S. auto companies buying out independent parts manufacturers in Canada.

Another ramification is that the impact of the tariff incentive plan won't be felt equally among auto companies, especially the "big three" U.S.-owned subsidiaries: General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Informants estimated that about $70 of the cost of a Chrysler car represents import duties on imported parts—more than twice as much as the comparable figure for General Motors or Ford cars.

Thus Chrysler would have greater scope to earn import duty rebates than the other two companies.

The new government policy is also expected to have the effect of narrowing the tariff preference enjoyed by British carfacturers, to the extent that American-owned companies in Canada qualify for duty remissions. British cars and parts enter Canada duty free.

Spending Outpaces Revenues

OTTAWA (CP)—A budgetary deficit of $96,400,000 in the first half of the current fiscal year was reported Friday night in Finance Minister Gordon's monthly statement on the state of his treasury.

Nearly half of the April-September deficit on government operations was incurred in the month of September, when the government went $46,500,000 into the red.

A year ago there was a $67,000,000 deficit for the first half of the 1962-63 fiscal year, and a $61,400,000 deficit in September, 1962.

The six-month deficit compares with Mr. Gordon's June 13 budget forecast of a $585,000,000 deficit for the full 1963-64 year—a figure that was boosted to $655,000,000 by his July 8 changes in the budget. Government expenditures usually rise sharply at the end of each fiscal year in March.

The report showed that rising revenues this year have been outpaced by the increase in spending.

Budgetary revenues in the six months, April-September, were $2,882,300,000 compared to $2,845,200,000 a year earlier. Budgetary expenditures rose to $2,978,700,000 from $2,912,200,000.

Canadian Makers Will Co-Operate

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—The head of General Motors of Canada said Friday the Canadian automotive industry will join forces with the government in continuing efforts to increase exports and cut imports "by all practical economic means."

General Motors President E. H. Walker, speaking in his capacity as president of the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, said: "The reduction of the automotive portion of the imbalance of trade with the United States has been the concern of the industry and the government.

"It is only through the industry's ability to maintain the best possible international competitive position that it can continue to expand within the Canadian market, increase exports, safeguard the jobs of the nearly 40,000 people it now employs and maintain its current annual rate of spending in Canada, which now approaches $1,000,000,000."

OAKVILLE (CP)—The Ford Motor Company of Canada is pledged to help the Canadian government carry out its policy of boosting production and exports through tariff incentives to the automotive industry, Ford President Karl E. Scott said today.

"We will, as always, give all possible assistance in achieving the aims of the government," Mr. Scott said.

"Ford of Canada recognizes the objective of the Canadian government's new program for increased automotive exports from Canada and is sensitive to the national imbalance of trade that motivates it," Mr. Scott said.

Lencourt Mines Shares Suspended

TORONTO (CP) — Shares of Lencourt Gold Mines Ltd. were suspended from trading on the stock market Friday pending an investigation into the company's affairs.

The exchange said it considered it advisable to suspend trading in the shares of Lencourt "until such time as the situation with respect to the financial affairs of the company have been clarified."

Ruble Convertible

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced this week it is making the ruble convertible for purposes of trade within the Soviet bloc.

The government news agency Tass said the ruble may also be converted in certain instances for use in trade with Western countries.

Studebaker Sees Sharp Sales Gain

HAMILTON — Studebaker of Canada Ltd. expects to sell well over 10,000 Canadian-built cars this model year compared with about 7,700 in the 1963 model year, G. E. Grundy, president, told Canadian Dow Jones.

"Everything clicked this year and we're off to a good start," he said.

To handle this year's higher sales it may be necessary to double the work schedule to 16 hours from the present eight, Grundy said. Plans to expand the Hamilton plant have been deferred for the time, probably next year, when a decision is made on production of Studebaker trucks in Canada.

Grundy said Studebaker of Canada plans to produce "certain specialized lower-priced vehicles" for export which, because of small production runs, couldn't be handled economically by Studebaker in the U.S.

FOUNDER'S GRANDSON CONTINUES FIGHT

Salvation Army Alcohol's Enemy

There are 270,000 known alcoholics in Canada and the number is on the increase, says Commissioner William Wycliffe Booth, territorial commander of the Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda.

"Alcoholism is our biggest problem everywhere," the commissioner said. "That is why we are always on the lookout for men and women who will help us combat the evils of it."

Commissioner Booth is a grandson of General William Booth, who founded the Salvation Army around 1865. He is here to preside at the biggest Salvation rally ever held in Victoria—including a symphonic festival of praise in Victoria High School auditorium tonight at 8 and a citizens' rally Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

The tall, quiet-spoken commissioner recalled that his grandfather began the movement by preaching in the streets of London, in tents, in music halls, theatres and taverns.

His mission was organized on a quasi-military basis in 1878, and has spread all over the world.

"My grandfather was as concerned over the drink problem as we are, particularly because of the suffering caused to children living in squalid homes . . . . left outside pubs while their parents drank inside.

MORE VICTIMS

"Today there is much less poverty but the alcoholic problem is more serious than ever. So many talented people, of great sensitivity and promise, fall victim to it."

Commissioner Booth wishes more young people would don the uniform of the Sally Ann and join in its world-wide crusade.

"They can make a living at it," he said, pointing out that, after two years' training, a man or woman can earn about $46 a week with home, furnishings, light and heat provided and a pension on retirement.

"A Toronto man I know gave up $9,000 a year to join us," the commissioner said. "He has never regretted it."

Magicians Invited To TV Show

Producers of North America's top magicians' show have called two Victoria artists to the prestige event.

Carl Hemeon, 2586 Vista Bay Road, left this morning for Los Angeles where he and wife Lottie will perform their most popular act before an audience of fellow-magicians and show people.

Mrs. Hemeon flies to Los Angeles next Friday.

She said today that the show, "It's Magic," is at the apex of a magician's ambition.

They are the first Canadians ever signed for the show. Only the best are selected.

Mrs. Hemeon said their act, "Fantasy in Blue," is a colorful display of blue clothing, colored silks, and appearing and disappearing white doves.

The revue will be held Nov. 1 and 2.

GOVERNOR George Romney of Michigan said today he "will not be a candidate" for the Republican nomination for next year's U.S. presidential election and that "this is not a pose." Asked whether he might reconsider his stand, he replied: "There is no circumstance I can think of under which I would become a candidate."

$1 Day Fee Hike Rejected

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Hospital Association in convention Friday voted down a resolution to change the flat $1 co-insurance fee per patient.

During the three-day convention many trustees and hospital administrators voiced opinions showing anxiousness to vary the basic charge or to raise additional funds in some other way.

But Friday, when a resolution which would have changed the present setup was put before the convention following a special committee study, it was defeated by a two to one majority.

The resolution asked that hospitals be given the right to generate other sources of income than the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service grants on which they now are almost totally dependent, and the right to raise the $1 basic charge to patients to cover special or unusual services.

R. Harry Proctor of Nelson was elected president. First vice-presidents elected were E. C. Cooley, Campbell River; Sister Mary Michel, Vancouver, and W. Orson Banfield, Vancouver.

Resolutions adopted urged inclusion of unemployment insurance costs as a hospital budget item; distribution of disaster emergency equipment more widely throughout the province; stricter legislation defining practical nurses and higher BCHIS payments for out-of-province patients than the present $12 per day.

The convention also urged a joint study by the association and the B.C. Medical Association of the treatment of casualties in large and small hospitals.

NO LEAD AT ALL

Abortion Law 'Deplorable'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan of the British Columbia Supreme Court said Wednesday night Canada's abortion law is in a deplorable state.

He said the law gives no lead at all and added that there possibly should be a royal commission to study the matter.

He made his comments as moderator of a panel discussion on abortion sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club here.

Comments of panelists:

Stewart McMorran, Vancouver city prosecutor: The Criminal Code is confusing on abortion. One section appeared to permit abortions necessary to save a mother's life while another section appeared to forbid that type of abortion. Abortions should be permitted for three reasons—where it can be shown that continuation of pregnancy is harmful to the mother; where the woman is victim of a violent act such as rape; where there is a strong possibility of abnormalities.

NO PROPRIETORY RIGHT

Rev. Ray Goodall of the United Church of Canada and president of the Society for Population Planning: There are 75,000 illegal abortions performed in Canada annually. A woman has the right to terminate pregnancy if she wants to and the law should be changed to permit it. "The state has no proprietory right over the reproductive organs of a woman."

Rev. M. R. Hanley, director of Catholic Charities here: Abortion is murder. "It is not the doctor's duty to take on the role of God and decide whether the mother or the unborn child shall live. The embryo also has a soul."

Dr. F. E. Bryans, head of the department of obstetrics and gynecology at UBC: The medical profession seeks clarification of the abortion law. Often a doctor acts to save a mother's life but he is acting outside the protection of the law. Abortion cannot be dealt with alone. The problem was bound with that of contraceptives and sterilization.

New Village For Indians

The provincial government has traded with the Indians to create a new village.

The cabinet Thursday approved transfer of property at Aiyansh to the Indian band there, flooded out of its village by the Nass River two years ago.

In exchange, the government took part of the old reserve.

The deal was arranged by federal Indian affairs officials.

ADVANCE START

Some sharp red tape cutting allowed the flood-stricken Aiyansh Indians to start building their new village in advance.

In another deal with Indians, the government swapped some Atlin town lots for 40 acres of the MacDonald Reserve.

The Indians were squatting on the town lots anyway.

Reading Speed

When we are reading, only one or two letters are seen clearly at one time. The eyes move across the page in a series of jerks, hopping from one group of letters to the next and not in one long sweep across the line as might be expected. It is only by practice that we learn to read rapidly. By experience we are able to recognize a long word by looking directly at only a few parts of it. However, a person just learning to read new words or a new language must study each letter in turn and the reading is slow. Through practice, we group a number of letters or words together and are able to recognize the group at one glance.

The average person reads only 250 words a minute but this can be more than doubled through training.

It is also advisable to have your eyes examined at least every two years.

UNIVERSITY VILLAGE

More Owned Than Property

One of the most recent ideas introduced into community planning where single family dwellings are involved is the condominium concept.

The basic principle of this concept is that the property owner not only owns his own lot and house but he also owns a share in the community.

Although this concept of ownership is familiar to apartment dwellers it is new in the realm of community planning.

It is this aspect which designer Byron Price is emphasizing in the development of University Village.

He said "by offering this condominium concept of ownership to the residents of University Village it is our hope to introduce a vitality in the community that might otherwise remain a group of isolated dwellings."

At University Village residents will own a share in the community through the country club or recreational centre and swimming pools.

This same principle applies to owners of semi-detached houses, as well as single family dwellings.

In the case of the semi-detached house or duplex each owner has title to his half of the house and property and is also part owner in the community centre.

Emphasizing the fact that University Village is to be diversified, town houses or small apartment buildings are planned for the area. They will not only give physical diversification to the community but they will attract a more migrant resident creating a stratified society.

Town houses will mean that residents can enjoy all the amenities of living in a residential area while at the same time gaining the advantages of apartment living.

Mansion Style

To blend in with the residential area town houses have been designed in a mansion style.

Along the streets, both straight and circular, ornamental street lighting will be used to give brightness to the area without detracting from the quiet residential atmosphere.

Throughout the entire area houses are angled so that the eye does not run down a row of front doorways. And with the setback of each house varied the landscaping around every home can have its own individuality.

Fences, used where necessary to give privacy, are juxtaposed so as not to give the impression of barriers. In design and color they conform with the house.

Everywhere emphasis is on the individual while at the same time conforming to an orderly plan.

MODEL of University Village on display this weekend in the basement of Japanese show home is having landscape details adjusted by Roy Garside.

NEW PATTERN

Months of Planning Went Into Village

The old model-T changed everything. With faster locomotion the working man no longer needed to live next door to the factory. He, too, could move out into the green belt, previously thought of as the domain of the aristocracy.

If the greenbelt was the utopia of the aristocracy then why shouldn't it be enjoyed by the middle-class man, now that he was mobile.

The mass exodus to the suburbs began.

In time the very reason for this mass movement was eliminated by the inundation of more and more people.

A new kind of community developed. But it was not the utopia the original suburban migrants had envisaged.

The suburbs grew like "Topsy," without any overall or long-range plan.

Communal Waste

The result was a pattern which is described in "The City as History" by Lewis Mumford as, "a multitude of uniform, unidentifiable houses, lined up inflexibly, at uniform distance on uniform roads in a treeless communal waste, inhabited by people of the same class, the same income, the same age group, witnessing the same television performance, eating the same tasteless prefabricated foods, from the same freezers, conforming in every respect to a common mold, manufactured in the central metropolis."

It was the reaction against this uniformity of grey stucco boxes set in row upon row of square blocks that inspired Byron Price to design a community village.

The creation of University Village is the result of months and months of planning. Emphasis is on diversification. Suburban houses with an individuality are set in a community which also offers its own recreational and shopping services.

Located at Shelbourne and Blair, University Village occupies 50 acres of land in a rural setting within walking distance of the Gordon Head campus.

Because of the diversification which includes single family dwellings, semi-detached and town houses a wide range of people will be attracted to live in University Village. There will be families of different ages, of different incomes and with different size families.

Although new to Canada community villages have for some time been the accepted pattern of development in Europe.

Many Advantages

The idea of the community village is to offer services within the area of one's residence so that it becomes more than just four walls in which to retreat at the end of a day.

A recreational centre in the form of a country club house, two swimming pools and a park will offer residents of University Village an opportunity to meet and take part in community activities.

The country club and the swimming pools, which will be built in a grove of oak trees, will be owned by the community residents. As they buy their home they will also be buying a share in the recreation centre.

The two and a half acre park has been donated to the municipality of Saanich by the developers.

Included in this community village will be a landscaped mall with distinctively designed shops blending in with the overall architectural plan for the community.

Five schools in close proximity and a bus stop at the corner of Shelbourne complete the services offered at University Village.

New Concept In Planning

University Village is an example of a new concept in community planning.

Built by Vickery Construction Ltd., it is located in the Gordon Head area, just off Shelbourne at Blair.

An overall plan for approximately 200 houses, recreational centre and shopping mall, covering an area of 50 acres, is in the first stage of construction. Estimated cost is $3,000,000.

It is a suburban development but differs from the usual subdivision in that it is diversified and a community in itself.

Landscaping and house designs have been so planned that there is unity without uniformity.

With the inclusion of single, multiple and two-family dwellings a heterogeneous selection of people will be attracted to the area.

In order that University Village may live and function as a community, recreational and shopping facilities have been planned for the area. This includes a country club, two swimming pools, a two and a half-acre park and a distinctive shopping mall.

First stage of development at University Village can be seen this weekend when the doors of two model homes will be open to the public.

Latest in architectural design in Victoria is a Japanese-style house called "Pacific." Furnished in contemporary design with Oriental theme it will be open Saturday 10 a.m.-5 p.m., 7-9 p.m., and Sunday 1-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

During the same hours a semi-detached home, a duplex where there is private ownership, will also be open.

Several attendants will be on hand at all times to show interested visitors an example of the new style of living to be had in University Village.

Special Incentives Offered For Buying Your Own Home

For anyone wishing to buy a home, now is the hour. Never before have there been so many attractive incentives offered. Look at University Village in the Gordon Head area.

Not only are prices attractive, but a purchase now is an investment in the future with property in the Gordon Head area ever increasing in value.

For those who buy now they save $500 with the winter works bonus and avoid the proposed additional 4 per cent sales tax on building materials, effective April, 1964.

In addition a built-in dishwasher is being offered free to the first 25 contracts.

Equally as appealing are the prices. Priced as low as $11,595 and as high as $17,350 there is a house for every income bracket.

Down payments are fantastically low. As little as $295 can start you on the way to owning your own dream house.

LOOKS AT SPORTS

If there is anything straw hats and airports can't stand is seagulls.

Nothing can shatter the decor of a boater more than having it used for target practice by amazingly accurate gulls.

But man, always inventive, has ways to beat the rap. He can stand under a tree. He can save his hat by not wearing it to seaside picnics (though this is not recommended for gentlemen who have misplaced their hair).

At airports from Boston to Bombay the gull population has defied some of the nation's brightest brains. They have overcome congestion created by people, planes and parking.

To keep gulls out of the way of aircraft they have hired expert marksmen (a questionable tactic not admired by nervous pilots or nature lovers); played tape recordings which emitted loud, raucous noises (the gulls were fascinated and invited music-loving relatives to sit in); even resorted to crying "Shhh-oooo." The gulls merely retreated a few paces.

The nuisance turned into a peril a few years ago when a flock of 5,000 birds at a Boston airport caused an Electra to crash on takeoff with heavy loss of life. Newspaper files bulge with stories of frantic pilots landing almost literally with one wing, a prayer and duck in the cockpit or engine.

Last year the Transport Department, bowing to pressure, set up the awkwardly named "Associate Committee of Aircraft Engine Bird Strikes" to find a solution.

Pigeon People Ruined U.K. Program

The committee toured North America, the U.K. and Western Europe, found the bird problem worst at airports near water or food dumps.

Their ears went up when a U.K. official allowed that best results had been achieved with falcons. Sighing, the official admitted that the program was stopped when pigeon-racing breeders had gunned the falcons down, fearful their pets would be mistaken for lowly-bred gulls.

The committee acted quickly. To Frank Beebe, 660 Goyette, nationally recognized falconry expert, went an invitation to conduct an experiment on the feasibility of using falcons to disperse gulls.

In North America few men are better qualified than Francis Lyman Beebe. From boyhood in Lacombe, Alta., to his present status as wildlife illustrator, he has shown an uncommon zeal to familiarize himself with game.

Some of his illustrations along with his observations will appear shortly in "North American Falconry and Hunting Hawks," which could likely be the first major definitive treatise on the species.

His collaborator was Harold M. Webster, president of North America Falconry Association. He established the falcon mascot concept at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, where the sleek birds perform during halftime festivities at football games.

Disregarding skeptics' claims that the project was a waste of time because falcons had never shown animosity toward gulls, Beebe went into action with four peregrines lifted from their nests in the Queen Charlottes.

Falcon Attack 'Unnatural Situation'

An intense, dedicated man with a beak not unlike those of his nestlings, Beebe and amateur falconer Brian Davies (whom Beebe is grooming to carry on if the project expands) began their three-stage program in June.

They built decoy gulls, fastened chicken heads between their wings and swung them on a rope in broken patterns to teach the falcons the concept of pursuit.

In stage two the falcons were permitted to track a lone gull of similar age held in captivity for the precise test. Stage three, begun Sept. 1 when Beebe took two months' leave from the Provincial Museum, involved twice-daily field trials "anywhere we could find gulls."

So successful has been the work of Jane, Dinty, Specs and Nails ("she was a tough case—miserable to work with") that practically every gull in these parts has developed ulcers from worry.

Pleased but not surprised, Beebe goes no further than his critics' assessment for the explanation. "The fact that gulls are not normally attacked by falcons and that the attacks constitute an alarming, unnatural situation, making them (the gulls) nervous and ill at ease, is the most important single element in the falcon's effectiveness."

This week the Associate Committee, etc., accompanied by Transport Department and airline officials, dropped in for a look at Beebe's pocket commandoes. Chairman Malcolm Kuhring admitted "it looks promising," indicated he would report favorably to Ottawa.

When Gull Gets Careless, It's Over

Earlier y'r skeptic servant accompanied Beebe on a trial run.

Spotting a sizeable gull flock in a puddle-splashed pasture, Beebe held Dinty aloft and said, "Go get them, girl." Dinty jetted bullet-straight into the aroused gull squadron. Fixing her sights on one gull ("we teach them one-on-one attack, not merely to disperse") the aerial battle began.

While the rest of the flock made noises like a wrestling crowd pulling for the "good guy," the earmarked gull began to climb. Dinty followed, power-dived. The gull ducked sharply inward, missing capture by inches. On the ground Beebe was nonplussed. "It's just a matter of time."

"Thermodynamics are involved here," Beebe said, "but the gull with it's larger wings can climb in smaller circles, forcing the falcon to the outside where she has to do a wide sweep; after a while, the gull, through exhaustion or carelessness or fright, doesn't evade quickly enough and the grab is made."

Upstairs, Dinty zeroed in over the gull's head, dropped her talons firmly across the gull's beak as taught. The pursuit was over. They fluttered to the ground like wind-blown leaves in autumn.

Beebe ran to them, tenderly lifted Dinty off the gull before her neck could be air-conditioned by the falcon's piercing beak.

While this onlooker gazed in awe, Beebe asked without looking up, "See any gulls around?"

From here to Boston, which is as far as this myopic essayist can see, there wasn't a gull loitering. From now on, strawhatters and airports may never have it so good.

Soggy Course Suits Westminster Runner

The heron is a wading bird, and Ken Herron does rather well in that department, too!

Herron, carrying the colors of New Westminster's Lester Pearson High School, covered the soggy 2½-mile course in 11 minutes two seconds to win top honors in a cross-country race at Victoria High Friday.

Although teammate John Mynott finished second, 17 seconds behind Herron, the team title went to Victoria University, which placed four men in the top 10.

Shawnigan Lake's Mark Gibson was third in 11:32 and university's John Cliff was fourth (11:38). Esquimalt placed the next three runners—Ken Blunt (11:39), Barry Sullivan (11:41), and Ken Fyvie (11:42)—to finish third in the over-all team standings.

University's Bill Blann (11:44), Bruce Mitchell (11:49) and Gary Kidson (11:51) rounded out the top 10.

Shawnigan Lake was fourth in the team picture, followed by Vic High, Oak Bay, Naden and Belmont.

Jumping Jackie Here Tonight

Leaping over stick as he starts rush from own end, Victoria's Jackie Wilson shows he makes up for lack of weight with agility and aggressiveness as he bids for regular defence berth on Canada's Olympic hockey team. Wilson, a 160-pounder, and rest of Olympians will be at Memorial Arena tonight for game against Edmonton Oil Kings, Canada's junior champions. Olympians nipped Kings 2-0 Friday night at UBC.

Oil Kings Making Fans Forget the 'Junior' Tag

VANCOUVER — The word "junior" sometimes throws hockey fans who "aren't in the know."

Some wrongly associate "juniors" with the still-learning-to-skate class.

The fact is, however, the largest crowd ever to see a hockey game in Canada was one that turned out to see a Memorial Cup (junior) playoff between Moose Jaw Canucks and Toronto St. Michael's in the late '40s.

Professional hockey men will go out of their way to see a good junior team.

Edmonton Oil Kings, the defending Canadian champions, are "a good one" and Friday they gave many West Coast fans a new concept of the word "junior." Attracting an overflow crowd of 2,800 to UBC's Winter Sports Centre, Oil Kings were impressive despite dropping a 2-0 decision to the Canadian Olympic hockey team.

The teams meet for the third time in little more than a week tonight in Victoria's Memorial Arena. The Olympians defeated Oil Kings, 5-2, in Edmonton last Friday night.

Centre Gary Dineen of Montreal, at 19 the youngest member of the Olympic team, scored a goal in the first period, and assisted on the clincher scored in the third period by defenceman Ross Morrison.

The Oil Kings turned the tables on the checking-conscious Olympians by doing a bit of forechecking of their own. Again and again, they disorganized the Olympic attack and only the fine goalkeeping of Ken Broderick kept Edmonton from scoring.

Broderick blocked 32 shots in recording the Olympic team's first shut out in 10 games. Edmonton goalie Russ Kirk stopped 38.

Edmonton's best chance came in the first period when Glen Sather found himself wide open on a rebound. Goalie Broderick was sliding across the goalmouth the other way, but Sather fired the puck wide.

Rudolph in Good Spot To Snap Win Drought

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Mason Rudolph lengthened his lead in the $25,000 Fresno Open golf tournament Friday when he shot a five-under-par 67 for a 133 total and a five-stroke margin at the halfway mark.

Rudolph, who hasn't won a tournament since 1959 but ranks tenth in this year's Professional Golfers Association money winning list, was hot with his irons in his 34-33 round over the 7,181-yard, par 36-36—72 San Joaquin Country Club course.

Tommy Aaron stayed in second place with a 68-70—138 and had a one-stroke edge over third-place Buster Cupit, who carded a 68 Friday for his 139 total.

George Knudson of Toronto added a 69 to his Thursday 71 for fourth place at 140. The only other par-breakers for two rounds in the 72-hole tournament were Roger Ginsberg, Doug Sanders, Al Gelberger and Don Whitt, all at 143.

Al Johnston of Montreal was tied for ninth place with four others after shooting 71 Thursday and 73 Friday for a 144 total.

TITTLE VS. BROWN

TEST FOR PACKERS

It's Do-or-Die for the Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—Buffalo and New York are slight favorites tonight in two American League games that open a busy weekend in United States pro football.

Seven National Football League games, including a New York Giants-Cleveland Browns rematch, and two more in the AFL will round out the schedule Sunday.

It will be do-or-die for the Giants in Cleveland, where Y. A. Tittle again will try to outscore Jimmy Brown. However, the most important test of all may come in Baltimore where Green Bay must try to move the ball without Bart Starr, the injured quarterback. Packer hopes of a third straight NFL title hinge on their success in overcoming this handicap.

Tonight's action finds Buffalo at home to the Boston Patriots, who share the eastern division lead with Houston.

New York Jets return to the Polo Grounds against Denver Broncos after losing two California games that cost them the eastern lead.

The big one in the NFL will be played at Cleveland before 80,000 plus. The Giants, trailing by two full games, know they have to win to stay alive against the all-winning Browns, 6-0 to New York's 4-2.

The Browns are favored on Brown's running and Frank Ryan's passing. But the Giants are confident they can give Tittle better protection this time. Two weeks ago the Browns won 35-24.

Vince Lombardi of Green Bay has to fall back on John Roach, the stand-in for Starr, who suffered a broken hand at St. Louis.

Chicago Bears return to Wrigley Field, no longer unbeaten but tied with Green Bay for the Western lead at 5-1. The Bears face the injury-weakened Eagles, who won't have Sonny Jurgensen. King Hill will pass with Ralph Guglielmi, picked up from New York on waivers, as his back-up man.

In other NFL games Sunday, Philadelphia is at Chicago, St. Louis at Washington, Dallas at Pittsburgh, Minnesota at Detroit and San Francisco at Los Angeles.

Spain, U.S. Tied; Canadians Fifth

Nicklaus Fires Six-Under 66 In Third Round

(CP from Reuters-AP)

VERSAILLES, France—The United States and Spain took joint leadership in the Canada Cup golf tournament here today with 54-hole aggregate scores of 416.

Canada's Stan Leonard, and Al Balding, who were in a three way deadlock for second place at the halfway stage of the 72-hole contest, slipped today to fifth spot in the team standings with a 422 agregate.

Vancouver's Leonard shot 71 on the third round and Balding, of Markham, Ont., carded 73.

Jack Nicklaus fired a scorching 66—six under par—to keep the Americans in the running for a second straight championship. Arnold Palmer, his teammate, shot a 72.

South Africa, which led at the end of Friday's second round, slipped to one stroke behind the United States and Spain with a score of 417.

PLAYER CARDS 67

Gary Player shot a five-under-par 67 but his South African teammate, Retief Waltman, slumped to a 73.

Australia was fourth with 420.

The Spanish team of Sebastian Miguel and Raymond Sota kept up their brilliant golfing, although losing a two-stroke lead to the Americans after the first nine holes of today's third round.

Miguel, who scored a first-round 66, had a 70 today while Sota fired a 68.

TIES PLAYER

Nicklaus' 66 matched Miguel's opening-round score as the best of the tournament so far and put the American into a first-place tie with Player at 205 in the duel for the International Trophy, which goes to the individual champion.

Sota was next in the individual standings at 207, followed by Miguel and Bruce Crampton of Australia at 209. Palmer has a 54-hole total of 211, tied with Balding and Leonard and Australia's Bruce Devlin.

Leonard and Balding dropped back after presenting Friday's gallery with a smaller dose of par-breaking golf.

Balding rallied on the incoming nine Friday after using 37 strokes on the front side of the 6,834-yard, 36-36—72 Saint-Nom-la-Breteche course.

CAMERA HAZARD

"I had only two one-putt greens," he said. "I picked up my birdies on the long holes."

Leonard, like Balding, used 34 putts as both had 71.

Balding stayed with par until the difficult ninth hole, but he bunkered his tee shot and finished with a four which was one over par.

Palmer, distressed by grinding movie cameras and clicking press cameras, shot a 70, while the muscular Nicklaus, his chipping irons stone cold, had to settle for a par-72.

"We have to get cracking," Palmer said after the U.S. pair had completed their second rounds, both disgusted with their performances.

RICH DOUBLE AT AQUEDUCT

NEW YORK (AP) — The Aqueduct daily double soared past the $1,000 mark Friday for the second time this week and the fifth time of the New York season. Kitty Quick and Exposure combined for a $1,686.40-$2 return.

Kitty Quick ($41.50) won the opener, and Exposure ($51.70) took the second race. On Monday, Franvrig and Shutter Shy paid $1,392.50.

Pari-Mutuels Show 42% Gain In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Pari-mutuel betting in British Columbia was 42 per cent higher in 1963 than the previous year, William Street told the Pacific National Exhibition board of directors in a progress report Thursday. He said attendance at Exhibition Park race track was up 20 per cent over 1962.

Lion Halfback Has Cracked Rib

VANCOUVER (CP) — Steve Shafer, defensive halfback with British Columbia Lions, has suffered a cracked rib and may miss Sunday's Western Football Conference game with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Shafer suffered the injury in Saturday's game here against Edmonton but it wasn't discovered until practice Tuesday night.

HAWKS OUTSHOT

Hall's Proving Goalies' Value

By The Canadian Press

How much of a factor is goal-tending in the National Hockey League?

Some people who know estimate it's as much as 50 per cent of the game.

Any conclusions drawn from statistics applicable to goaltending should allow for other considerations.

The figures that tell you how many saves a goaltender makes, for example, give no indication of how difficult the shots were, and there is no tangible way of calculating that.

But exercises along this line are one of the few yardsticks available.

Let's take a look at goaltending in the current NHL season from a slightly different viewpoint: Shots on goal by the other fellow.

GLENN HALL

Based on 17 games played so far, the records show it really isn't necessary to outshoot the opposition, provided you have the goaltending to back up whatever attack you can muster.

HAWKS ATOP LEAGUE

Chicago Black Hawks and their all-star goalie Glenn Hall, for example, top the standings with four wins and a tie in six games. Yet they have outshot the other clubs only twice while salvaging one sawoff.

On the other hand, Montreal Canadiens have piled up an edge in shots in all five of their games. They lie fifth in the standings with two wins and a tie.

CANADIANS LEAD

The Canadiens, incidentally, lead the league offensively with an average of 44 shots a game. Boston's impotent Bruins, winless in seven starts, are at the other end of the scale with an average of 26.

Other clubs and their averages: Detroit (37); Toronto (36); Chicago (36); New York (35).

The schedule proffers five games this weekend. The Hawks and Canadiens go at it tonight in Montreal while the Rangers tangle with the Maple Leafs in Toronto.

Sunday night, it's Montreal at Detroit, Toronto at Boston and Chicago at New York.

STAMPEDERS, ROUGHIES START SEMI ON NOV. 9

WINNIPEG (UPI) — Canadian Football League comissioner G. Sydney Halter has announced that the first game of the Western Conference semifinals will be played in Calgary Saturday, Nov. 9, at 2 p.m.

He said the second game of the Stampeder-Saskatchewan Roughrider two-game, total-point series will be played in Regina Nov. 11, at 8 p.m.

The finals will be played Nov. 16, 20 and, if necessary, Nov. 23. The Saturday, Nov. 16 and 23 games will be afternoon contests.

The commissioner said sites for the games will depend on where the first-place British Columbia Lions choose to play the first one. If the Lions decide to play the first away from home, the second and third will be played in Vancouver. If the Lions elect to play the first at home, the second and third will be played in either Calgary or Regina.

BUT CHIEFS WIN

Vikings Continue Spirited Showing

Don't let that 0-2, won-lost record fool you—the Vikings seem destined to survive their slow start in the Esquimalt District Hockey League.

Despite the two setbacks—6-4 to Navy and an 8-6 setback Friday at the hands of defending champion Pontiac Chiefs—Victoria University's entry has been impressive.

Vikings were at their scrappiest best Friday night in a wild game that produced six majors in the final period and a four-goal effort by Collegian Glen Harper.

CROWD-PLEASER

From the sound of things, the Sports Centre crowd of 800 loved it.

In addition to Harper's four, Vikings also got goals from Brian Johnson and Jim Wilson.

Chiefs, showing a little more depth, hit the scoreboard on shots by Jim Bronson (2), Walt Evanschu, Bill German, Doug Couch, Keith Lawrence, Sandy George and Bob Fowler.

The third-period fireworks occurred when Vikings' Doug Bamborough and Ted Sarkissian tangled with German and Ben Price of the Chiefs. Bamborough and German went at it again before the period ended.

Lacking Power Off the Tee? Work on Legs

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Next time you're at the 19th hole and the club bore starts talking about the secrets of long hitting, get ready to strike back.

If he says it's all in the hands and the way you hold your club, tell him to think again. It may be that the legs have it.

This revolutionary notion, shattering the patter of professionals everywhere, emerges amid the first tentative findings of a scientific group trying to find out just what makes a power hitter in golf.

The experiments are taking place at a medical research centre in London's Hamstead district. The centrepiece is a device called a Force Analysis Platform, popularly known as FAP, which records reactions on a multi-channel photographic recorder.

Three top golfers, including Dai Rees of Wales, stand on the platform driving balls into a screen. One graph records total downward force exerted by feet and body; another measures lateral horizontal force; a third registers fore-and-aft force.

Preliminary studies indicate uniformity in the swing's tempo around the point of impact, and disparities in the downswing and follow through.

LEG STRAIGHTENS

The graph recording foot pressure shows a pronounced peak just before contact with the ball. Writer Geoffrey Cousins, commenting in a bulletin of the Golf Society of Great Britain, says this peak is "obviously caused" by a sudden straightening of the left leg.

Rees shows this type of peak, Cousins says, even though he is about 30 pounds lighter than the other two swingers. From this Cousins deduces that Rees may "stamp" his foot vigorously just before impact. This may explain why he apparently builds up his downswing slowly and accelerates after impact.

Pursuing the point, Cousins recalls that Britains Abe Mitchell, one of the great drivers of a bygone era, had extremely strong legs and, like Rees, a short, fast follow through.

"He achieved his great length, I am sure, by a rhythmic build-up of speed which carried on well beyond impact as well as imparting great power through strong legs just when most needed."

So stop worrying about your wrists, men, and go to work on those flabby calf muscles. They may be trying to blind you with science, but it's a welcome new twist on the old it's-all-in-your-hands story.

BOWLER OF WEEK

City women's all-events queen in 1960, Anne Goodman collected more tenpin honors last week when she topped distaff division in Times Bowler-of-the-Week competition. Anne, who bowls in three leagues, posted three-game tally of 590 in Wednesday Ladies' League at Mayfair on games of 191, 235 and 164. Watching Mrs. Goodman's winning effort were her son and daughter, vacationing in city from jobs with Edmonton newspaper.

GORDIE HOWE'S HOCKEY

Playing different positions is good experience for any youngster coming up. The year I was goalie for the King George School team I played defence in a peewee league, right and left wing for a couple of church teams as well as on the Salvation Army team.

In the Detroit Red Wing hockey school this year when a youngster said:

"I'm a right winger," I'd say: "Fine, get over on that left side, see how they play it over there." This is very good in the sense of knowing your position.

* * *

Uncalled times throughout your hockey career, through injuries or a sudden change of players, a right winger will have to get over on the left side so he should know how to patrol that side.

Sometimes there's a quick change and a player gets caught with a skate undone. If you're alert and see this and jump on the ice you may even pick up a defensive position. If you're serious about the game you should actually study all positions.

I wasn't actually big enough to play with the eighth-graders at the King George School—I was a fourth-grader. But they needed a goaltender and I wanted to play with them.

I made the club as a goaltender. I used to practise at night under the city lamp on the street with a rubber ball. I used to play goal by the hour.

I enjoyed it, had a lot of fun. It also helped me. I think it gave me a little bit of knowledge what the goaltenders are going through and that's why I got out of here.

If a forward makes a mistake, the defenceman behind you may cover it up. If a defenceman makes a mistake, he hopes the goaltender will save him. If a goalie makes a mistake, there's only one man behind him. He's the goal judge and he doesn't help anyone.

NFL Accepts Ford's Offer To Buy Lions

DETROIT (AP)—William Clay Ford's offer to buy Detroit Lions for $6,000,000 was accepted Friday by the National Football League club's board of directors. Final approval is required from the 144 stockholders of the Detroit Football Company.

The Lions' 13 directors voted unanimously to recommend that stockholders accept Ford's proposal. The stockholders are to give their decision at a meeting Nov. 22.

Ford, a member of the Ford automotive family, made his fer to the directors in a surprise move Oct. 15. He has been president of the Lions since 1961.

Top-Ranked Coach For Mary Stewart

VANCOUVER (UPI)—Vancouver swimmer Mary Stewart was to leave here today for six months' training under an American coach at Phoenix, Ariz.

Miss Stewart will train under Walt Schlueter, who coached the Portland Multnomah team to many U.S. titles, and also coached the 1951 U.S. women's Pan-American team. He is currently coach of the Arizona State College swim team.

Miss Stewart also disclosed that she has accepted an invitation to tour Rhodesia in January.

VALIANT WINS TWO IN ROW

Victoria runner John Valiant was trying for his third straight cross-country victory with Washington State University today in a triangular meet against University of Washington and University of Idaho at Pullman, Wash.

Valiant, a junior at WSU, led all runners in two successive meets—against Idaho and Whitworth College on Oct. 12, and last Saturday at Idaho.

ON THE ALLEYS

Moon Is Shining On Fivepin Lanes

Ernie Moon is a busy and efficient customer at bowling lanes these days.

Moon set the pace for fivepin spillers at two city bowling establishments this week. He included a sizzling single game of 348 as he chalked up a three-game total of 915 at Gibson's. Ernie also topped rivals at Loomer with a 797 series.

Here are the top scores reported from city lanes this week:

Gibson's Bowladrome — Ron Wilson 600 (212), Dave Lee 584 (224). Ladies—Izzy MacGillavrey 517 (207), Barb Higgens 517.

Aurora Lanes — Mike Gibbs 592 (202, 223), Hugh Reid 584 (216, 208), Stan Bashforth 576 (212), John Schapansky 574 (212), Bert Thirlwell 571 (204), Red Uhl 566, Charlie Cowie 556. Ladies — Bonita Loo 534 (201), Irma Weicker 583, Jane Humber 508 (180).

Mayfair Lanes — Ed Oliver 638 (230, 231), Richie Loo 633 (201, 206, 226), Bill Donnelly 607 (225), Rick Toller 594 (222, 200), Wally Ostafychuk 587 (210), Len Murrant 586 (219) and 555 (204), Les White 585 (212), Bill Coates 583 (217), Bill McKay 576, Ron Wilson 570 (200, 206), Morris Kersey 568, Derek Leonard 567, Jack Lim 566. JUNIOR TEAM PACKS IT UP FOR SEASON

Victoria's junior football team, the Hornets, have quietly folded their tent and called it a day.

A non-league team which scheduled several exhibitions, Hornets have cancelled out their last two games against teams from Vancouver's Big Four League.

A number of crippling injuries and "a general lack of interest" were the reasons given.

Smithers Puckman Signs Pro Pact

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Minneapolis Bruins of the Central Professional Hockey League Thursday signed 20-year-old defenceman Joe Watson of Smithers, B.C., to a professional contract.

Watson, who played hockey at Estevan, Sask., last year, had a five-game pro tryout with Bruins.

JUVENILE CLUBS TANGLE SUNDAY

Bay Hopes Running High

Can the Oak Bay defence do it again?

That will be the big question at Carnarvon Park Sunday as Oak Bay Farmers wind up their two-game, total-point Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League semi-final against Nanaimo Redmen.

The Farmer defence astounded Nanaimo fans last Sunday as they held the mighty Redmen to a single point after the first quarter. Redmen, who had racked up 237 points and yielded only six while waltzing to six straight league victories, managed an 8-7 win with some desperate defending in the final minute.

Nanaimo is still a heavy favorite to make it into the final but hope is running high in the Oak Bay camp that efforts by such defensive stalwarts as Jim Edwards, Bob Chewpey, Reg Fisher, Trev Locke, Norm Wilcox and George Adams will result in a resounding upset.

In the other semi-final, Victoria Vampires, trailing 7-6, meet the Raiders at Campbell River.

Game time at Carnarvon is 2 p.m.

TIP-A-DAY
by Jack Nicklaus
YOUR SWING GROWS UP WITH YOU
A NATURAL TENDENCY OF THE AVERAGE GOLFER IS TO SINGLE OUT A CERTAIN TOURNAMENT STAR AND ATTEMPT TO EMULATE HIS SWING. THIS CAN SOMETIMES DO MORE HARM THAN GOOD, SINCE THE THINGS THAT WORK FOR ONE GOLFER MAY NOT WORK FOR ANOTHER BECAUSE OF PERSONAL DIFFERENCES IN PHYSICAL AND MENTAL MAKE-UP.
I DON'T BELIEVE THAT A PERSON CAN DEVELOP A GOLF SWING. TO A DEGREE YOU CAN, BUT IN A STRICT SENSE, I FEEL THAT IT GROWS UP WITH YOU IN ACCORDANCE WITH YOUR PHYSICAL BUILD, HEREDITY, AND ENVIRONMENT. FOR EXAMPLE, THE TURNESA BROTHERS ALL HAVE THE SAME BASIC CHARACTERISTICS IN THEIR SWINGS. THE HEBERT BROTHERS, JAY AND LIONEL, ALSO HAVE SWINGS WHICH APPEAR SOMEWHAT ALIKE.
ALL GREAT PLAYERS HAVE ONE THING IN COMMON. THEY ALL EMPLOY THE SAME BASIC FUNDAMENTALS. EACH PLAYER MAY HAVE A SLIGHTLY DIFFERENT WAY OF EXECUTING THEM, BUT THEY ARE STILL THERE. SO LEARN THE FUNDAMENTALS AND APPLY THEM TO YOUR OWN SWING IN A WAY THAT HARMONIZES WITH YOUR STRENGTH AND BUILD.

Leo Labine Caps Los Angeles Rally

By The Canadian Press

Leo Labine, a colorful character when he toiled in the National Hockey League, is still providing thrills.

The veteran forward potted an overtime goal Friday night to give Los Angeles Blades a 5-4 win over Vancouver Canucks. In other Western Hockey League action, another veteran, former senior ace Ken Laufman, scored the winner as Portland Buckaroos dumped Seattle Totems 2-1.

Rookie Maurice Oftebro, playing his first professional game, scored a goal for the winners and Norm Johnson fired two.

The Blades, who trailed 4-1 early in the third period, finally sent it into overtime on a goal by Gord Vejprava.

Labine's winner came only 58 seconds after overtime started.

Arnie Schmautz and Seattle's Jim Powers scored four minutes apart in the second period to set up Laufman's winner.

Archer Upsets Carter

NEW YORK (AP)—Joey Archer scored his seventh straight victory and the most important of his career Friday night when he gained a split decision over top-ranking middleweight Rubin Carter in a close, spirited 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Carter was a 2-1 favorite.

Archer weighed 161 to Carter's 158.

A crowd of 8,592 paid $36,,417 for the first non-television show in the Garden in seven months. There were no knockdowns, although the fierce looking Carter staggered Archer with a left hook to the jaw in the last 15 seconds of the final round.

Referee Art Mercante, 5-4-1, and judge Tony Castellano, 6-4, voted for Archer. Judge Al Berl had Carter ahead, 5-4-1. The Associated Press card had Carter in front, 6-3-1.

RAZOR HAIRCUTTING STYLING

No Half-Way Venture; Y Program Real Thing!

Ask the YMCA "what's cooking?" in track and field these days and you'll get the answer, "Plenty—and on all burners."

Verily, this is so. An era of spasmodic operation has given away to a jet-age approach. Starting Monday the "Y" will hum two nights a week (Mondays and Wednesdays) 52 weeks straight through. Participants in track and field may get Christmas and New Year's off for good behavior, but that's about all.

"You can't be half in this business any more," Art Burgess Y physical education director, said today. "Experts maintain you have to train January through December, not March through September as we had been.

"With the expanded program there will be greater incentive, greater motivation for the youngsters. We don't know if we'll find a Lynn Eves, a Bill Dale or a Joe Addison among them but don't be surprised if we do."

SIZEABLE STAFF

Eves and Dale and Adddison cut broad figures in the world of spiked shoes, running with the familiar Y emblem on their blouses. So did Bob Hutchison, Bill Parnell, Cliff Salmon and Bruce Humber to name but a few.

But never in the history of the Y has their been such a sizeable and capable coaching staff geared to match the year-round scheme. Fred Eagle, assistant to Burgess, has been named co-ordinator. And he smiles whenever he thinks of what he has to work with . . .

Ole Sarakannes (say it Saracan-nayes), Finnish and friendly, will handle the middle-distance and cross country runners . . .

Gerard Dumas (like in "puma"—the "a" is long, the "s" silent) French and free-wheeling, will tutor pole vaulters, jumpers and weight-lifters . . .

PUSH AND POLISH

Dave Jones (like in Jones), a whiz with the Victoria Vampires Track Club, will take the sprinters . . .

Put together they give the Y push and polish. Art Burgess will talk your arm off if you let him, and even if you won't, about what the Y ultimately hopes to achieve.

Even the most pessimistic observer would have to agree that, starting Monday, Burgess and Co. will be making a real shot at turning out the finest club in its history.

'JEALOUS LIES' ALLEGED

Sisters Bare Their Claws In Bitter Viet Nam Feud

The conflict in South Viet Nam between Buddhists and the government is mirrored by a bitter feud between Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu and some members of her own family. In the following interview, Mme. Nhu's younger sister contends her sister's attacks are "jealous lies."

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The younger sister of Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu challenged the "first lady" of South Viet Nam today to return home and give up politics "before she does more harm to our country."

Speaking out in an interview on the ninth anniversary of President Ngo Dinh Diem's election, Mrs. Tran Le Chi said:

"I think there is nothing to rejoice about this year. The situation is even worse than it was before President Ngo Dinh Diem and his family came to power. The people were not as unhappy then as they are now."

"I am a Catholic," she said. "I am really sad for the Catholics in Viet Nam because the work of so many missionaries for so long will be lost because of the action of this family.

"I would like the Catholics of America to understand that this struggle is not between Catholics and the Buddhists. Even the Catholics are suffering from this situation."

The Diem family, as well as Mme. Nhu, are Roman Catholics.

BUDDHISTS UNARMED

"What is so terrible in this crackdown by the government, is that the Buddhists do not protest violently — they have no arms.

"My sister should be their sister and ask them why they are unhappy."

She said that Ngo Dinh Nhu should "tell his wife to stop talking and give up politics." Nhu, President Diem's brother, is considered by many to be the real power in the regime.

Tran Le Chi, attractive like her sister, said that she would not be talking about political matters now had she not been attacked by Mme. Nhu during her current speaking tour in the United States.

Mme. Nhu has told audiences in Washington and elsewhere that Tran Le Chi's husband, Nguyen Huu Chau, had divorced her and that her sister had acquired a French "protege" whom she had tried to save from expulsion from Viet Nam on grounds of smuggling.

She said the Frenchman was not a "protege," but a member of a well-known family in Viet Nam who wanted to marry her.

"He has never been charged with any criminal offence in any court by any government."

Tran Le Chi said that when there were reports that the order to expel the Frenchman came from her sister, Mme. Nhu, she hurried to the palace to explain the circumstances to President Diem.

"But Mme. Nhu had ordered her secret police to arrest me. "They took me to a hospital, locked me in a room and put five secret policemen on guard outside the door."

"I thought in spite of her jealousy, Mrs. Nhu still had a soul and a heart. So I used a broken glass from my watch and cut my wrist. I was not trying to kill myself but I hoped to waken her up from her tyranny."

"Instead of being touched by my act, she seemed sorry that I had not killed myself or crippled myself for life.

"I wrote a cablegram to my mother (Madame Tran Van Chuong, then South Viet Nam's observer at the United Nations) in Washington and persuaded a nurse to send it for me."

"My mother rushed to Saigon to rescue me. Mrs. Nhu's behavior now reveals her bitterness that I escaped from her claws."

Canyon Reopened

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The Fraser Canyon section of the Trans-Canada Highway, closed because of slides since Thursday, was opened for traffic at 10 a.m. today. The regional highways department engineer here said construction areas between Yale and Boston Bar are slightly muddy but rocks and earth had been removed from the road in the slide area.

You are invited to submit questions on insurance and similar matters for inclusion in this column. The origin of such queries is kept entirely confidential.

Q. I have no garage and am forced to leave my car parked in front of my house at nights. Does my insurance give me protection against acts of vandalism such as the overturning of automobiles on Halloween night, damage to fences, buildings, etc.?

A. Yes. If you carry comprehensive coverage then you have protection under the clause dealing with "Malicious Mischief," subject to a $25 deductible clause if applicable, but you would be wise to check your policy to be sure this is included.

FIXED DATE FOR EASTER

Catholics Back Perpetual Calendar

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council voted Friday to put the Roman Catholic church on record as willing to accept a fixed date for Easter and a new universal calendar.

The cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops and bishops attending the assembly—by a vote of 2,057 to 4, with one void ballot—agreed the council should declare it does not oppose a perpetual calendar, providing other Christian churches accept it and providing it retains a seven-day week, including Sunday.

By a vote of 2,058 to 9, with one void ballot, the council fathers declared themselves favorable to fixing the date of Easter on the same Sunday each year.

Vatican sources say the church has no plans to go ahead alone in changing the calendar or fixing the Easter date. They say Roman Catholicism simply wants to show it has no religious objection to—and actually favors—whatever the civil authorities of the world want in the way of calendar reform.

The perpetual calendar would make dates always fall on the same day of the week, year after year. Jan. 1 would always be a Sunday, for example, instead of rotating among the seven days of the week.

NO-NAME DAY

The year would have eight months of 30 days each and four months of 31 for a total of 364 days. The extra day each year—a day without a name—would be a world-wide holiday.

When to celebrate Easter has been in dispute since the second century.

Soviet Circus Seen On Sullivan Show Sunday at 8 P.M.

Edmonton Esks Meet Calgary Stampeders Tonight at 8:30 on Channels 6 and 2

By Ron Sudlow

This weekend's television fare will range from the dancing bears of the Moscow State Circus to dancing debuntantes at the April in Paris Ball, the opener of New York society's 1963-64 season.

The acts of the world-famous Moscow State Circus will make up the entire hour of Ed Sullivan's show Sunday at 8 p.m. on Channels 6, 2, 7 and 12.

The Russian stars were taped in a performance at Wembley Stadium, London. This will be North America's first look at most of the artists.

Featured acts include the Kochenov Cossack Riders on horseback, a Russian bear riding a motorcycle and the aerial ballet of Irina and Petr Schentinini.

The 12th annual April in Paris Ball will be telecast Sunday at 10 p.m. on Channel 5.

The event, which costs $150 a ticket, is considered the most successful and expensive of the society-charity affairs of the New York season.

Via video tape (the ball was held Friday night), viewers will be able to see the latest in fashions and drool at an elaborate banquet and a variety of French wines. If you don't like food, you can drool at the debutantes.

One of the evening's highlights will be a "Show within a Show" starring Liza Minnelli, daughter of Judy Garland, Peter Duchin, Frank Sinatra Jr. and Maurice Chevalier.

TV hostess is Lisa Kirk who is joined by host Jean Pierre Aumont.

And there's even more dancing scheduled for Sunday as Walt Disney starts a two-part musical biography spanning Johann Strauss' early struggles, his triumphs and his romance with a beautiful opera singer at 6 p.m. on Channel 8 and at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 5.

In Sunday's episode he becomes embroiled with his father in a family feud and is asked to leave the household. But after his first ballroom debut his father makes a dramatic on-stage reconciliation and pays homage to his son's talent.

Other highlights this weekend in order of appearance:

TONIGHT

5:30: Channels 6, 2: Chicago Black Hawks invade Montreal Forum for a game with Canadiens.

7:30: Channel 4: Boston University is the scene for this week's Hootenanny featuring the Chad Mitchell Trio, funnyman Woody Allen, Leon Bibb, Jo Mapes, Mike Settle, Richard and Jim and a group called the Big Three.

Channel 5: Lieut. Bill Rice offers sympathy to the lonely wife of a fellow Marine officer—until he is warned that he is becoming the centre of a scandal on The Lieutenant.

8:00: Channel 8: A cold-blooded killer hides behind his reputation as an easy going unimpressive cowpoke on tonight's Gunsmoke story. Also seen at 10 p.m. on Channel 7.

8:30: Channels 6, 2: Clarke Stadium is the scene of a football contest between the hometown Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Stampeders.

Channel 4: Lawrence Welk offers a Halloween show.

9:00: Channel 7: Attorneys Lawrence and Kenneth Preston handle a medical malpractice suit after a man dies on the operating table on The Defenders. But they run into difficulties when they find doctors will not usually testify against one another.

This show was also seen Thursday on the CBC network.

9:30: Channel 4: Guesting on Jerry Lewis' weekly two-hour variety show are Peggy Lee, Robert Goulet, comedian George Kirby and Lucho Novarro, who does sound effects.

SUNDAY

11:00: Channels 6, 2: Chicago's rugged Bears, leading team in the Western Conference with a 5-0 record, put up their stingy defensive squad against the passing arm of Philadelphia Eagles' Sonny Jurgenson.

11:30: Channel 5: Open End discusses "Goldwater for President: A Triumph or a Disaster for the Republican Party."

Channel 7: Movie. "Let's Face It" (1943). Bob Hope, Betty Hutton.

Channel 12: Movie. "The Love Lottery" (English, 1954). David Niven, Peggy Cummins.

12:30: Channel 4: Defending divisional champs Kansas City Chiefs and Houston Oilers meet in an AFL contest at Jeppesen Stadium, Houston.

Channel 8: B.C. Lions play their second-last game of the regular schedule against Winnipeg Blue Bombers who lost in their bid for the third and last playoff spot Thursday when Saskatchewan defeated Montreal.

1:30: Channels 7, 12: Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49ers continue their rivalry in the day's last football telecast.

2:00: Channel 5: Movie. "Eight Iron Men" (1952). Lee Marvin, Bonar Colleano.

4:00: Channel 4: New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller is asked about his chances as a possible Republican candidate for president on Issues and Answers.

Channel 5: Debut of a show titled Sunday, which takes the form of a magazine, bringing viewers news, features and even book reviews.

5:00: Channels 6, 2: Final show in the Winston Churchill series.

6:00: Channel 5: Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland will be the guest of Meet the Press.

Channel 7: The life of a YMCA field worker at his daily task of helping Chicago's trouble youths fight against slum life is seen in the first program in the Twentieth Century series.

Channel 8: First segment of Walt Disney's two-parter on Johann Strauss is telecast.

6:30: Channel 5: KING-TV cameras tour Seattle Centre Playhouse and look in on rehearsals for "King Lear" and a comedy called "The Fire-bugs."

7:00: Channels 6, 2: Hazel becomes irate when she learns her boss is involved in a move to break up her favorite professional football team, the Los Angeles Rams. Star halfback Jon Arnett is seen in this episode.

8:00: Channel 7: Ed Sullivan devotes his hour to the Moscow State Circus.

9:00: Channels 6, 2, 5: Nature-loving Hoss Cartwright has a brush with the spiritual world and learns of a new kind of strength on Bonanza.

Channels 7, 12: June Allyson and Steve Lawrence are Judy Garland's headliners, along with regular Jerry Van Dyke.

10:00: Channels 6, 2: Horizon, the CBC's news-analysis program, presents a panel discussion on what is happening in the universe and the possibilities of life on other planets.

Channel 4: Hal March welcomes Louis Nye, Bob Cummings, Bill Dana and Pat Harrington Jr. on Laughs for Sale.

Channel 5: Video tape telecast of the April in Paris Ball.

CUT-UP — Jane Wyman will probably go to pieces when magician Carl Ballantine of McHale's Navy saws her in half Tuesday at 10 p.m. on Channel 5 on the Andy Williams Show. Ernest Borgnine, Ballantine's skipper will also be appearing.

DANCES FOR DANNY—Glamorous Juliet Prowse will perform a dance number on the Danny Kaye Show Wednesday at 10 p.m. on Channels 7 and 12. In another sequence, she will pair with Danny and Howard Morris to show how a Western movie would be filmed in America, Russia and Scotland.

Carol Signs For Three CBS Specials

Carol Burnett will star in three specials planned for presentation during the 1963-64 season on the CBS Television Network, it was announced today by Michael H. Dann, vice-president in charge of programs.

First program will be the highly-publicized Calamity Jane, a musical comedy to be broadcast in November.

In the fall of 1964 Miss Burnett will star in Once Upon a Mattress, a 90-minute musical comedy adapted from the off-Broadway musical of the same title in which she appeared in 1959. The red-headed comedienne will play the role of Princess Winnifred (Just call me Fred) in this free adaptation of the old fairy tale The Princess and the Pea, which was written by Marshall Barer, with music composed by Mary Rodgers. The original stage presentation was directed by the dean of Broadway musical comedy directors, George Abbott.

The other specials in which Miss Burnett will star are an hour-long musical variety show, as yet untitled, planned for next spring, and Carol and Company, fast-paced music and comedy revue, starring Miss Burnett and Robert Preston, planned for rebroadcast next summer.

New Romance Blossoms For Elvis

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This is news to make the younger set flip — Elvis Presley and Ann-Margaret are having a romance.

At least that's the way it looks. You can't always be sure about romances of co-stars in Hollywood. Sometimes they will flame while the movie is being made and released, then sputter out when all the publicity has been garnered.

That's why some local citizens are casting a dubious eye on the reports about Elvis and A-M. After all, they are appearing opposite each other in "Viva Las Vegas."

Well, seeing is believing and their behavior on the film set might make you believe that something is brewing between the two. They hold hands. They disappear into his dressing room between shots. They lunch together in seclusion.

Between takes, Elvis was available for one of his laconic conversations. What about this girl Ann-Margaret?

"She's really got magnetism, that girl," he said.

He was speaking of her professional style and added that he had seen all of her movies. All except Bye Bye Birdie. He's going to get around to it some day, he said.

Ann-M, fetching in a sheer, skin-tight leotard, was evasive. When asked if a romance was blooming, she responded with a shake of her red tresses. "That's something I won't talk about."

CBS Producer Seeks Rare Film Footage

John Sharnik, producer of the First World War series to be presented on the CBS television network during the 1964-65 season, is on a four-week tour of nine European countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

His mission: to uncover rare film and other documentation about the first global conflict.

The CBS News series is television's first full-scale treatment of both the social and military history of the first two decades of this century. Its presentation is scheduled to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the outbreak of the First World War.

Sharnik is extending and intensifying the search for rare film footage begun by Burton Benjamin and Isaac Kleinerman, with whom he is producing the series. Benjamin made a seven-week overseas production trip this spring and Kleinerman is currently in Europe.

Sharnik will spend his time looking through government archives and hunting down private collections. He hopes to uncover a detailed record of a particular area's role in the First World War, the first major period of time when an organized effort was made to record history on motion-picture film.

A great body of film on the First World War is known to exist, but it is likely to turn up in unexpected places, i.e., films of wartime Germany may be in French archives, or films of events in France might be found in Turkey.

Another factor adding to the excitement and uncertainty of the search, Sharnik says, is that events in the early part of this century were recorded on nitrate film, which not only is highly inflammable but decomposes if not properly stored.

"You open a film can only to find that the precious record his dissolved," he explains. "Fortunately, it often happens that safety film duped from the original nitrate turns up in some other archive."

Sharnik has already viewed hundreds of thousands of feet of the First World War film and expects to see thousands more before he returns to the United States.

'Great Adventure' Dramatizes Work Of Abolitionist

Intertel Documentary on Antarctica Seen Thursday at 10 P.M., Channel 2

Negress Ruby Dee will portray Harriet Tubman, a woman credited with helping more than 300 slaves to escape in the 1850s, Friday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 7, on The Great Adventure.

Also starring in this historical drama are Ethel Waters, Brock Peters and Ossie Davis.

By 1850, feelings were mounting against slavery and the exodus of slaves escaping to the north had increased. An organization was formed to aid them — an organization composed mainly of Quakers, Abolitionists and escaped slaves.

It was known as the Underground Railroad and its members used common railroad terms to mask its activies.

Harriet Tubman was one of the Underground Railroad's first "conductors" — a job which was to result in slaveholders' putting a $50,000 price on her head.

Later Friday evening, some 50 eager aspirants for the title of Miss Teenage America will display their poise, talent, personality and skill at improvisation in an hour-long telecast originating from Dallas, Texas, at 10 p.m. on Channel 7.

The entrants are all secondary-school students of high scholastic standing and range in age from 13-17.

Speaking of teenagers, remember Sherry Jackson, that sweet young thing who played the daughter of Danny Williams on the Danny Thomas Show?

Viewers will note she has aged quite a bit as she portrays an alcoholic bride of a school teacher on Mr. Novak Sunday at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 8 and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m on Channel 5.

In the storyline, teacher John Novak gives a recommendation to a teacher who once had a drinking problem. He gets the job, but his wife threatens to ruin his new career by staggering onto the campus sloppy drunk.

Scientific research carried on by 12 nations will be the subject of a film titled "Twelve Flags South" to be telecast on Intertel Thursday at 10 p.m. on Channel 2.

The countries have signed the Antarctica treaty which stipulates there should be no borders, no passports, no military armaments, no nuclear explosions and no dumping of atomic waste in Antarctica.

The film will show how they have turned the continent into a vast, frozen laboratory for peaceful exploration and research.

Also this week:

MONDAY

8:00: Channels 6, 2: Witches fly through the air and the spirit of Halloween pervades the atmosphere in the production number on this week's Garry Moore Show. Guesting will be Allan Sherman, who does a medley of selections from his albums, "My Son, the Celebrity," "My Son, the Folksinger," and "My Son, the Nut."

8:30: Channel 8: Ensign Parker is the envy of McHale and his pirates as he draws the assignment of teaching basic training to a group of navy nurses.

9:00: Channels 6, 2: Roland Hewgill will be seen in a Playdate drama recalling the brief, turbulent life of a mathematical genius of the 19th century —Evariste Galois, who died in Paris in 1832, age 20.

10:00: Channels 6, 2: Inquiry examines the process of justice in a step-by-step analysis of a murder trial that sent a man to the gallows. The program is titled "Beyond a Reasonable Doubt."

Channel 7: Theodore Bikel, singer, who last appeared on Broadway in "The Sound of Music," is the guest star in "No Wings at All," story about a father faced with the problem of raising a mentally retarded son on East Side-West Side.

Channel 8: The ne'er-do-well father of a nurse lying in a charity ward has one last desire—an elaborate funeral—on Dr. Kildare.

10:30: Channel 2: Explorations examines wedding ceremonies in three countries.

TUESDAY

7:30: Channel 5: Sherry Jackson portrays an alcoholic on Mr. Novak.

8:00: Channel 7: Ethel Merman, brassy-voiced Broadway star, schemes against Freddie the Freeloader for the ownership of a stew recipe and stars in a medley of songs on the Red Skelton Hour.

8:30: Channels 6, 2: Aldo Ray stars in the Ben Casey drama "Little Drops of Water, Little Grains of Sand" which tells the story of a man who checks into the hospital with only one thought in mind—to die.

9:00: Channel 5: Robert Blake, Laura Devon and Richard Boone star in "Sorofino's Treasure," the story of a pearl and its impact on the inhabitants of a small Mexican fishing village on the Richard Boone Show.

10:00: Channels 6, 2: CBC News Magazine is expanded to an hour to offer a documentary on South America.

10:00: Channel 5: Andy Williams hosts two Oscar winners on his hour of frolic. Guesting will be Jane Wyman who won an Academy Award for her role in "Johnny Belinda," and Ernest Borgnine who won the same award for his portrayal of "Marty."

Channel 8: A convicted pickpocket breaks parole in a desperate attempt to win a girl's love in "Oh, You Shouldn't Have Done It" on the Eleventh Hour. James Coburn and Lois Nettleton are guest stars.

11:30: Channels 6, 8: Steve Allen begins the first in a series of "home movie" documentaries on Russia.

COOKING UP A PLOT in which a woman tries to steal a Mulligan stew recipe from Freddie the Freeloader are Red Skelton and Ethel Merman. Show is scheduled for telecast Tuesday at 8 p.m. on Channel 7.

WEDNESDAY

5:30: Channel 8: Bill Hewitt reports from Toronto where Montreal Canadiens and the Maple Leafs are seen in an NHL contest.

7:15: Channel 8: Model airplane competitions are the subject of Jim Coleman's first sports show following Wednesday night hockey games.

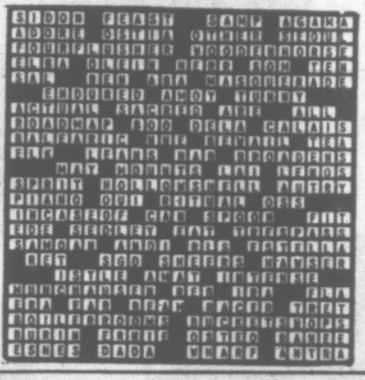
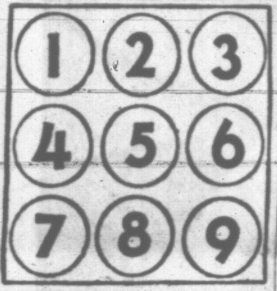
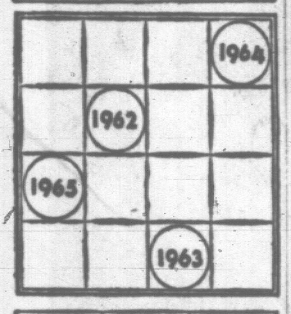
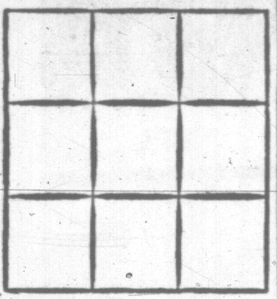
Answers to Previous Puzzle









THINK YOU'RE SMART?

Think you're clever with numbers? Let's see how well you do with the trio of wits tests at right.

1. Top diagram: How quickly can you re-arrange the digits 1-9 so that the three in the middle row will present a figure double that of the top, and those in the bottom row will equal the sum of the other two?

2. Centre: Numerals for four consecutive years are given in the four circled squares. You are asked to fill in the 12 empty spaces with numbers from 1 to 12 inclusive so that each row, column and diagonal will total 1983.

3. Bottom: There are at least eight different ways of arranging the numbers 1 through 9 so that each row of digits will total 15 vertically, horizontally and diagonally. But in any arrangement one particular digit must be in the same square. Which digit and which square?

Answers: 1. row by row, top down—192, 384, 576. 2. Row by row, top down—10, 8, 1, 1964; next—3, 1962, 12, 6; next—1965, 2, 7, 9; next—5, 11, 1963, 4. 3. Number 5 in centre—8, 1, 6; 3, 5, 7; 4, 9, 2 is one example.

KEEP TABS ON APPOINTED HOUR

Al Fresco's date at the art studio was really for some time between 7 and 8 o'clock. Had he arrived 35 minutes before he actually did, he would have been 20 minutes early; had he turned up 35 minutes later, he would have been 50 minutes late. And had he arrived three-quarters of an hour later, he would have been "on time" had the arrangement been for the next hour instead. As it was, he arrived twice as many minutes after seven as he should have done. What time was the appointment?

Answer: Seven fifteen o'clock.

STORES ON THE MOON

A surveying party of 500 men on the moon had provisions for 60 days. Twelve days later, they were joined by another group of astronauts who were landed without provisions, so both were supplied from the original stores. The provisions lasted only 40 days longer.

How many men were in the second group of travelers to land on the moon?

It's possible to work this out mentally, but it's easier with pencil and paper.

Solution: The original total was 30,000 astronaut-days of provisions (500x60). After 12 days there would have been 24,000 astronaut-days of provisions remaining. If this lasted 40 days there were 600 men in all; the second group numbering 100.

WEIGHT PER FOOT?

Each of two aluminum wires used in a jet plane weighs four pounds. One of the wires is 50 feet longer than the other, and its weight per foot is one-third of a pound less than the other.

From this, can you find the length of the shorter wire and its weight per foot?

Solution: If we let x be the length of the shorter wire then 4/X would be its weight in pounds per foot. Also x plus 50 would be the length of the longer wire and (x plus 50) times (4/X minus one-third) would be four. Hence X is ten feet and its weight two-fifths pound per foot.

SETTLE DIFFERENCES

The difference between two numbers, which are composed of the same three digits whose total is 15, is 396. The digits of the smaller number are in the reversed order of the digits of the largest number.

The middle digit of both numbers is the same. In the smaller number, it is two less than the last digit and two more than the first.

With these clues how quickly can you find the two numbers required as answers?

Answer: The two numbers are 753 and 357.

Henry invites letters from readers. For the most interesting letter he receives each week, he will award a copy of his best-selling book, "Ask Henry," published by Prentice Hall, Inc.

Dear Henry:

Our grandfather lives with us. He is a real bore and never does anything. All day he plays cards and watches TV. He must be about 100 years old.

MISERABLE

Dear Miserable:

A person is like a car. At first it is new and goes real fast. But after 20 years a few bumpers fall off and the engine gets rusty. Some years later after having gone so far the car slows down to a walk.

Understand your grandfather. Don't expect too much and perhaps you can give him some help.

HENRY

Dear Henry:

Our neighbors have two dogs. Whenever we walk past their house these two pesky poodles come out galloping. Last week they followed me to a football game and bugged it all up.

JUNIOR

P.S.: I love dogs.

Dear Junior:

Since you love dogs, get a German shepherd. I think the pests will keep their distance.

HENRY

Dear Henry:

My son is a little over 13. Lately he tried four different types of hair dressing and is insisting on wearing a new pair of pants to school every week. Do you think he is in love?

BEWILDERED MOTHER

Dear Mother:

Yes! He was looking for a specimen in science class... and he found one.

HENRY

Dear Henry:

My girl friend and I have been in the same class since we started school. This year we are separated as she is in the A class and I am in the B class. I am sure I am as good a pupil as she. How can I get into the A class?

SAD GIRL

Dear Sad Girl:

Do your best in the B class,
Make the B class your home.

Westwood Concedes Loss Of Nanaimo Seat to NDP

NANAIMO — Defeated cabinet minister Earle Westwood said today he would ask Premier Bennett within a few days "when he wants me to resign."

Although a judicial recount of ballots this week will not be announced officially until Monday, Mr. Westwood conceded he had lost the Nanaimo and Islands seat to David Stupich, NDP, by 19 votes.

"I've definitely lost, and that is it," he said.

Asked if he would see the premier within a few days, Mr. Westwood said:

"I'll certainly want to see him and ask him when he wants me to resign."

He said he thought it proper to relinquish his cabinet post as early as possible.

SPECULATION

There is speculation that a Social Credit backbencher will be asked to resign to make a byelection possible, one which the minister could probably win.

It is also speculated there may be an administrative post opened to Mr. Westwood, or that he may be appointed B.C. agent-general in London.

"There have been lots of comments, but I haven't discussed anything with anyone," Mr. Westwood said.

He said he was not yet ready to return to his undertaking business in lieu of a government position.

The minister polled 4,157 compared with Mr. Stupich's 4,188 in the election night count, a gap reduced to 12 votes when absentee ballots were counted.

RECOUNT BY JUDGE

Judge L. A. Hanna was appointed to conduct an official recount.

Mr. Westwood said one reason he lost was due to absence of a Communist candidate in the Sept. 30 election.

Communists supported the NDP, he said.

Other factors which hampered his chance of winning were apathy of free enterprise supporters and a controversy over Jingle Pot Road intersection with the Island Highway.

Meanwhile, a judicial recount will commence Wednesday at Yale, where only four votes separate Socred Irvine Corbett and NDP candidate William Hartley.

Boat Basin Decision Due Soon

NANAIMO—A federal government decision on Nanaimo's bid for a small boat basin is expected within a few days.

Mayor Pete Maffeo, harbor commission chairman George Muir and Ald. Doug Greer reported after a vist to Vancouver that Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing had promised a quick reply on the matter.

Officials say the proposed basin would be equivalent to bringing a new industry to the city, since it would make Nanaimo "home base" for hundreds of fishermen.

But some marina operators are opposed to the project, claiming a boat basin with mooring facilities would affect their businesses.

Foresters Take Lead In Resources Care

DUNCAN (CP) — Forestry Minister Nicholson called Friday night for strong leadership in the country's forestry industry.

He told the Vancouver Island section of the Canadian Institute of Forestry that more and more the responsibility for the management and care of Canada's forests, the country's most vital renewable resource, is being entrusted to professional foresters.

"Strong leadership is needed and is expected of men who play such a key role in the economy of a nation," he said. "The foresters have an invaluable service to render the people of Canada."

Mr. Nicholson said foresters and forestry scientists are confronted with a unique challenge because of the complexities of the forestry industry and present - day economic circumstances.

"No other profession in the country shoulders such a wide responsibility in the field of resource management."

He said laboratory work now is being undertaken following a density survey of trees in interior British Columbia. Spruce, Douglas fir, balsam, hemlock, cedar, larch, lodgepole pine and yellow pine were sampled.

The federal forestry department was also seeking to perfect techniques to assure a constant supply of good quality seed for reforestation of Douglas fir on Vancouver Island.

Arthur Mayse

This is the time of the great ocean-born gales, the blows that sweep in past our lonely weather ships to lather their seas against Cape Flattery and the black west coast reefs.

They reach our normally tranquil town with strength reduced but by no means expended. In their armory they still carry the 80-mile gust a walker must lean into, while windowglass bends and branches snap, and the air becomes a freshet river freighted with minor debris.

A cone or acorn flung into your face by such a blast may bruise and will certainly sting.

There is the ever-present menace of the stranded power line, whipping a lethal lash that sparks and crackles against wet blacktop.

Whole trees may rend their roots and topple. The umbrella rashly unfurled pulls like a driver-sail, or flips with a ripping of fabric and crackle of unhinged ribs.

To walk amid the gusts of a full gale is a game for the hardy, or perhaps the foolhardy. But your companion on such a venture is an exhilaration that does not accompany the tame stroll in fair weather.

* * *

In any big blow, Dallas Road between Ross Bay cemetery and the seawall is a challenge to the reckless. The prudent cars hesitate, eyeing the combers that hurl their spray across the road into the gnarled and salt-dwarfed scrub. Then their owners pilot them the long way round to Beacon Hill.

But others, the young cars, can't resist a dare. Down and along they scurry, salted metal and a stalled engine risked for the thrill of the semi-amphibious passage.

Around at Willows Beach, you may spot wet-suit divers frolicking like shiny black seals in the boisterous surf. But the boat trailers are gone from Cattle Point. The weather foreshadowed by the smallcraft warnings is upon us with a vengeance.

Our own boats are safe at home. We learned long ago the folly of leaving a boat to winter on any lee-shore beach. In a gale, the power and high-tide reach of the sea is incredible to those who haven't experienced it

We venture down there, wary of the brittle balsams which each new gale reduces by a limb or two. Last fall, we watched from our last stair-flight while boomsticks flew like javelins and a summer's driftlogs played their own version of musical chairs.

Our vantage point is gone now—that six-step flight was torn out in a 70-miler; and well that neither we nor ours were on it when the king-waves struck!

There is also the rain. In a proper gale, you learn that wetness is a matter of degree, and that beyond saturation is a super-saturation complete as if you dived into a pool.

Up-Island one day, Win and I found ourselves without car in a streaming gale, five miles from the cottage we'd rented. Never before or since have we walked in such a rain. Its flurries bounced inches off the highway. When a gust drove it against our faces, we ducked our heads to escape drowning.

In seconds, we were wet through. In a quarter-mile, our shoes were sodden and squishing. At that point, we began to enjoy the downpour; since we couldn't possibly get wetter, what was to lose?

But wetter we did get. After a mile or so, I sheltered under the limbs of an evergreen and tried to roll a cigarette. Even with three papers, I couldn't manage that smoke. My fingers were too wet. Papers and tobacco disintegrated in the spray through the cedar fronds.

About the rest of our walk, I remember only that a black bear walloped across the road so close in front of us we could smell his rank, wet pelt. Also that when we sloshed down to the cottage by the river, our pockets were brimful and running over.

At the end of your gale-walking, of course, must wait roof and fire, dry clothes and a hot dinner. That night we had potatoes, peas and cutthroat trout, and while we ate with the stove cherry-red at our backs, the big rain drummed tirelessly upon the shingles.

DRIVER READY TO TALK WAY OUT OF JAM

Joseph Earl Graham, of Campbell River, told Saanich police when they arrested him Friday evening he was going to try to talk them out of charging him with impaired driving.

He pleaded guilty to the charge in police court today.

He was observed driving erratically on Interurban Road, and later on Burnside, about 6:50 p.m.

Magistrate William Ostler fined him $300.

Former Prisoner Pleads Guilty

A young man recently released from the B.C. penitentiary pleaded guilty in Oak Bay police court today to trying to cash a forged cheque.

Charles Herbert Pegelo, no fixed address, tried to cash a forged cheque for $138.31 in the Shop-Easy store on Oak Bay Avenue about 7:20 p.m. Friday, the court was told.

Pegelo was remanded until Tuesday at 10 a.m. for sentence.

BURNED OUT FAMILY GETS INSTANT AID

United Appeal Follows the Firemen

By RAY SINCLAIR

Swift help has come to the Clark family from three United Appeal agencies following a fire which destroyed their home and belongings Friday.

Ruth and Derek Clark and their five young children were left destitute by the blaze at 702 Blanshard.

By this morning, St. Vincent de Paul Society had made enquiries, and immediately "adopted" the family.

They are being supplied with all essentials not available, and regular checks are to be made to ensure there is enough food.

The Victorian Order of Nurses has placed itself at the disposal of the young couple in case the children should become ill.

The five children are Marcia, 6, Douglas, 4, Brian, 3, Scott, 1, and David, 3.

Any gaps left in aid for the Clarks will be filled by the Family and Children's Service.

All three agencies receive funds from the United Appeal, which is at present trying to raise $400,000 by public donation.

United Appeal president Dr. Peter Banks commented: "This is the United Appeal in swift action."

The blaze in the Clarks' old five-room house was not apparent for some time.

Mrs. Clark smelled smoke while working in the kitchen, but saw no sign of its origin.

Later Derek Clark came home from his part-time city job and was resting when Mrs. Clark smelled smoke again.

"I went back again and now I could see it," she said. "I shouted at my husband to get up and I ran out of the back door to see where the other children were."

Douglas and Brian were playing in the yard.

Mr. Clark caugh up Scott and David from where they slept and rushed outside. Marcia was at school.

The house quickly became an inferno.

The Clark family is now staying with neighbor Ernest Picton, at 749 McClure. Any financial aid can be offered by calling Mr. Picton at 385-0790.

City Solicitor Challenges A-G On Movie Vote

Victoria city solicitor T. P. O'Grady today challenged Attorney-General Bonner's solution to the Sunday movies controversy here.

Mr. Bonner said Friday, if Victoria wants Sunday movies, it should hold a plebiscite.

Mr. O'Grady said today, "I would disagree, with great respect, that this is possible."

Mr. O'Grady told the Times in an interview:

"Section 213 of the Municipal Act says council may hold a referendum on any question with which it has power to deal."

But it has no power to order its own exemption from the Lord's Day Act. This is up to the government, he said.

OUTSIDE ACT

Although Vancouver was able to hold a plebiscite and thus obtained Sunday movies, Vancouver is outside the Municipal Act's jurisdiction, operating under it own city charter, the city solicitor said.

Mr. Bonner was out of town today and unavailable for further comment.

He told reporters Friday that a plebiscite had been successful in Vancouver and added:

"It would be very difficult to reject a representation of that nature."

The attorney-general said if a plebiscite supported Sunday movies or sport, it could result in a bill before the legislature. He withdrew his personal feelings on the question.

COUNCIL TOPIC

The latest public discussions on the question grew out of a city council meeting Thursday when a group of theatre managers requested a plebiscite.

At that time Mr. O'Grady told council the Municipal Act prohibits such a vote.

The act states:

"The council may by bylaw provide for obtaining by referendum, at the time of the annual elections, the opinion of the owner-electors or the electors, upon any question which affects the municipality, and with which the council has power to deal."

Belmont PTA to Meet

Annual meeting of Belmont High School PTA will be held Monday at 8 p.m.

Election of officers will be held.

BOY HELD IN MURDER GUILTY OF CAR THEFT

A 15-year-old youth held in connection with the George Down murder, Friday pleaded guilty in juvenile court to auto theft and escaping lawful custody.

He was remanded for one week for a pre-sentence report.

The youth has now been in custody for over a month.

He was charged with escaping from Brannen Lake School and stealing a car in Nanaimo.

CHAMBER ACTS

Aid Sought For Shipyards

Victoria Chamber of Commerce acted quickly Friday in an attempt to protect local shipyards from a disastrous payroll cutback.

One day after the government officially cancelled a proposed $452,000,000 program building frigates for the RCN, the Chamber wired Prime Minister Pearson appealing for "immediate consideraiton" of measures to help Victoria yards maintain "at least a reasonably high level of employment."

Decision to make the appeal was reached at a noon meeting of Chamber directors, at which John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows Ltd., predicted very serious damage to the whole of Victoria's economy as a result of the cancellation.

He forecast layoffs at both major yards early in 1964.

The wire to Mr. Pearson stated: "The directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce are greatly concerned regarding the future of the shipbuilding industry in our community.

"Local shipyards and HMC Dockyard are currently employing 2,200 workers. The cancellation of the general purpose frigate program, coupled with the inevitable dilution of the balance of work available to the industry on a national basis forecasts major cutbacks will occur here within three months.

"In recognition of Greater Victoria's dependence on this industry in maintaining a healthy economy, we urge your government's consideration of any measures which would enable Victoria yards to maintain at least a reasonably high level of employment."

SERIOUS JEOPARDY

Mr. Wallace told the Chamber directors a monthly payroll of more than $2,000,000 was "placed in serious jeopardy."

He pointed out that the $110,000,000 Department of Transport building program, announced in the Commons Thursday following the frigate cancellation, would be of little help to western yards.

"Only 10 per cent of this money is coming to the west," he said.

He forecast increasing pressure from eastern yards, including an effort to have three West Coast destroyers escorts slated for conversion moved to the east.

NEW DIRECTOR of secondary school correspondence courses in education department is John Ross Hind. Until now assistant registrar of examinations, he holds a degree from the University of Toronto and has taught at Qualicum, West Vancouver, and Burnaby. He succeeds Dr. Edith Lucas, whose resignation is effective Oct. 31.

NEW CAPTAIN of RCN Pacific Command frigate, HMCS Jonquiere is a Victoria man, Lt.-Cmdr. Albert Peter Campbell. He was born and educated here, entering Royal Roads college in 1944. Prior to taking up his new command he served on the staff of the naval member Canadian Joint Staff at Washington, D.C.

Infant Deaths Checked

By PETE LOUDON

Provincial Health Minister Eric Martin has ordered a check of infant motality statistics at an unnamed B.C. hospital.

He said today he ordered the inquiry following charges by Dr. Ralph E. Adams, director of St. Joseph's Hospital here.

Dr. Adams had charged in Vancouver that hospitals in B.C. are so harassed by government policies that they are unable to hire enough nurses.

He said, as a result, the infant mortality rate in one hospital was double what it should have been.

In an interview today he said the hospital is not in Victoria, but he would not identify it.

'NOT A PROBE'

Health Minister Martin said later, "This is not a probe or an investigation. It is just an inquiry by the chief inspector of hospitals.

"We have to see what the statistics say.

"He (Dr. Adams) has to substantiate his statements. We are not on the defensive."

Asked whether this might be followed by a full-scale investigation by an independent body, the minister said, "I can't commit myself."

Dr. Adams made his statements to a reporter at the B.C. Hospital Association convention in Vancouver.

Elaborating in a Victoria interview today, Dr. Adams said, "I was asked if I knew of a situation where care had gone down. I said yes." He then related the case of the infant deaths.

He added today, "I do not believe the hospital of which I have this knowledge has been featured in any controversies."

NORMAL HERE

He said Victoria hospitals' infant mortality statistics are normal.

But he maintained that all B.C. hospitals are not advancing as quickly as they should. In this regard B.C. is the least progressive province in Canada, he said.

"This doesn't mean we are not as good as we were, but we are not growing as fast as we were."

Dr. Adams noted that Health Minister Martin recently said he considered the executive of the B.C. Hospital Association are his advisers.

He said he presumed therefore that Mr. Martin would contact the BCHA executive before launching any investigation.

Dr. Adams earlier appeared on television in Vancouver with charts showing the increased infant mortality rate at the "mystery" hospital.

SAME CHARTS

Mr. Martin said a pre-election issue of Hospital Employees' Union publication used the same charts presented by Dr. Adams and led him to view the charges with suspicion.

Dr. Adams apparently had information from other sources as well, but none of it came from the BCHIS, "The only accurate source of information," the minister said.

"So we look at the figures he gave with a jaundiced eye, but will examine them as soon as possible."

Mr. Martin asked if a death results from neglect in a hospital "don't you think the doctors would have some responsibility?"

"If that happened, why has it not been reported to us or to the heads of the medical profession?"

The minister said the information was given to Dr. Adams instead so that "he could deliver his low blow."

MONDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Gyro Club: Noon, Empress Hotel. Owen Karn, president of Silver Threads Service speaks on the proposed federal pension plan.

TOPICS of the DAY

A two-car collision at Rose and Finlayson Friday evening sent four people from one of the cars to hospital.

Robert Lenaghan, 1074 Oliver, was the driver of one car. He and Fay Lenaghan, 17, Peter Lenaghan, 7, and John Lenaghan, 5, all were treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital and released.

Driver of the other car was William Leek, 1242 Oscar.

Vancouver Island Arms Collectors' Association will exhibit a wide variety of firearms at its first annual gun show in the Knights of Pythias Hall Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

They will range in age from the flintlock of the 1600s to modern percussion weapons.

Dr. Carron Jameson will present a selection of Webley pistols and Gordon H. Breen his Winchester rifles.

Jim Hatter will display his extensive collection of cartridges and a prize selection of shotguns.

Air raid sirens shrieked in Langford just before noon today — without official sanction.

Short circuits caused by continued wet and windy weather set the sirens off, a navy spokesman said.

"We'd just get one fixed and another would start up," he said.

Volunteer swimmers — preferably with lifesaving certificates — are needed by the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded.

Swimming classes for retarded persons are held each Friday at HMCS Naden pool from 9:45 till 10:45 a.m.

Swimmers can call EV 2-5570.

The Victoria chapter of the Society of Architectural and Engineering Technologists of B.C. will hold its annual meeting Monday at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be in the Flame Room, B.C. Hydro Building, Pandora Ave.

A plan for traffic fines to be paid at Bastion Square will not go into effect for a least a week.

City hall officials said Friday they have encountered some unexpected snags, and the changeover, slated for Monday, has been delayed until some arrangement can be made for transferring information from court officers to the cashier.

The Victoria Amateur Movie club will meet at Norway House, 1110 Hillside, on Monday at 8 p.m. The short business will be followed by a showing of members films.

Ask The Times

Q—Could you please tell me if "week-end" or "weekend" is spelled with a hyphen? D.D.

A—According to the Concise Oxford Dictionary and Webster's Dictionary, the correct spelling is "week-end." But in general Canadian usage, the word may be spelled "weekend."

Q—Could you please tell me the years in which the songs "Whispering" and "Barney Google" were first published? G.E.M.

A—"Whispering" was published in 1921; "Barney Google," 1922.

Esquimalt Dockyard Starts First Submarine Refit

By MONTE ROBERTS

The first full refit of a submarine ever undertaken in Canada is in hand at HMC Dockyard, Esquimalt, with HMCS Grilse the subject of an inch-by-inch survey, repaint, and repairs.

The only sub in Canada's navy, Grilse is on loan from the United States. She arrived here in mid-1961, and since then has logged thousands of miles in games of hounds and hares with Pacific command destroyers and frigates.

The full refit was undertaken here to establish the capability of Dockyard to handle submarine work — much of it specializing and differing widely from refit of surface ships.

The U.S. navy co-operated by demonstrating techniques to Dockyard tradesmen at their submarine bases at Bremerton and San Francisco.

Although this is Grilse's first full refit, she was docked for an interim survey of the hull and underwater fittings in August, 1962.

During the present refit, Grilse will again be docked for a hull survey, re-painting where necessary, and the usual repairs which are undertaken during a normal refit period.

Repairs include maintenance work on main and auxiliary machinery. A special project is replacement of battery cells which must take place periodically to provide the necessary power.

As part of the change of batteries, the cells now fitted will be removed and replaced by new elements which have been charged in the Dockyard.

Our old and becoming-familiar friend Aquilo huffed into the Inner Harbor this morning after a moonlit crossing from Seattle.

(You don't know Aquilo? She's the former B. T. Rogers yacht of 50 years back, now owned by John [illegible] Campbell of the University of Washington.

She has 34 passengers aboard — the U. of Wash. rugger team, coaches and, as Professor Campbell puts it "what seems to be a large number of girl friends."

Aquilo is berthed at the CPR's Belleville Street docks where she will remain overnight.

* * *

Another arrival at the CPR docks today was CPSS Princess Marguerite, her summer Seattle work ended. She joins Patricia for winter lay-up.

RCN Pacific Command's fleet maintenance vessel HMCS Cape Breton is on her way to the Hawaiian Island area. She's due Nov. 1 to join the destroyer escorts Skeena, Fraser and Margaree on exercises with units of the U.S. navy.

The destroyers reached Pearl Harbor via San Diego, and are due back as Esquimalt Nov. 21. Cape Breton will return Nov. 25.

HMCS Saskatchewan is taking the long way home. The Yarrows-built DDE left Esquimalt last April 16 for Halifax and commitments with NATO. After a series of exercises in that area, she left the Atlantic Command Aug. 19 to start her journey back to the Pacific coast—via European waters.

She is now in U.K. waters, and will leave next Wednesday, returning to her home port via the following route: Arrive and depart Ponta Del Gada, Nov. 3; arrive San Juan (West Indies), Nov. 10, and leave the following day; arrive at Colon (Panama Canal Zone), Nov. 14 and leave the same day for transit through the canal; arrive at Balboa the same day and leave Nov. 15; arrive San Diego, Nov. 22; leave San Diego, returning to Esquimalt, Nov. 28.

Captain of the Saskatchewan is Cmdr. Mark Mayo. She was commissioned here on Feb. 16 last, and has a complement of 12 officers and 235 men, mostly West Coasters.

By the time the DDE returns home, she'll have steamed approximately 40,000 miles since commissioning.

HMCS Grilse gets "the works" from specially-trained tradesmen.

INDUCTION AT ALL SAINTS

Businessman Joins Clergy

Rev. John David Vickers, a former business executive, will be inducted as minister at the combined parish of All Saints and Saint Columba Wednesday.

The induction service will be held in All Saints Church at 7:30 p.m. Archdeacon J. W. Forth will officiate and the preacher will be Canon George Biddle of St. John's Anglican Church.

Many clergy of the deanery of Saanich will participate and there will be music by the combined choirs of All Saints and Saint Columba.

Mr. Vickers spent most of his working life in the roofing business before entering the full-time ministry of the Anglican Church on July 1, 1962.

From 1948 to 1955 he was general sales manager of Sidney Roofing and Paper Co. Ltd. From January 1956 until 1962, he was general sales manager of Bishop Products Ltd., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Sidney Roofing.

His induction will be followed by a reception and fellowship hour in the parish hall.

TINY CHURCH SANCTUARY FOR DRIVERS

HAMILTON (CP)—A tiny church near here offers prayer breaks for harassed motorists.

The church, with a tape recording as resident pastor, was built by the Christian Reform Church. It can hold six persons.

The tape recording of a hymn followed by a two-minute sermon starts automatically when the door is opened.

Chairman Marinus Ages says, "we don't use it to advertise our own church because this little church was meant for all."

He hopes it will provide a few moments of calm for truck drivers and tense motorists.

The church is on the highway running from Hamilton to Port Dover on Lake Erie.

Presbyterians Criticize United Church

TORONTO (CP) — The United Church has been accused by a Presbyterian monthly magazine of unwarranted competition in the field of home missions.

The current issue of the Presbyterian Record implies the United Church has broken an understanding not to expand in Alberta communities west of Red Deer.

The magazine questioned the establishment specifically of a United Church congregation at Rocky Mountain House, Alta.

Women

Norfolk House School students, from the left: Margaret Bowles, Penny Shaw, Heather Atkinson and Peggy Angus, in the school's chemistry laboratory. Proceeds from a bazaar to be held at the school on Saturday, November 2, from 2 to 5 p.m., will assist in acquiring new equipment for the lab. There will be stalls of sewing, knitting, novelties, home cooking, books, garden articles, Christmas foods, costume jewelry, white elephant and candy, also a father's stall, House of Norfolk, raffles, fish pond, movies, marionettes and a fortune teller. General convener is Mrs. D. P. North.

It's Bazaar Time Again!

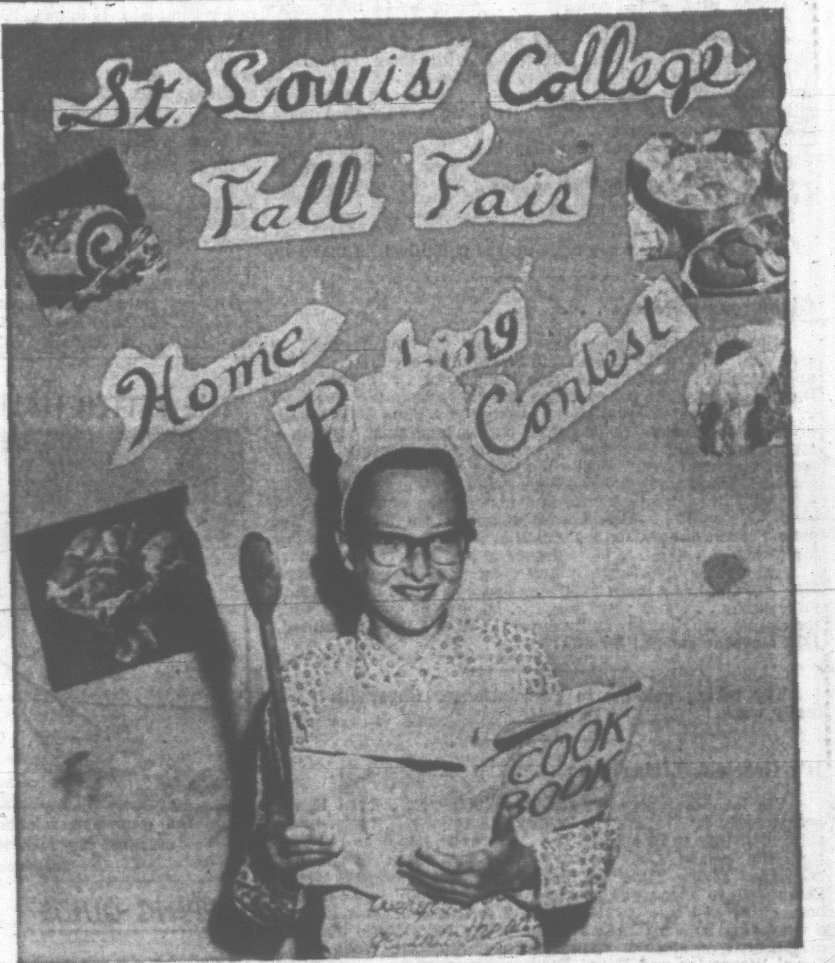
Mrs. G. B. Jones, at left, is convener of a novelty and gift stall at the annual bazaar of the Women's Auxiliary to the Cerebral Palsy Association, next Saturday in Britannia Hall, Blanshard Street. Miss Donna Sprinkling, centre, and Miss Eunice Spring, members of Douglas Street Baptist Church Canadian Girls in Training, are assisting with the stall as one of their group's projects. Affair will be opened by Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett at 11 a.m. Turkeyburgers and coffee will be served, also afternoon tea. There will also be stalls of home cooking, sewing, knitting, candy, plants and flowers, attic treasures, dolls' clothes, raffles and a fish pond.

Mrs. Austin Curtis, Mrs. H. Maurice Irvine and Mrs. A. L. Hooper, left to right, are members of a planning committee arranging annual bazaar and tea of Miriam Temple, No. 2, Daughters of the Nile, to be held November 7 from 2 to 5 p.m., in Knights of Pythias' Hall, Cormorant Street. There will be stalls of home baking, delicatessen, candy, sewing and knitting, jewelry and novelties, superfluities, Christmas gifts and floral arrangements, as well as drawings and door prizes. Tea will be served. Entire proceeds are for the convalescent relief fund of the Order, which is used for the treatment and rehabilitation of crippled children.

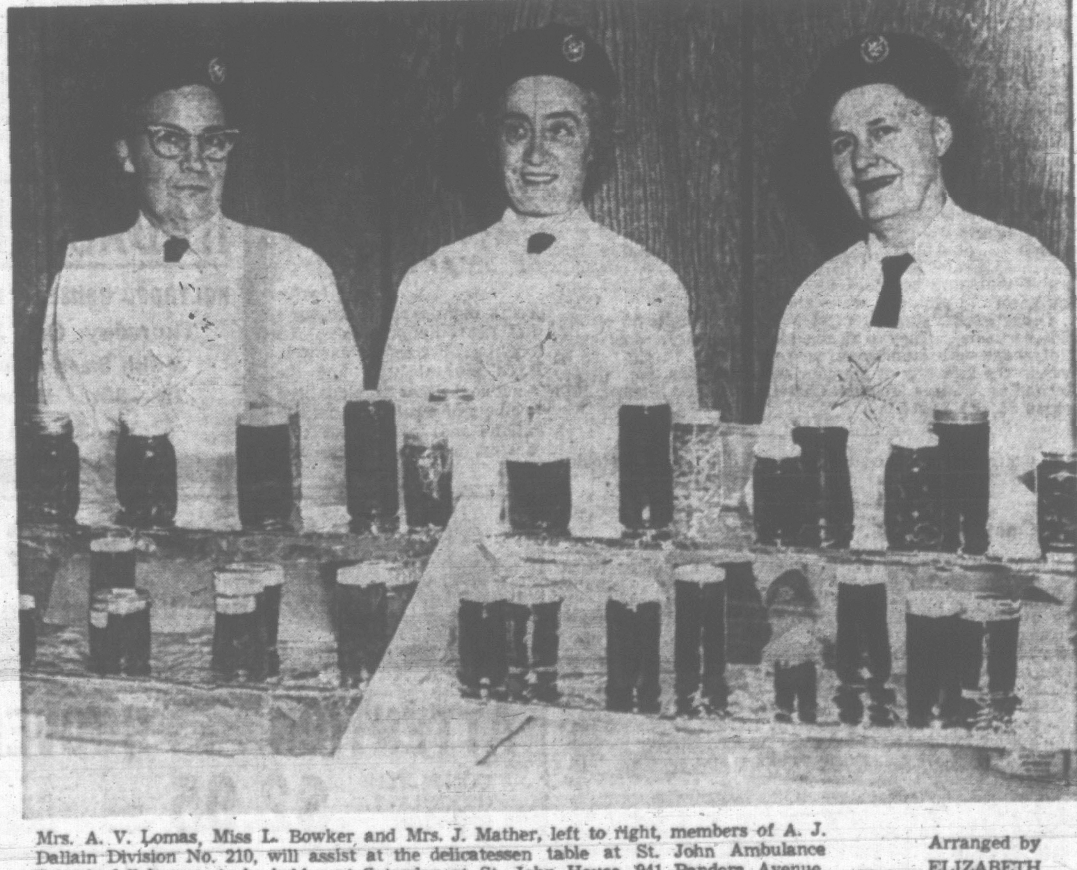
Annual Hadassah Bazaar has a "NEW" theme this year: A new location at Holyrood House, 2315 McBride Street; a new date, next Thursday, Oct. 31, and a new feature, a Jewish smorgasbord luncheon from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The old tradition of good quality, fair prices and famed home baking continues. Mrs. A. Kramer, left, who will be at the delicatessen stall, and Mrs. A. E. Alexandor, convener of the baking table, show one or two of the foods that will be sold. There will also be a stall of handicrafts, a lucky dip, doll bar, raffles and door prizes.



Blue ribbon winning cook at last year's fall fair, Russell Revoy, Grade 7 student at St. Louis College, ponders over what to enter in this year's home baking contest at the fall fair and bazaar to be held at the college, 1002 Pandora Avenue, next Wednesday. It will be officially opened at 2 p.m. by the school's new principal, Br. Clarkson, a former student. Stalls will offer interesting, novel and tasty items for sale. There will be a tea room and a snack bar. St. Louis College Mothers' Club is sponsoring the afternoon and evening affair.

Traditional tartans and heather, shown above by Mrs. Roy Watson, left, and Mrs. Gordon Fields, will decorate the auditorium when women of St. Aidan's United Church hold their annual bazaar next Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Scottish theme is in honor of St. Aidan, who lived on the Isle of Iona in the seventh century. There will be stalls of home baking, preserves, delicatessen, children's wear, aprons and sewing, hats and jewelry, garden plants and flowers, fruit and vegetables, Christmas novelties and decorations, also a kiddies corner with toys, books and fish pond, baking competitions and a hobby contest. Affair will be opened by Mrs. Alistair MacLeod, the minister's wife.

Women members of First United Church are busy preparing for a giant home cooking sale and bazaar to be held in the Fellowship Hall, Balmoral Road, next Saturday. Mrs. Robert Morris, wife of the new minister, will open the affair at 1:30 p.m. General convener is Mrs. H. Lindsey. Pictured above from the left, are Mrs. H. W. Barber, co-convener, Mrs. Morris, Mrs. A. H. Sheard, president of the group, and Mrs. C. Fenton, a member of the planning committee. Tea will be served during the afternoon.



Mrs. A. V. Lomas, Miss L. Bowker and Mrs. J. Mather, left to right, members of A. J. Dallain Division No. 210, will assist at the delicatessen table at St. John Ambulance Brigade fall bazaar, to be held next Saturday at St. John House, 941 Pandora Avenue, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Mrs. A. C. Wurtele will open the affair. There will also be stalls of home cooking, knitting and novelties, aprons, candy, superfluities, contests and garden produce. Afternoon tea will be served.

Doing the Town

Distinctive Yule cards . . .

We never thought the day would come when we'd get excited over a bunch of Christmas cards . . . but that's exactly what happened when we walked into Montague Bridgman's on Monday and saw the display of Yuletide greetings they'd just finished setting up . . . Our only advice is . . . if you want to send out cards this year that are different, distinctive, downright beautiful . . . and whose expensive look belies their prices . . . (there are some little gems from W. Germany at a nickel apiece) . . . get down to Bridgman's fast! . . . These cards are imported from the U.S., England, Spain, Denmark, Holland and Germany . . . We thought the Spanish cards especially attractive with their restrained, Christmassy themes . . . but they're all lovely . . . Wording is invariably simple and in good taste . . . in fact if there's one characteristic of this collection, we'd say it was good taste coupled with originality . . . There's a discount of 10% on 36 or more cards . . . and you may have them imprinted with your name and address at a small extra cost . . . Choose yours soon at Montague Bridgman Ltd., 811 Government St., EV 3-0821.

The healthy look has replaced the pallid look in make-up.

Glamorous sweaters . . .

Strictly in the luxury class . . . but oh, how heavenly to own one! . . . are the beaded and be-sequined evening sweaters at Wilson's . . . Some come from Hong Kong . . . others from Italy . . . and while prices range anywhere from $45 to $98.50 . . . such a sweater could be the making of a plain little sheath or a cocktail dress . . . or paired with a long skirt, fashion a stunning evening ensemble . . . with built-in warmth! . . . For resort or cruise wear we like the white cardigan covered with sea horses and such, done in blue, yellow and green beads . . . It's fully lined, costs $69.50, and alas, is the only one of its kind . . . size 44 . . . Seems a lot of people are devoted to the little French angora toques which Wilson's have been selling for years . . . Well, a new shipment has just been received . . . they come in practically any color you can name, except blue . . . and are a mere $3.50 . . . You can drape them to suit your fancy . . . and your face . . . so that no two need ever look alike . . . Nice for chilly days . . . W & J Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., EV 3-7177.

Try taking gelatine to grow stronger fingernails . . . really works!

It's Gracious Living time . . .

We love that phrase "gracious living" . . . Even if we occasionally fail to live up to its connotations . . . it's something devoutly to be aspired to . . . So we're happy to tell you that the period Oct. 24 to Nov. 2 has been designated "Gracious Living Time" at Birks . . . During these ten days, Birks wish to encourage people to use and enjoy fine English bone china and fine crystal . . . and to this end, have lopped a whopping 20% off their regular prices for a large number of patterns in Minton, Aynsley, Royal Stafford, Wedgwood, Royal Worcester and Royal Doulton dinnerware . . . as well as fine hand-cut lead crystal by Stuart, Webb-Corbett, Phillips and Clapperton . . . For example, a 5-piece place setting in the Belbrachen pattern of Minton is regularly $19.75 . . . but during this sale may be had for $15.80 . . . while the special price for a $4.50 Georgian crystal goblet is but $3.60 . . . All this dinnerware and crystal is open stock . . . and may be purchased in complete sets, place settings, or individual pieces . . . We'd say an opportunity like this doesn't knock twice . . . at least not for a long while . . . So you'd be real smart to visit Birks this coming week . . . Birks Jewellers, 706 Yates St., EV 2-4241.

Cire fabrics—plain or embossed—are tops in the Italian collections.

Drapery fabrics from Europe . . .

Standard Furniture are mighty proud of their current display of imported drapery and upholstery fabrics . . . and well they might be! . . . We doubt very much if such an interesting . . . and comprehensive . . . display has ever been seen here before . . . The thing is, every last one of these fabrics was personally selected by Mr. Oliphant, the drapery department manager, who recently returned from a three-month buying trip abroad . . . He went right to the leading mills of Europe and made his selections with the tastes of Victoria women in mind . . . and results are spectacular . . . Fabrics from England, Ireland, France, Germany, Denmark, Holland and Italy . . . in the freshest patterns . . . most interesting textures . . . loveliest, most subtle colorings . . . we've ever seen . . . And because these fabrics were imported direct, without any "middle-man" expense, Standard has been able to pare prices tremendously . . . keep them remarkably low . . . If you've any thought of new slip covers, drapes or bedspreads, be sure to see Standard Furniture's International Fabric Festival . . . Standard Furniture, 737 Yates St., EV 2-5111.

How to get away from it all . . .

What's your secret dream? . . . to laze on the sand at Waikiki . . . see the color and excitement of a Japanese festival at Kyoto . . . watch the sun rising over the fairy-tale-like Mount Fujiyama . . . or comb the fascinating shops of Hong Kong for fantastic bargains? . . . Every dream you ever had can come true on one of the P & O-Orient's three spring and summer voyages to the mysterious East . . . timed between March and July . . . when the Orient is supposed to be at its best . . . We regret to tell you this is not first-hand knowledge on our part . . . but we have it on unimpeachable authority that life aboard a luxurious P & O-Orient liner is a wonderful experience . . . and even if you travel first class . . . costs less by the day than you'd pay to stay at some good resort hotel . . . An 80-year-old friend of ours made one of these voyages last year . . . and came back in fine fettle . . . full of praise for everything and everyone concerned . . . Let Paulin's tell you all about these cruises . . . and others you can take . . . They're officially appointed agents for P & O-Orient Lines here . . . George Paulin Travel Service, 1006 Government St., EV 2-9168.

New necklaces have beads as big as marbles.

Sleeping in comfort . . .

We can well remember when we wouldn't be caught dead in bed wearing anything but the filmiest of nighties . . . let the chills fall where they may . . . and the reason we feel differently about it today has nothing to do with the onset of age . . . it's just that warm cosy sleepwear . . . what used to be known as "granny gowns" . . . have gone so all-out glamorous that one can wear them feeling like a femme fatale . . . while still wallowing in comfort! . . . Just about the nicest examples of this warm sleepwear are to be found right now at Mae Meighen's . . . Brushed arnel gowns in long or waltz length . . . or shifts . . . in delicate shades of pink and blue . . . or white . . . One style has embossed arnel lace trim . . . $5.98 and $8.98, according to length . . . A perfectly adorable matching bed jacket . . . all arnel lace, lined with nylon tricot . . . pink and white and blue and white . . . $12.98 . . . Other gowns start at $4.98 . . . have lace, satin or embroidered trims . . They're all machine washable, and never go out of shape with laundering, we're assured . . . No need to shiver in the interests of glamour when nighties like this are to be had at . . . Mae Meighen Corset & Lingerie Shoppe, 1613 Douglas St., EV 3-6214.

A white matelasse coat has jewelled buttons—matching sheath beneath.

If you must move . . .

All too often many of us, when we are obliged to go away for any length of time . . . or even move to smaller quarters . . . are inclined to sell, or otherwise dispose of, many of our household possessions . . . under the mistaken impression that it's too risky . . . or expensive . . . to store them . . . And all too frequently we live to regret the day . . . Matter of fact, they told us at Cantin's that they store the contents of the average 5-room house for around $10 a month . . . mighty cheap when you think what it costs to replace things nowadays . . . We're personally terribly impressed with Cantin's because they have the most modern storage methods in town . . . and are constantly thinking up new ways to do an even better job, if that were possible . . . Their warehouse is completely concrete and steel . . . it's heated with controlled temperature . . . Cantin's wrap your furniture and store it in individual vaults, or pallets . . . put your carpets in heavy crush-proof tubes . . . in short, treat all your possessions with the loving care they deserve . . . If for any reason you must move . . . with or without your household goods . . . call Cantin's for an estimate . . . they're an old, thoroughly trustworthy firm . . . Cantin's Moving & Storage Limited, 742 Pembroke St., 385-3476.

DEAR ABBY . . .

The Defence Rests!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I notice in your column so many people complaining about the high cost of drugs. I, for one, would never complain. If sulpha had been in existence in 1933, I might have had a pair of twin sons celebrating their 30th birthdays this Christmas.

"BLUE BOOTIES"

DEAR ABBY: Today's prescription is the biggest bargain in history. Mozart, the great Austrian composer, died at the age of 35 with a simple fever! Robert Louis Stevenson died at 44 with tuberculosis. Felix Mendelssohn, 38; Jack London, 40; Robert Burns, 37; Chopin, 39; Keats, 26; Lord Byron, 36; Jean Harlow, 26; Rudolph Valentino, 31; George Gershwin, 39; Thomas Wolfe, 38. Think what these talented people might have accomplished had they lived another 30 or 35 years! Modern drugs almost surely would have extended their lives.

NO COMPLAINTS.

DEAR ABBY: I was shocked to learn that people are stupid enough to resent not being able to return medicine. There is a law which prohibits returning prescribed drugs. This is for the consumer's protection. How does the pharmacist know what has happened to the drugs once they have left his store? Wouldn't the crooks have a field day ordering drugs in capsule form, extracting the medication, filling the capsule with sugar and returning them to the store!

NEW PILLS, PLEASE

DEAR ABBY: Twenty years ago it took an average of three month's wages to pay the hospital bill resulting from a case of pneumonia. Today, a case of pneumonia can be cured at home—with drugs that cost an average of only five hours' wages. Please be fair, and print this for all those people who think prescribed drugs are "expensive."

SHOPPING GUIDE

Impersonate Your Idols With Rubber Face Masks!

By PENNY SAVER

Ideas for masquerade costumes were being battered back and forth by several of my friends the other evening with no one coming up with any really good suggestions.

Thinking that others may be having the same problem, I went searching.

Rubber and plastic face masks of devils, pirates, jail birds, witch doctors and personalities such as Fidel Castro and Nikita Khrushchev are available for $1.75 to $3.50.

Dark rimmed glasses with false noses, eyebrows and mustaches are priced from 50 cents to $1. Some of the glasses have inserts in the shape of Oriental eyes with eyebrows attached.

Also available are false eyelashes for $1.55; grandpa mustaches for 75 cents; devil's nails, 49 cents, and Cupid's hot lips for 19 cents.

Those who still prefer the beatnik garb will look like the real thing in artificial sideburns, mustaches and dark glasses. Wool tams are in stock for both men and women. Priced at $1.95 and $3.50 respectively. Ladies' tams come complete with long blonde hair.

Disguise sets, complete with eyebrows, beards and mustaches are priced at 69 cents.

Chinese outfits with caps and pigtails sell for $2.95. Caps are designed after the actual style worn by the elder member of the family in China.

Wigs, too, may be bought in shop. Curly, red siren wigs, long platium blonde wigs—any color wig—are all priced from $1.95 to $8.75.

Shop also carries spirit gum at 25 cents a bottle and grease paint at 60 cents a stick.

Most of this costume make-up is imported from Europe and the United States.

If you would like to know where Penny shopped call 382-3131.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Need Information on Knitting Sweaters From Nylon Hose

"Dear Eunice:

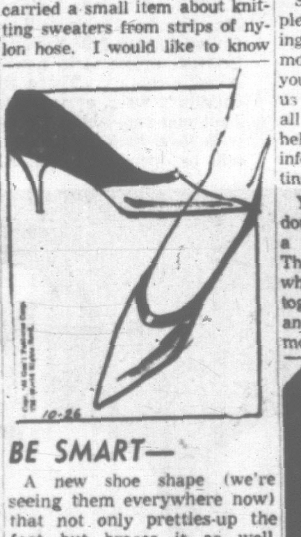
"Some time ago your column carried a small item about knitting sweaters from strips of nylon hose. I would like to know how I can get more information about this subject?"

MRS. W. W. F.

Dear Mrs. W. W. F.:

Sorry, this wasn't in Sew Simple, but it does sound interesting and I would like to know more about it, too. If any of you have done this, or can give us any help, I will share it with all of you in this column. Please help me out and send me any information you can about knitting with nylon hose.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY: doupioni silk: This is a silk with a natural slubbed appearance. The uneven texture is caused when two cocoons have nested together. Many times, the more and heavier slubs produce the most handsome fabrics.



BE SMART—

A new shoe shape (we're seeing them everywhere now) that not only pretties-up the foot but braces it as well. Heels are mid-high, and the two-tone leather combinations (we bought a pair in black and antique red) offer a striking contrast with dark, solid-color suits.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Flat Abdomen Adds to A Youthful Appearance

Lowman

It might not be happy for every woman to see herself as others see her. The woman who has a pad of fat on her abdomen or hips which protrude or are weighted with fatty deposits often fails to realize how she looks. When she takes a look at herself in the mirror she just naturally pulls her tummy in, tucks her hips under and straightens her spine. BUT, when she leaves the mirror she may relax into her old habits of posture. She may not be conscious of how she looks to others because she is not in front of the mirror when she lets go.

As a woman grows older it takes more effort to keep her girlish figure. She must exercise more faithfully and watch her food intake more carefully. A flat abdomen adds greatly to a youthful appearance and it is also a health booster. Lack of exercise, child bearing and overweight, predispose a woman to weakened lax abdominal muscles. This in turn may cause internal organs to slump. Some of the results of this are fatigue, backache and constipation. Sometimes this condition occurs when a woman is so underweight that she does not have enough fat on the abdomen to help support her internal organs.

I think that the average woman is better off wearing a girdle except in early youth, and sometimes even then. Few women have strong enough abdominal muscles to give proper support. If your girdle is right for you it will be possible for you to pull your abdomen in and hold it in whenever you can remember to think about it. At other times your girdle will take over for you. Be sure that your girdle supports from below, pushing up instead of mashing down. Many very thin women have backaches because of a fallen stomach and would profit by the use of an abdominal support.

The following exercise is wonderful for the thighs and hips and also gives the waist a good twist.

Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor, straight out from your shoulder pits, palms facing the floor. Bend your left knee up. Cross the knee over the right leg and touch the floor on the right side of your body with your left knee. Return left leg to starting position. This time cross your right knee over your left leg, touch the floor on the left side of your body and return leg to place. Continue, alternating left and right.

If you would like to have my tested hip slimming exercises send a stamped self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet number 3 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Miss Beverley McLaughlin finds adventure in year abroad.

London Her First Stop

By MARLENE GLASSFORD

"The whole trip was fabulous!"

This is how Miss Beverley McLaughlin, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. McLaughlin, 2601 Dufferin Avenue, sums up her recently concluded tour of the British Isles and Europe.

A year ago last September, the former Royal Jubilee Hospital X-ray technician left Victoria by train and headed for Montreal. There she boarded the Ss. Homeric which docked seven days later at Southampton.

Next stop was London where she stayed with a great-aunt, Mrs. A. Coan, and worked as a clerk in Harrods.

While employed in the department store, she served many interesting people, among them Lady Churchill and Prince Charles, who was buying his Christmas cards.

HITCH-HIKES

Five months later, the young traveller and a girl friend from New Zealand, were hitch-hiking in France, then Spain, Italy, Austria, Switzerland and Germany.

"In these countries, we estimated that we spent only $10 in fares," says the attractive traveller.

"For the most part, the people who stopped to give us a 'lift' were courteous and friendly. But, none of them spoke English."

On one occasion in Spain, the girls, having been left standing by the roadside in a heavy downpour, were offered a ride by a truck driver. Finally realizing through hand signs and gestures that he would take them from Valencia to Barcelona, they accepted the ride.

Quite unexpectedly, the truck broke down a short distance from a small town "in the middle of nowhere." The driver went into town for a mechanic. When he came back he muttered one word—"kaput!"

Translating this to mean that the truck could not be repaired, the English-speaking twosome proceeded into town and spent the remainder of the night in a half-finished apartment, courtesy of the policia.

YOUTH HOSTELS

Throughout the tour, however, the girls slept mostly in youth hostels.

"Here we were charged 50 cents a night, had to cook our own meals and we had to be in by 10 p.m.

"We were given admittance cards, enabling us to visit all the museums and art galleries—without charge."

In Florence, one of these cards admitted them to the art gallery to view the works of Michael Angelo

While at a hostel in Switzerland, Miss McLaughlin and her companion met a family from Zurich who invited them to visit in their home.

The girls were given a guided tour of that city and a wonderful home meal which was cooked as much on the English style as possible.

In all countries visited, the travellers found evening entertainment to be most reasonable.

"In London we were charged only $1 to attend 'live' productions in the theatres, and in Vienna—though we had to stand—we saw the Viennese Statopera for 16 cents."

Returning to France by herself, Miss McLaughlin went to work in Strasbourg as a children's nurse for a German family.

"Although they spoke no English, we were all able to make ourselves understood in French."

It was in Strasbourg, too, that Miss McLaughlin visited Mrs. E. Young, an old friend who is formerly of Victoria, and presently studying at the university there.

Back in London, the traveller was joined by her mother, who toured England and Scotland with her for five months before returning to Canada.

Then Beverley went back to work. This time it was as a secretary in Great Ormond Street Hospital, London, where she remained until she boarded the Ss. Homeric for the homeward journey—almost a year from the time she arrived in Southampton.

Her parents met her in Montreal and they travelled back across Canada together, stopping in Dauphin, Man., to visit her brother and his family.

Of the many places she visited, Miss McLaughlin says: "Rome was the most beautiful; France, the most unclean, and Switzerland was the most friendly."

Female Belafonte 'The Greatest'

By PAT DUFOUR

Harry Belafonte has a female counterpart in Victoria. She's Irene Harris, a slim third-year nursing student at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Like the internationally-known star, Irene packs all the warmth and rhythm of Jamaica in her songs.

There's one big difference. Born and brought up in the United States, Belafonte has only seen Jamaica as a visitor but Irene and her family lived in Kingston, the Jamaican capital, until they came to Victoria when she was nine years old.

Six weeks ago Miss Harris joined the Chariot Singers, a local group that are "tops" with the local hootenanny crowd. The leader, Mike Gibbs, classes her as "the greatest!" When she made her first appearance with them at The Secret the audience was equally as enthusiastic.

LIKES BLUES

The young singer confesses, "I've never been very fond of folk songs. I prefer the blues. You can really put your heart into them and improvise as the mood takes you. But, I've come to love the songs and spirituals that we sing."

And, sing she does. With a range that slides to almost four octaves and in a voice that pulses with feeling. Only lessons she has had are "six with Gipsy Mahaffey when I was in Grade 10."

But she had more than a nodding acquaintance with music long before she began to walk.

"When we were babies we'd wake up to the sound of Dad's records. He's a jazz fanatic."

The family came to Victoria at the suggestion of Irene's grandfather, H. L. Harris, who settled here on his retirement as town clerk of Kingston. He, too, helped set the family's musical atmosphere.

"My grandfather owned his own dance band before he became a preacher."

The Harrises belong to the Brethren Church and Mr. Harris still preaches in churches across North America.

Irene Harris has a 21st birthday on Sunday. She plans to spend it with her boy friend in Seattle. He's a fellow Jamaican who boarded with her family in Kingston before leaving for the United States. When the Harris family stopped over in New York, en route to Victoria, they met him again.

Jamaicans, says Irene, are the greatest church-goers in the world. "No matter how big the church—it's always full. We jump at the chance to get together and sing."

The whole family went back to Jamaica for a holiday in 1961. A visit that made the young singer-cum-nurse decide to go to Jamaica and work "for at least six months" when she graduates.

"It was wonderful to be able to eat all those gorgeous tropical fruits again. One day, I sat under a mango tree and ate myself through a huge pile of mangoes!"

As a school girl, Irene Harris played the saxaphone in S. J. Willis and Mount View High School bands and she sang lead parts in operas at Victoria College.

She sang solos in church, too, as one of a trio that included her sister, Juliette and aunt Mrs. Rosalie Conarroe.

Even the atmosphere of a hospital cannot restrain this love of music. "I cannot resist humming—even in the halls—I do it almost as often as I breathe."

Is there a danger that Miss Harris may be tempted to forsake her role of Florence Nightingale and stay with singing?

"Yes—although I do love nursing. I want to take more singing lessons when I graduate and can earn the money to pay for them."

Would she put her RN in storage and concentrate on a singing career if she had a chance?

Her eyes shine as she quietly admits, "I think I would. There is nothing like the thrill of hearing people clap and knowing that you've done something well."

Official Visit

Grand Royal Matron, Mrs. Nellie Thorpe, New Westminster, and Grand Royal Patron, Mr. Stanley Buckthorpe, Burnaby, of the Grand Court of the Amaranth are spending the weekend at the Empress Hotel. On Friday evening they made an official visit to Coronation Court No. 6 which was celebrating its 10th anniversary.

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William B. McNab, 1985 Haultain Street, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary with a family dinner at Oak Bay Beach Hotel tonight, and an "at home" from 7 to 9 p.m. next Wednesday in their Haultain Street home.

The couple was married on October 30, 1913, in Westminster Presbyterian Church, Vancouver, and lived there and at Gibsons, B.C., before moving to Victoria in 1961.

They have three sons, William and Leslie, in Vancouver, and James in Toronto, also two daughters, Mrs. C. E. (Lila) Holland, and Mrs. N. D. (Phyllis) Preston, both of Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. McNab also have seven grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Brock E. Robertson, 2715 Mt. Stephen Avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter Carolyne Elizabeth, to Mr. Fred R. (Brian) Fisher, 3721 Winston Crescent. The wedding will take place on November 16 at 2 p.m., in St. Aidan's United Church with Rev. A. G. MacLeod officiating. (Ryan Photograph.)

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. McMaster, 1306 Bay Street, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Judyth Ann, to Mr. Stephan Ernest Bray, son of Mrs. G. Ball, Victoria, and Mr. Ernest Bray, Winnipeg. The wedding will take place on November 9 at 7.30 p.m., in Victoria Truth Centre Rev. Emma Smiley will officiate. (Photo by Frederic Studio.)

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Wed Today

The marriage is anounced of Barbara Mavis Trump and Mr. Lodewyk W. G. Wertheim-Aymes. Rev. C. Johnston officiated at the wedding which took place this morning in Shady Creek United Church. Mr. and Mrs. Wertheim-Aymes will make their home at 215 Helmcken Road.

Entertained

Senior ladies of the Caledonia Society were entertained recently at a luncheon and musical afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Raines at Fulford Harbor. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dirom, Mr. and Mrs. S. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. D. Osler, Mr. and Mrs. D. Burns, Mrs. M. Primrose, Mrs. J. Robertson, Mrs. P. Campbell, Mrs. J. Milton, Mrs. J. Wilson, Mrs. B. Kinlock and Mrs. H. Webster.

Sather-Anderson Vows

Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiated at the recent ceremony in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church which united Janet Ann Anderson and Ronald Lamont Sather.

The church was decorated with baskets of autumn-toned flowers for the double-ring ceremony. John Bray sang "Because" during signing of the register.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Anderson, 1821 Haultain Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Soren Sather, 2743 Victor Street. Mr. Anderson gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a classic floor-length gown of bridal lace styled with bouffant hooped skirt with a folding bustle bow that created back interest. Tiny pearls and sequins enhanced the scalloped neckline and sleeves ended in lily points.

A finger-tip chapel veil misted from a sparkling crown of pearls and sequins. Red roses and white stephanotis were in the bouquet.

Senior and junior attendants wore identical gowns of chiffon with whimsies and shoes en tone.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Cynthia Finlay, was gowned in pink and carried bronze chrysanthemums. Nile green was choice of senior bridesmaid, Miss Linda Graves, and junior bridesmaids, Misses Linda Brown, Cathy Jacob and Mavis Anderson, sister of the bride. All carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Flower girl, Miss Terri Leah Garvie, wore a pink and white chiffon and taffeta frock, and carried a basket of bronze chrysanthemums.

Lester Sather came from Alberta to be best man for his brother. Ushering guests to pews marked with white satin bows and carnations were Don King, Alton King, Roger Loggin and Don Snyder. Master Billy Pearce was ring bearer.

Joseph Law, Saanich fire chief, proposed the toast at a reception in Holyrood House. A three-tier wedding cake, surrounded by red roses and tulle centered the bride's table.

Lester Sather sang "Hand in Hand We'll Walk Together" and "How Great Thou Art" at the reception.

Following a honeymoon in Vancouver and the United States, the newlyweds are now living at 968 Lyall Street.

The bride's going away outfit was a turquoise and grey tweed suit, white feather hat and gloves, black accessories and white gardenia corsage.

9 IN MEMORIAM

ELLIS—In loving memory of my wife Emma, died October 26, 1961.

There is someone who misses you sadly,
And finds the time long since you went;
There is someone who thinks of you always,
And tries to be brave and content.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent the voice we loved to hear;
'Tis sad, but true, we wonder why
The best are always the first to die.
—Harry.

NEILL—In loving memory of our dear friend Margaret Briggs Neill, who passed away October 26, 1960.

The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one we loved
From memory pass away.
—Remembered fondly by her friends, Mrs. and Mr. Rodger and family.

NEILL—In loving memory of our dear niece, Margaret Briggs Neill, who passed away October 26, 1960.

Loving and kind in all her ways;
Upright and just to the end of her days;
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.
—Remembered lovingly by her niece and nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. McMordie, Belfast, Ireland.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

There is a general rule that when you lead a suit of four or more cards you should lead fourth best unless your suit is headed by certain specific high card combinations.

1 ♥	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ J

There is one conspicuous exception to this rule that is well illustrated in today's hand.

South doesn't have much of an opening bid but his partner's hand is very sound and the contract of four hearts is a good one.

South wins the opening spade in his own hand and takes an immediate diamond finesse. Perhaps he should have gone after the trumps first but the actual result would be no different. Both finesses are wrong.

East takes his king of diamonds and a shift to a club is clearly indicated. Also, he should lead the nine of clubs and not his fourth best. It is not important to give his partner a count of the club suit but it is more important to let his partner know that he doesn't hold a high club.

South will play either the king or the queen. It shouldn't make the slightest difference to West. He will see that the only chance to beat the contract will be to let South hold that trick, so if West is on his toes he will play the deuce of clubs.

Eventually East will get the lead with his queen of trumps and a second club lead will allow West to make his ace and jack.

LOOK AHEAD
AN INVESTOR'S DREAM
Imagine a de luxe 4-suite apartment facing on Beacon Hill Park with a view that will never be obstructed. The lot on which this is situated is 90'x170' and is one of the last sites zoned for 70' high apartments in the area. The beautiful thing about it is that you can eat your cake and have it too, as the net return to you is 8% on an asking price of $33,000. In other words the property will pay for itself and will increase greatly in value over the years.

THIS HOME DEFYS COMPARISON

Very few NEW homes offer as many extra features that we can justly make such a statement. Located in Cordova Bay, just 15 minutes from town, this home is impeccably appointed. The living room will produce that smug smile that only someone who is really proud to show off their home can have. A dining room that creates that intimate image of chandeliers and candlelight.

COMPARE THESE EXTRA FEATURES with the homes you've already been acquainted with:
- 1,300 sq. ft.
- Expensively panelled living room with a bold, massive, raised hearth fireplace
- Chandelier appointed dining room
- 3 bedrooms, each with lighted double closets (the master bedroom has its own bathroom)
- Built-in range and oven, hooded fan, and eating area in a large kitchen
- Full cement basement
- 2 bathrooms
- All this delightfully situated on a large flat lot

The Joy Of Good Living

Someone once said: "It is nice to be important, but it is much more important to be nice." How true!

In the hurry and scurry of everyday life we often forget to be kind and helpful to one another. It seems in our anxiety to reach the top we lose the "human touch."

Tis the human touch in the world that counts,
The touch of your hand in mine.
For it means much more to a sorrowing heart
Than shelter, or bread, or wine.
For shelter is gone when the night is o'er
And bread lasts but a day
But the touch of the hand, and the sound of the voice
Lives on in the soul for aye. —Author unknown.

I often think back to the wartime days when I was overseas with my husband in England. The spirit of helpfulness and genuine interest in one another was unequalled. With bombs dropping and the threat of invasion, it seemed to knit people together—as only tragedy can.

A real nostalgia comes over me when I remember some of the quaint little white-washed cottages in North Cumberland with thatched roofs and red geraniums in the front windows. Such pride these housewives had in the appearances of their little homes—both inside and out. It seemed there was endless polishing of the hearth with black lead and red-stoning the front door step—not to mention the way they kept the copper and brass so beautifully shiny. All these things gave love and a "human touch" to the home.

Many a time I have seen scenes like these on Christmas cards, but to see it in reality was lovely. What a contrast to the ugly camouflaged hangers and buildings all around.

Just think what a shining example our own lives can be in this troubled world, if we just polish up our "sterling" qualities and not let them get tarnished. We can bring love and harmony into our lives that will radiate to all those we come in contact.

—GRACE E. SMITH.

PTA Charge Denied By Theatre Managers

Victoria theatre managers today denied that youngsters are viewing restricted movies here.

Theatre manager Martin Cave, speaking for a group of theatre officials, said ages of ticket buyers are checked when a restricted movie is shown.

Replying to Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council, which charged restrictions are not being applied, Mr. Cave said no one under 18 is knowingly admitted to shows in the "black cat" category.

Under provincial law, movies which are considered unfit for youngsters are labeled in their advertising with a small black cat symbol. No one under 18 can be legally admitted.

Such movies are shown only two or three times a year, Mr. Cave stated.

At such times, any person who appears to be under 18 is challenged by the ticket seller. The youth must show proof of age. A "student card" or birth certificate is usually tendered.

"We challenge half a dozen or so every night that a restricted movie is showing," said Mr. Cave. "We have got to be right or we lose our licence," he said.

Mr. Cave added some movies are classified as "adult entertainment." This tag does not restrict anyone's admission. It is merely a suggestion to parents to employ discretion.

He said it would be a worthwhile project for the PTA to educate parents to this situation.

BACKS MANAGERS

B.C. movie censor R. W. McDonald supported the movie house managers in their claim. He issues the permits required for restricted films. He said he has had no evidence that persons under 18 have been admitted to restricted pictures and said he would look into the matter if anyone has proof of such infractions.

Mr. McDonald pointed out that persons under 18 may be admitted to restricted films when parents give their permission in person.

This happens rarely. In the current showing of a restricted film, it has happened once only.

CHILDREN'S FUND

Halloween Fun Shared With Needy

For ten years now children on Vancouver Island have been sharing their Halloween fun with the children in Korea.

Instead of collecting candy, which will more than likely be confiscated at home base, many children go collecting coins which will be used to buy milk and other essential foods for those children who are starving in Korea.

This year 4,000 Save the Children Fund collection cans are being distributed on Vancouver Island. On Halloween it is hoped they will be filled with $5,000.

Behind each can is a host of volunteer help. Cans, made at Steveston, B.C., are picked up by a B.C. Packers' barge, then delivered locally by a Dowell's truck and up-Island by Vancouver Island Coach Lines, all free of charge.

Cans may be picked up at First Baptist Church Saturday morning till 12 noon. After that they will be available at McGill and Orme, Fort at Broad, until Thursday.

Anyone wishing more information about the SCF collection cans should contact the local representative, Mrs. W. W. McGill, 3441 Mayfair Avenue.

Dockers Still Tie Up Canadian Grain Ship

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain handlers refused again today to load a Canadian ship that is caught in the middle of a bitter dispute between two labor unions.

The freighter John Ericsson moved to Elevator B of the Continental Grain Corporation in the Calumet River, ready to take on a cargo of grain.

But shortly afterward Gunter Goldschmidt, superintendent of the elevator, announced:

"The men have refused to load the boat."

A police guard was at the scene but no pickets were in sight.

It was the fourth time the workers have refused to pour grain into the Ericsson since she arrived in Chicago Oct. 4.

SWITCHED UNIONS

The owner of the Ericsson, Upper Lakes Shipping Limited of Toronto, switched from the Seafarers' International Union to the Canadian Maritime Union as the source of its crew members a year ago. That caused a flareup in the rivalry between the two unions.

JUDGES SWORN

'Champion Becomes Umpire'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Angelo Branca, well-known Vancouver criminal lawyer, and Nathan Nemetz, an expert in the field of labor law, became judges of the British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday.

They were sworn in by Chief Justice J. O. Wilson in a courtroom crowded with relatives, friends and representatives of the legal profession.

The chief justice described them as "two distinguished and accomplished lawyers" and termed Mr. Branca a "gladiator and a virtuoso of the court."

"But the champion has now become the umpire," he added.

Chief Justice Wilson said the only regret his fellow judges have in regard to Mr. Branca's appointment is that they will miss having him appear before them as a lawyer.

Stiffer Penalties

Central Saanich council may impose stiffer penalties on delinquent taxpayers.

It has authorized the municipal clerk to investigate the rates of interest charged on unpaid taxes with a view to imposing a heavier rate.

Concern was expressed by councillors at the number of ratepayers who are late in meeting their taxes.

EDGES BURNLEY

Sheffield United Grabs Top Berth

LONDON (AP)— Left-winger Ron Simpson scored two goals in the first eight minutes today to send Sheffield United into a two-point lead at the head of the English League soccer standings.

Sheffield defeated Burnley 2-1 at Burnley—on a day of sensational upsets.

Manchester United and Tottenham Hotspur, previously joint leaders with Sheffield, were both beaten.

The day's see - sawing left Sheffield with 21 points from 15 games. Arsenal, Everton and Liverpool all won and joined Manchester United and Tottenham on the 19-point mark in second place of the First Division.

Shefield United staggered 25,000 Burnley fans with an explosive start. Simpson got a goal within 10 seconds of the kickoff. Eight minutes later he sent another shot curling into the net from 40 yards.

Burnley could not score until five minutes from the end, when inside - left Jimmy Robson clicked.

CHAMPIONS WIN

A crowd of 68,000 roared Everton, reigning league champions, on to a 1-0 win over Tottenham at Liverpool's Goodison Park stadium.

A brilliant display by both teams was crowned by a goal by Everton left-winger Derek Temple in the 78th minute.

Manchester United slipped 1-0 at home to West Ham—a team reduced to 10 men for the whole of the second half after right-winger Alan Sealey was carried off with a back injury.

Centre-forward Martin Britt scored West Ham's goal in the 36th minute after Manchester had attacked almost continualy. In the second half, with 45,000 fans cheering them on, Manchester stormed into one attack after another—but West Ham's defence held out.

Arsenal slammed in four goals, two by right-winger Geof Strong, in the first 35 minutes at London's Highbury stadium and finally beat Nottingham Forest 4-2.

JFK SEEKS RIGHTS BILL COMPROMISE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy and Congressional leaders of both parties today worked against a deadline only hours away to rescue the administration's civil right bill from a bewildering legislative tangle.

They groped for agreement on a bill which would unite the militant and moderate factions of both parties, but the effort to draft a "harmony" measure still had a long way to go.

The White House and the justice department were negotiating with key House Republicans in the search for an acceptable compromise measure. They believed that everything less was doomed to defeat.

FEARS ACT NOT RIGHT

City Chamber Favors Pension Plan Review

An impartial commission to review the proposed federal pension plan is urged in a resolution passed by the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Friday.

In introducing the resolution, chamber president E. E. Pearlman said that every sensible Canadian would approve of a suitable pension scheme, but asked whether the proposed act is the right vehicle.

"It is a question of seeing that hurried legislation is not put through," he said.

The resolution stated "there is some evidence that this legislation has been too hastily drawn, and grave doubts have been expressed by knowledgeable citizens as to its actuarial soundness, this chamber therefore recommends that the entire subject of pensions in Canada be subject to exhaustive review by an impartial commission to be named by the government, and that no action on a federal pension plan be taken until the findings of the commission are public"

EXAMINE ACT

The resolution also recommended that the proposed commission examine the Old Age Security Act, "there being some reason to think this act imposes an unnecessarily heavy tax burden . . . and there may be some merit in an amendment making this security available only to citizens in need of it."

The directors, meeting in the Empress Hotel, heard a report the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island has sent representation to Ottawa asking a seven-man salt water fishing advisory board, composed of two members from Vancouver and five from Vancouver Island.

In making the report, Sam Lane said the board would include no members connected with commercial fishing, as this industry is adequately represented on other boards.

The chamber's retail merchants' group reported its intention to co-operate with the Junior Chamber in promoting a Christmas parade and other Christmas activities.

Keenleyside Speaks Sunday

DUNCAN — "The anniversary of the United Nations" will be discussed by Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, co-chairman of the B.C. Hydro Authority, on Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Hall.

The meeting is sponsored by the Cowichan Unitarian Fellowship. The public is invited.

Dr. Keenleyside is former director-general of the UN technical assistance administration.

Former Dishwasher, Miner First Nigerian President

AZIKIWE
. . . slept in subways

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—A 59-year - old Nigerian who once slept in New York subways when he was broke is the first president of the Republic of Nigeria.

Nnamdi Azikiwe has been governor - general for three years. Nigeria gained independence from Britain Oct. 1, 1960, and exactly three years later dropped its status as a federation to become a republic within the British Commonwealth. Azikiwe was chosen president for a five-year term by acclamation of Parliament.

He is known as Zik (pronounced zeke). He will be a ceremonial president rather than an executive head of state. Prime Minister Sir Abuabkar Tafawa Balewa remains the actual government head.

Zik is easily this country's most widely - known citizen. He helped to move it from colonialism to independence.

A member of the Ibo tribe, he was born in Northern Nigeria, the son of an army clerk. He attended mission schools and worked as a government clerk before going to the United States for nine years.

EXPERIENCE CRUCIAL

Studying at Storer College at Harpers Ferry, W. Va., and Howard University, he was influenced considerably by what he saw in the southern states.

His Lagos newspaper, West African Pilot, is one of Africa's strongest critics of discrimination in the U.S. A recent headline over a story of racial strife was Civilization Dead in U.S.

He worked as a dishwasher, boxer, coal miner and day laborer while studying history and political science in post-graduate courses at the University of Pennsylvania.

He once said in New York: "I learned from experience how to pass a comfortable night in the subways so generously placed at the disposal of guests and residents of the city for the nominal charge of a nickel."

He returned to West Africa in 1934 and edited a newspaper in Accra, now the capital of Ghana. He was prosecuted for seditious libel in 1937 for an article titled Has the African a God? but won the case on appeal.

Zik returned to Nigeria that year to start a chain of newspapers and plunge into pre-independence politics.

He became opposition leader in Nigeria's western region house of assembly and later returned to the eastern region as premier.

New Halo Given Premier

Premier Bennett Thursday won a gold hat for his finance department's record of 1,014,658 accident-free man hours of work.

He passed the hard hat, plated gold, and a large certificate to his deputy minister, G. S. Bryson, at a ceremony of B.C. Safety Council awards.

The finance department has gone since Nov. 1, 1962, shortly after Mr. Bennett took over, without an accident.

The finance prizes were presented by J. C. F. Stewart, president of the safety council.

Mr. Bennett presented "bronze awards" to representatives of seven other government branches with accident-free records ranging from 110,738 to 397,966 man-hours.

It was the first time the safety council had made awards to the civil service.

The bronzes went to the education, labor, transport, trade, and provincial secretary's departments, and to the water resources service and the Public Utilities Commission.

Cancer Serum Sponsor Offers to Debate Drug

By JOHN BARBOU
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A verbal duel over krebiozen's value as a cancer drug has erupted from a cold war over medical quackery.

Despite a decision by federal authorities that the serum is worthless, Dr. Andrew C. Ivy, krebiozen sponsor, Friday night challenged the president of the American Medical Association to a debate on the drug.

Dr. Edward Annis, AMA president, declined, saying he would not provide a platform for what he called "any proponent of a fraud."

The challenge is tied to two concurrent meetings in Washington hotels two miles apart.

In one, the AMA and the U.S. Food and Drug Administration are sponsoring the second national congress on medical quackery—its announced purpose to focus public attention on quacks.

In the other hotel, an organization called the National Health Federation is holding a national congress on health monopoly—to reply and rebut the AMA and FDA.

'IT'S A FRAUD'

At the quackery congress, Annis Friday called krebiozen "one of the greatest frauds of the 20th century."

In a telegram to Annis, Ivy denied that krebiozen is a fraud and claimed scientific confirmation that it is effective in treating cancer.

A copy of Ivy's telegram was handed to reporters by a representative of the National Health Federation.

While speakers at the federation's meeting assailed the AMA and FDA, there was no direct exchange.

However, in a speech to the quackery congress, FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick cited court records involving a number of federation officials, including its present and founder Fred J. Hart.

The court cases all involved fines or prison terms for charges arising out of such things as misbranding vitamins and food products, distributing so-called medical devices, and a so-called cancer remedy, Larrick said.

'IT DOESN'T WORK'

It also was the FDA that labelled krebiozen ineffective against cancer.

In his telegram to Annis, Ivy said:

"For 12 years, I have challenged the American Medical Association and it allies in the federal government to solve the krebiozen controversy by a scientific test of the drug. Your organization has consistently refused such a test. I can only feel that your refusal means you are unwilling to accept facts as they would be established scientifically."

Annis told The Associated Press:

"Matters of this kind can be determined only by scientists trained in the language and experience of research. Eminent scientists in the medical profession, including some of the great medical centres of this nation, long ago branded krebiozen as worthless.

"And the findings of the Food and Drug Administration have consistently supported this already established scientific conclusion."

Suspected Poison Food Recalled

MONTREAL (CP) — Delicious Food Products Ltd., announced Thursday it is recalling its liver paste from the market immediately because of a federal health department report that a death in Montreal had been linked to poisoned liver paste. The company's product sells under the trade name Paragon.

In a prepared statement, the company said it firmly believes it is premature to link its product directly with the case of food poisoning. No direct relationship had been established between its product and the case of food poisoning.

The statement said the manufacture of the paste has always been carried out at the plant under the supervision of a federal health inspector.

SHRUM:

Students Must Teach Themselves

HAMILTON (CP) — Gordon Shrum, co-chairman of the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority, said Friday night far greater emphasis will have to be placed on self-education in the future.

Sepaking to the convocation ceremonies at McMaster University, Mr. Shrum said students will have to teach themselves more because of the growing shortage of professors, increasing demands for more university training and mounting costs.

Mr. Shrum, also chancellor of the Simon Fraser University which will be built in Burnaby, B.C., said present graduate schools must be expanded to provide teachers for the many new Canadian universities which will be established in the next 20 years.

"If this is not done we can anticipate either a critical shortage in the number or a serious decline in the quality of university teachers."

He said the 2,000-year-old lecture method of instruction should be re-examined because of the advent of film and tape recorders.

Mr. Shrum received an honorary doctor of laws degree at the ceremony.

Warning Against Alcohol Given By SDA Pastor

"Whether you escape from your frustrations with a round of golf or a social drink, you will never understand the danger of alcoholism until you accept the fact that alcohol is a potentially addiction-producing drug."

So said Pastor Arthur M. Spenst of the Victoria Seventh Day Adventist Church, as he invited members to unite today with other Adventist churches around the world in supporting their world temperance program.

Pastor Spenst, quoting from an article in "Listen" magazine, an educational publication published by the denomination to encourage an alcohol-and-narcotics-free way of life, said, "It is quite possible to be a moderate drinker for years and then under stress become an alcoholic.

"No one ever set out to become an alcoholic," he said. "Each one began as an occasional drinker. But alcohol can produce an addiction, and this fact must be accepted."

Pastor Spenst told church members that one copy of the current "Listen" was being given to each family to read for themselves and to share with a friend or neighbor.

The Salvation Army urgently needs used clothing, especially for children.

Also, for newly-established paint, electrical and carpenter shops, they need furniture and electrical appliances.

PRELATES' RINGS PRIZE OF ITALIAN PICKPOCKETS

ROME (AP)—The "borsaioli" of Rome would be hurt if anything should come of a Brazilian prelate's suggestion that Roman Catholic bishops give up their rings and crosses.

A borsaioli is a pickpocket, and these Italian thieves have been doing their best to find loose-fitting episcopal rings, and pectoral crosses weakly connected to chains, among the 2,300 prelates attending the Vatican ecumenical council.

While no official figures are available, at least a dozen rings and crosses have been stolen.

"I go around with one hand against my chest and the other in my pocket," said an African bishop.

OPPOSES TITLES

Auxiliary Archbishop Helder Pessoa Camara of Rio de Janeiro has said the Catholic hierarchy would do well to rid itself of expensive rings, crosses, limousines, and titles of "eminence" (for a cardinal) and "excellency" (for an archbishop or bishop). Nothing does more to separate the clergy from the people—especially the poor—than signs of opulence, he said.

Rome's borsaioli operate with a different motivation, but their goal is identical—separating the bishops from their crosses and rings.

One trick is to stop a bishop in a crowd, take his right hand and murmur "sua eccellenza" (your excellency) while kissing the bishop's ring in homage.

If the ring is loose, it can disappear before the prelate realizes it is gone.

Episcopal rings and crosses vary in value from a few dollars to several hundred.

Subway Stations Art Galleries

Eleven of the 55 subway stations in Hamburg, Germany's largest seaport, now look almost like art galleries, the German Tourist Information office reports.

They have been decorated with sculptures, reliefs and mosaics. In their endeavor to lift subway travel out of the routine, artists and architects co-operated closely to achieve best results for underground conditions.

Life a Bed of Blossoms in Florida Orangeland

Sutton

FORT PIERCE, Fla.—Life is just a bed of orange blossoms in the orangelands of Florida. Indian River oranges and grapefruits grow along the Indian River, which you have to admit is pretty logical. The river flows alongside Vero Beach and Fort Pierce, and separates this sandbar from the mainland of Florida. Sunset-colored globules also grow with profusion in the central part of the state. Winter Haven is an orange nest and so, I would judge, is the metropolis that wards away the chills with its name. It is called Frostproof. We also have a West Frostproof, not to mention, south of Sarasota, the centre known as Fruitville.

Travelers rolling through the orangelands can squeeze the fruit, inhale the blossoms, watch them being processed for the palefaces up north. They can also buy them by the sack, by the box or by the barrel. They can, as well, at many places, drink all they want for a thin U.S. dime. One place that advertised "All You Can Drink for a Dime" stopped some customers after the first glass. "But the sign says, 'All You Can Drink for a Dime,'" the clients protested. "Right," said the prop., "and all you can drink for a dime is one glass."

* * *

Not all the orange groves are that sneaky with their orange juice. One of the most pleasant is Hale's Indian River Groves located in a crossroads of world commerce known as Wabasso, Fla. Hale's will give you all you can drink for a dime, and once had to fetch up 15 glasses for four boys who between them swallowed four gallons. The kids were on their way up from the sports car races and had worked up a large thirst. It took one field box, or about 200 juice-sized oranges, to irrigate the parched gullets.

Most roadside groves also invite visitors to see how oranges are processed from the time they are picked until they are packed. In the early season, before the first cool spell sets in, citrus is picked green. After subjecting it to heat and gas, and sometimes dye, the oranges and grapefruits leave the beauty parlor looking the way they are supposed to look in the ads. They are soaped and scrubbed and sprayed and rubbed down like a boxer. Then they are coated with wax, which seals their pores.

Orange trees bloom in February and March, which is the best time to inhale. Navels ripen in the fall, Valencias in March or April, and Temples in January and February. Grapefruit blooms in February and March, but grapefruit can be left on the tree indefinitely, so that sometimes fruit and blossoms grow from the same branch.

* * *

For travelers who get intoxicated on orange blossoms, many groves sell foot-high orange trees which are supposed to grow and bear fruit whether planted indoors or out. Of course, the purveyor assumes you are not about to plant the seedling in Minneapolis in February. Anyway, it comes in a sealed plastic bag which can be removed. Thereafter you water from the top twice a week, feed it fertilizer every month or so, and stand back. Before you commission field pickers to journey up from Mexico to help you with the harvest, better see how it does the first year.

Small trees (or big ones for that matter) must be exposed to bees or other bugs in order to pollinate them. Should no bees be handy in your neighborhood, just use a toothpick with a small cotton swab and deposit the pollen on the pistil. The whole thing is $1.95, not counting the cotton swabs, or labor.

Citrus groves also dispense a variety of other notions no one knew they needed before they pulled up in the car. For instance, citrus fruit should be eaten with special citrus fruit spoons designed with a scoop at the end for plucking out the seeds. For people who wish to dispense with orange juice squeezing, there is the citrus sipper, a gizmo you stick into an oragne or a grapefruit and then draw in.

Oranges also make orange blossom cream perfume, orange blossom toilet water. The groves carry a full line of such allied products as mango butter, tangerine and papaya marmalade, plastic oranges to drink real orange juice from, and even orange and grapefruit wine. The idea of orange wine may well be causing acute gastritis in the fields of Burgundy, but in the flatlands of Florida there are citizens who roll up each year and buy it by the case. You can't hardly purchase it outside of the orangelands.

The whole citrus business began in southeastern Asia and finally spread to Persia and India. The high-riding Arabs, the free-sailing Genoese sailors and free-booting Roman soldiers all had a hand in bringing oranges to the Mediterranean. Columbus brought them to Haiti in 1943, but that country was much more interested in growing revolutions. The Spaniards brought oranges to St. Augustine and Tampa Bay. Grapefruits came later, out of the Caribbean, then limes, lemons and such exotic mutations as tangelos which are crosses between tangerines and grapefruit. The first pink grapefruit appeared in the 20s, and after being investigated by Congress and declared politically pure, was grown commercially.

Canning frozen concentrates never really started in Florida until after the Second World War. That's when they really put the squeeze on.

Taped Talks Help Tourist In Britain

You can walk around London now with a little voice in your ear telling you about the historical associations of the place you are looking at.

The voice is mechanically assisted by yet another service introduced to the ancient capital to help visitors—a tape recorder.

Lightweight and easy to carry from a leather strap over the shoulder, the "walkie, talkie guide" as it has been called in the British press, guides the sightseer around 50 places of interest in any one of three different languages.

Officially called Taped Travel Talks, the easily-worked recorders can be had from hotel porters for 30 shillings.

"The advantage of these machines," said a Taped Travel Talks official, "is that you can choose the sights of interest at random. You don't have to do a tour. And for another 10 shillings two people can have an earphone each from the same machine."

Virgin Isles Overlooked?

One of the Caribbean's best-known big game fishing guides has predicted that within the next year he would prove the Virgin Islands to be "one of the most neglected fishing paradises in the world."

And on July 22 a record 500½-lb. Blue Marlin was pulled in to prove it.

Captain Johnny Harms, a colorful, sun-weathered skipper, has just moved to St. John from Miami after more than 10 years of fishing Virgin Islands waters from Florida and Puerto Rico bases.

Earlier, in 1951, the ex-South Pacific combat beachmaster was the guide for the first Blue Marlin "double-header" ever recorded in Puerto Rico with a 169-pounder and a 90-pounder being pulled aboard. Two years ago, a 159-pound marlin was taken by his boat off Virgin Gorda a short distance from St. John.

Japan Opens New Museum

Of unusual interest to tourists and anthropologists visiting Japan's northern island of Hokkaido is an Ainu Museum soon to be opened in the botanical gardens of Hokkaido University in Sapporo, the capital.

To be known as the Bachelor Museum, the collection will include some 20,000 items pertaining to the Ainu, an aboriginal group concentrated mainly in Hokkaido. This primitive, light-skinned race—which has no racial affinities with the Japanese—is thought to have entered Japan from the north and spread over the country before the arrival of the ancestors of the Japanese.

The museum is named after an English minister, Dr. John Bachelor (1854-1944), a long-time resident of Hokkaido and one of the best-known authorities on the Ainu.

A youth found guilty of careless driving was lucky he was not charged with dangerous driving, Magistrate William Ostler said in Saanich police court Thursday.

Edward Paul Statham, 19, 3903 Cadboro Bay Road, was fined $75 and had his licence suspended for driving without due care and attention.

Court was told Statham narrowly missed some people waiting at a bus stop while turning from Sinclair onto Finnerty Road, Oct. 7.

PO Roger Trudeau of the navy shore patrol said he chased Stathan at speeds up to 55 miles an hour along Finnerty Road.

Combines Act Changes Under Study

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Chevrier said Friday a departmental committee is studying possible amendments to the Combines Investigation Act.

He did not give the Commons any indication of their nature but said the government would study the committee's report to determine whether legislation will be necessary.

Mr. Chevrier made the comment during an exchange with opposition members over the high price of sugar.

The justice minister said the latest information is that the world sugar price will continue at high levels but no shortage is anticipated in Canada.

He said the provinces, and not the federal Parliament, are responsible in peacetime for measures regulating prices and consumers should address any plea in this respect to provincial authorities.

TORIES CHEER

Dief Rides High In Saddle

(See Page 3)

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker was given a rousing and prolonged standing ovation today after a 90-minute damn-the-Grits and boost-the-Tories speech to the Progressive Conservative party national executive.

Even executive members known to oppose Mr. Diefenbaker's continued leadership of the party applauded him and one said afterwards: "It was a good performance."

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke to 120-odd members of the executive in private session and at the luncheon break said the reception was "tremendous." He told Gordon Churchill and Richard Thrasher, who have been co-leaders of the national organization, to brief reporters on the meeting.

At the executive session it was announced that Mr. Thrasher takes over the full duties of national director of the party after sharing them with Mr. Churchill, who remains chief liaison link among party headquarters, the Conservative caucus and the party leader.

APPLAUDED FREQUENTLY

In closed session, executive members interrupted Mr. Diefenbaker's speech repeatedly with rounds of applause and laughter with his political sallies. In the enthusiasm created by the meeting, Mr. Churchill told reporters:

"I have never seen such enthusiasm and such a prolonged ovation for Mr. Diefenbaker in all these seven years he has been leader."

One of the anti-Diefenbaker element said the leader tended to dwell too much on recent party history in his speech, but Mr. Churchill said Mr. Diefenbaker also urged the delegates to bring forward their suggestions for future party policy.

Mr. Diefenbaker, his hair tousled, circulated the hotel conference hall after his speech, meeting delegates and renewing old acquaintenceships. He was to leave almost immediately for a speaking engagement in Winnipeg.

A conference source said Mr. Diefenbaker emphasized four main themes: The history of the party in politically difficult times, the work of the opposition in Parliament now "compelling the government to retrace its steps and modify its program," the increasing number of disclosures tending to show in retrospect that Conservative government decisions were based on wise precedents, and inspiration for the party to face the future with hard work but with confidence.

Mr. Diefenbaker also laid his continued leadership on the line —as he did in a press conference two months ago—by saying he will submit it to a vote of confidence in the national general meeting of the party expected to be called for early next year.

SUSPECTS GET CHANCE TO ANSWER

Security Case Review Set Up by Government

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has introduced procedures to review cases in which members of the forces or federal employees become tagged as security risks.

Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Friday night that henceforth such persons will be told of the accusations against them and given a chance to tell their side of the story to a secret board of review.

But, he said, the security of the nation precludes the establishment of any quasi-judicial tribunal such as has been suggested by the New Democratic Party.

The NDP urged the setting up of such a body after it was learned Gordon Knott, a Lake Cowiehan, B.C., youth, was dismissed from the navy as a security risk on the basis of false information received by RCMP.

After NDP members raised a row in the Commons, the justice department ordered a new investigation which turned up the error. Justice Minister Chevrier made a public apology to Knott and ordered his security file destroyed.

REJECT NDP ARGUMENT

Mr. Pearson and Justice Minister Chevrier, who expanded on the prime minister's statements, also rejected an NDP argument that persons should not be branded as security risks because of the beliefs or activities of relatives.

In sensitive security jobs, people related to known subversives were liable to be subjected to pressure to pass on secret data.

Those with relatives living in countries behind the Iron Curtain were particularly open to terrible emotional pressures.

Knott was listed as a security risk because an uncle was said to be a Communist. It turned out it was not his uncle, but another man of the same name.

Mr. Pearson said the board of review will consist of members drawn from the existing security panel. This panel is composed of government officials of deputy minister rank who study reports from the RCMP on suspected security risks.

INFORM SUSPECT FIRST

This procedure will apply:

The suspect will be informed in general of the allegations against him and be invited to refute them personally in an interview with the permanent head of his department or agency.

The board of review will examine all the facts and hear

Sailor's Release May Get Review

The case of a discharged Victoria seaman could be the first to be reviewed by a new board on national security risks, lawyer Lloyd McKenzie suggested today.

The barrister referred to the discharge of petty officer Eric Clifford Petersen from the RCN on grounds that his father-in-law had been a depression-days member of the Communist party.

Mr. McKenzie earlier this year protested the discharge to Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, who reported to the Commons that the matter rests.

Commenting on Mr. Pearson's announcement of the new board, Mr. McKenzie expressed the hope that the Petersen case may be the first one taken up.

VAST IMPROVEMENT

Creation of the board is "a vast improvement" over the previous situation in which a person could be accused, dismissed from government service and have no appeal, Mr. McKenzie said.

"But it is difficult to know whether this is the best possible tribunal to ensure that justice is done. It is certainly worth a try. In the first place, it gives the accused an opportunity to be heard."

Mr. McKenzie said the structure of the board seems to achieve a form of judicial impartiality.

"Security matters are of special nature and can't be held in an open trial," the lawyer noted.

Washington Advised

Ottawa Disturbed By U.S. Pickets

American SIU Alleges Fascism

(Times News Service)

OTTAWA—A renewed boycott of Canadian ships by U.S. maritime trade unions has been "drawn to the attention" of the U.S. government, Labor Minister Allan MacEachen said today.

MacEachen told reporters that while he personally had not been in touch with U.S. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, the Canadian government was relying on previous assurances by the Kennedy administration of co-operation to end Great Lakes labor strife.

"This matter has been drawn to the attention of U.S. authorities," MacEachen said of the renewed harrassment of Canadian vessels in U.S. lakes ports.

He indicated the contact with Washington had been made by his departmental officials. He also hinted that the issue would be carried to the ministerial level should the U.S. picketing continue to spread.

He made the statement after vice-president of the Seafarers' International union in the U.S. Al Tanner, said in Detroit U.S. unions would picket Canadian ships in protest against "seizure" of the Canadian section of the SIU through imposition of a public trusteeship over the SIU and its rival lakes unions.

MacEachen Warned of Boycott

The Canadian government trusteeship is "the same as actions against labor unions taken by Hitler and Mussolini," said Mr. Tanner. "And Canada is only a few miles away."

The statement recalled a warning Oct. 9 by Canadian Labor Minister Allan MacEachen. He told Parliament when the trusteeship legislation was first introduced that there might be a "total boycott" against Canadian ships in U.S. ports.

The situation could "grow worse before it gets better," he said then.

In Superior, Wis., Friday, four members of the Great Lakes district of the SIU suspended picketing of the J. N. McWatters after being served with the injunction. The court order was secured by lawyers for Scott Misener Steamships Limited of Port Colborne, Ont., owners of the ship.

The pickets carried signs, one of which read: "Der Fuehrer MacEachen has placed Canadian seamen in captivity, following in iHtler's footsteps."

Mr. Tanner said picket boats will be used in the various Great Lakes demonstrations, and SIU men will also patrol docks to carry the union's story to other union members. The protest will last "indefinitely."

Picketing was under way Friday in at least two U.S. ports — Buffalo and Superior. A temporary injunction, however, suspended the picketing today at Superior.

"It is obvious that Mr. Tanner does not understand the purpose of the trusteeship—to restore free trade unionism in Canada," Mr. MacEachen commented.

Earlier, Canadian Labor Congress President Claude Jodoin charged that the boycott of Canadian ships in U.S. ports was "completely unwarranted."

Meanwhile, the three federal trustees flew to their homes Friday for weekend rests after getting shipping in Canada back into smooth water following a conference Thursday with Hal Banks, head of the SIU in Canada.

In Vancouver, Mr. Justice Victor Dryer angrily denied that any bargain had been made with Mr. Banks to get the walkout ended. The trustees had made it clear, he said, that if Mr. Banks didn't end the illegal strike, "we would."

MANSLAUGHTER

Fisherman Given 10 Years

A Galiano Island fisherman today was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter after a Saanich widow had offered to put up $1,000 to buy him a fishboat and give him "a fresh start."

Mrs. Hazel Jones' offer was made in Assize Court here after John Stanley Crocker, 21, had been found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of 80-year-old Joseph George on Galiano Island last Aug. 12.

Joseph McKenna, QC, Crocker's defence counsel, pleaded for a suspended sentence in view of this generosity, but Mr. Justice J. G. A. Hutcheson said manslaughter is "still one of the most serious crimes."

NO EXCUSE

"Drunkenness is no excuse for manslaughter," the judge told Crocker, "and a person convicted of it is liable to imprisonment for life.

"Your record during the last two years indicates that you have shown a repeated disregard for the laws of the land and the rights of others.

"I hope you will take advantage of the opportunities you will have in prison to cure your weakness and to improve yourself and fit yourself to take your proper place in society when you are released."

Before sentence was passed, Mr. McKenna read a letter from Mrs. Jones in which she offered to put up $1,000 to buy a fishboat for Crocker.

HAD EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Jones said she lived 12 years on an Indian reservation in Idaho before coming to Saanich and had considerable experience of Indian welfare.

"I would like to do something for him if he will give up drinking," she wrote.

Mr. McKenna said Crocker had several previous convictions and in each case he was drinking at the time.

"The difficulty," he added, "is that Indians in this area — and white men as well —go out fishing for a number of days,

ABANDON HOPE 39 MINERS STILL ALIVE

PEINE, Germany (UPI)—Mine officials abandoned hope today for 39 miners trapped 330 feet underground in the Lengede-Broistedt iron mine. But they said there was a "very, very slim chance" that four others might be still alive in an air pocket at the 270-foot level.

Rescue teams were drilling toward the 270-foot level despite lowering hopes. A flicker of hope raised when a picked up knocking sounds was dashed when experts decided the sound came from the rattling of rocks.

High Tides Precede Ginny

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) —Hurricane Ginny, still dangerous and unpredictable, romped near the North Carolina coast today.

The erratic storm, which became a hurricane 90 miles off Cape Hatteras last week, shuttled in toward land early today.

In an early advisory, the weather bureau estimated her centre to be about 60 miles southeast of Wilmington.

The weather bureau warned that all precautions should be continued along North Carolina's southeastrn coast. Gales and tides two to five feet above normal levels, with rough seas, were expected.

REGINA DOES IT AGAIN

REGINA (CP) — For the second year in a row Regina is the first major Canadian city to surpass its United Appeal campaign target.

Officials said today $143,915 has been collected, surpassing by more than $1,400 its objective. It took 38 days to reach the target—tying last year's record. The target was $12,000 more than in 1962.

BUT WHERE?

Peace Talks Slated

MARRAKECH (AP) — The Moroccan government announced today it will take part in four-power talks to end Morocco's frontier dispute with Algeria in Bamako, Mali, Tuesday.

The announcement, from Information Minister Abdel Hadi Boutaleb, came after President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria said he would leave within 48 hours to attend a summit conference on the border conflict in Tunis, Tunisia, or Tripoli, Libya.

Algeria announced Friday night that a summit conference between Ben Bella and King Hassan II of Morroco would be held in Tunis Monday with six other African leaders participating.

But the word from the Moroccans had been that they wanted a foreign ministers conference to precede the meeting of the heads of state.

Viet Nam Program Disturbs Mission

SAIGON (Reuters)—A United Nations fact-finding mission to South Viet Nam today scrapped the remainder of the program prepared for its visit by President Ngo Dinh Diem's government.

Mission officials said: "There are no fixed appointments for the future. All future arrangements are at present under discussion."

Members of the UN survey mission were reported to be unhappy with the tight-organized program prepared by the government for their study of allegations of government persecution of Vietnamese Buddhists.

The government has denied that the official program was "imposed" on the mission.

The prepared program envisaged four days of guided visits to the provinces before the mission's scheduled departure next week.

This left them little time or opportunity to speak to the people other than government officials in Saigon.

The government Friday called off without explanation a scheduled visit by the mission to a key Buddhist pagoda in Saigon.

LATE SUMMER OR EARLY SPRING?

Easterners Never Had It So Good

CHICAGO (AP)—The season is autumn and winter is only 58 days away, but the characteristics today are those of spring.

For example, many heat records are toppling daily; raspberries and strawberries are taking advantage of the unseasonably warm weather to hatch a new brood; roses are still blooming and hydrangea are reappearing.

The brisk coolness of typical autumn is replaced by humid weather, parched land, hundreds of forest fires and rationing of water.

Hunters who revelled in the snap of early-morning October as they stamped through the dew-stricken weeds have placed their guns back in the closet. The sport has become dangerous because of fire hazards.

In the U.S. midwest, temperature records are falling and even the vegetation is confused.

Heat records fell for the second consecutive day in Cincinnati. Friday's 83 was the warmest Oct. 25 since 1902. Thirty-five miles east of Cincinnati, the 1,100 residents of Mount Orab are working day and night to lay a 3.5-mile pipeline. The town's water supply will be exhausted by Monday.

A year ago today, Ohio's first snow of the season blanketed much of the state. Now, 419 fires have been reported since Oct. 1 involving 2,515 acres of land.

TORONTO (UPI) — Record temperatures baked southwestern Ontario's parched farmland again Friday as a government emergency committee geared for an assault on a two-month drought that threatens to ruin many farmers.

H. F. Crown, vice-chairman of the emergency committee, said numerous offers of aid in hauling water to stricken areas have come from the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, several dairies and trucking firms.

Canadian National Railways offered to provide a 20-car water train service from Sarnia with 10,000 gallon tank cars, and Supertest Petroleum Corporation Limited said it would provide tank trucks to carry water on request.

Areas suffering from lack of rain are invited to write, wire, or telephone Bill Mackie, care of Victoria Weather Office, Gonzales Heights.

He has gallons of it, and would be happy to export it in quantity.

But as things stand, Mr. Mackie has to forecast a changeable, blustery weekend, with occasional clearing to tease the outdoorsmen, generally cloudy with showers and steady rain.

Temperatures in the range of 35 to 42 overnight, possibly creeping up to 50 Sunday. Winds? Of course; (i.e.) 15 to 25 overnight, increasing to 25 with gusts up to ? Sunday afternoon.

Allstate Bill Wins Committee Approval

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill to incorporate Allstate Life Insurance Company of Canada, stalled in Parilament for nearly a year because of opposition to its United States control, was approved by the Commons banking and commerce committee Friday.

Joseph O'Kell, secretary of Simpsons-Sears Limited, told committee members his company would have 25 per cent control of the insurance company.

The rest would be owned by Allstate Insurance Company of Inninois—a subsidiary of Sears-Roebuck of the U.S.

AUTO TARIFF REACTION

U.S. Takeover of Parts Firms Seen

OTTAWA (CP)—New federal incentives to auto parts exports could lead to take-over purchases of some independent Canadian parts companies by United States auto firms, informed sources suggested Friday.

This was one of the possible repercussions seen here to the policy announced by Industry Minister Drury of tariff duty rebates for imported cars and parts in return for increases in automotive exports.

Informants expressed confidence that the U.S. parents of Canadian auto manufacturers will take avantage of the incentive by expanding their purchases of auto parts in Canada.

They suggested that in view of the closely-knit structure of the auto industry, this may be achieved in some instances by the U.S. auto companies buying out independent parts manufacturers in Canada.

Another ramification is that the impact of the tariff incentive plan won't be felt equally among auto companies, especially the "big three" U.S.-owned subsidiaries: General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Informants estimated that about $70 of the cost of a Chrysler car represents import duties on imported parts—more than twice as much as the comparable figure for General Motors or Ford cars.

Thus Chrysler would have greater scope to earn import duty rebates than the other two companies.

The new government policy is also expected to have the effect of narrowing the tariff preference enjoyed by British carfacturers, to the extent that American-owned companies in Canada qualify for duty remissions. British cars and parts enter Canada duty free.

Spending Outpaces Revenues

OTTAWA (CP)—A budgetary deficit of $96,400,000 in the first half of the current fiscal year was reported Friday night in Finance Minister Gordon's monthly statement on the state of his treasury.

Nearly half of the April-September deficit on government operations was incurred in the month of September, when the government went $46,500,000 into the red,

A year ago there was a $67,000,000 deficit for the first half of the 1962-63 fiscal year, and a $61,400,000 deficit in September, 1962.

The six-month deficit compares with Mr. Gordon's June 13 budget forecast of a $585,000,000 deficit for the full 1963-64 year—a figure that was boosted to $655,000,000 by his July 8 changes in the budget. Government expenditures usually rise sharply at the end of each fiscal year in March.

The report showed that rising revenues this year have been outpaced by the increase in spending.

Budgetary revenues in the six months, April-September, were $2,882,300,000 compared to $2,845,200,000 a year earlier. Budgetary expenditures rose to $2,978,700,000 from $2,912,200,000.

Canadian Makers Will Co-Operate

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—The head of General Motors of Canada said Friday the Canadian automotive industry will join forces with the government in continuing efforts to increase exports and cut imports "by all practical economic means."

General Motors President E. H. Walker, speaking in his capacity as president of the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce, said: "The reduction of the automotive portion of the imbalance of trade with the United States has been the concern of the industry and the government.

"It is only through the industry's ability to maintain the best possible international competitive position that it can continue to expand within the Canadian market, increase exports, safeguard the jobs of the nearly 40,000 people it now employs and maintain its current annual rate of spending in Canada, which now approaches $1,000,000,000."

OAKVILLE (CP)—The Ford Motor Company of Canada is pledged to help the Canadian government carry out its policy of boosting production and exports through tariff incentives to the automotive industry, Ford President Karl E. Scott said today.

"We will, as always, give all possible assistance in achieving the aims of the government," Mr. Scott said.

"Ford of Canada recognizes the objective of the Canadian government's new program for increased automotive exports from Canada and is sensitive to the national imbalance of trade that motivates it," Mr. Scott said.

Lencourt Mines Shares Suspended

TORONTO (CP) — Shares of Lencourt Gold Mines Ltd. were suspended from trading on the stock market Friday pending an investigation into the company's affairs.

The exchange said it considered it advisable to suspend trading in the shares of Lencourt "until such time as the situation with respect to the financial affairs of the company have been clarified."

Ruble Convertible

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced this week it is making the ruble convertible for purposes of trade within the Soviet bloc.

The government news agency Tass said the ruble may also be converted in certain instances for use in trade with Western countries.

Studebaker Sees Sharp Sales Gain

HAMILTON — Studebaker of Canada Ltd. expects to sell well over 10,000 Canadian-built cars this model year compared with about 7,700 in the 1963 model year, G. E. Grundy, president, told Canadian Dow Jones.

"Everything clicked this year and we're off to a good start," he said.

To handle this year's higher sales it may be necessary to double the work schedule to 16 hours from the present eight, Grundy said. Plans to expand the Hamilton plant have been deferred for the time, probably next year, when a decision is made on production of Studebaker trucks in Canada.

Grundy said Studebaker of Canada plans to produce "certain specialized lower-priced vehicles" for export which, because of small production runs, couldn't be handled economically by Studebaker in the U.S.

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1963—PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

This is the time of the great ocean-born gales, the blows that sweep in past our lonely weather ships to lather their seas against Cape Flattery and the black west coast reefs.

They reach our normally tranquil town with strength reduced but by no means expended. In their armory they still carry the 80-mile gust a walker must lean into, while windowglass bends and branches snap, and the air becomes a freshet river freighted with minor debris.

A cone or acorn flung into your face by such a blast may bruise and will certainly sting.

There is the ever-present menace of the stranded power line, whipping a lethal lash that sparks and crackles against wet blacktop.

Whole trees may rend their roots and topple. The umbrella rashly unfurled pulls like a driver-sail, or flips with a ripping of fabric and crackle of unhinged ribs.

To walk amid the gusts of a full gale is a game for the hardy, or perhaps the foolhardy. But your companion on such a venture is an exhilaration that does not accompany the tame stroll in fair weather.

* * *

In any big blow, Dallas Road between Ross Bay cemetery and the seawall is a challenge to the reckless. The prudent cars hesitate, eyeing the combers that hurl their spray across the road into the gnarled and salt-dwarfed scrub. Then their owners pilot them the long way round to Beacon Hill.

But others, the young cars, can't resist a dare. Down and along they scurry, salted metal and a stalled engine risked for the thrill of the semi-amphibious passage.

Around at Willows Beach, you may spot wet-suit divers frolicking like shiny black seals in the boisterous surf. But the boat trailers are gone from Cattle Point. The weather foreshadowed by the smallcraft warnings is upon us with a vengeance.

Our own boats are safe at home. We learned long ago the folly of leaving a boat to winter on any lee-shore beach. In a gale, the power and high-tide reach of the sea is incredible to those who haven't experienced it wary of the brittle balsams which each new gale reduces by a limb or two. Last fall, we watched from our last stair-flight while boomsticks flew like javelins and a summer's driftlogs played their own version of musical chairs.

Our vantage point is gone now—that six-step flight was torn out in a 70-miler; and well that neither we nor ours were on it when the king-waves struck!

* * *

There is also the rain. In a proper gale, you learn that wetness is a matter of degree, and that beyond saturation is a super-saturation complete as if you dived into a pool.

Up-Island one day, Win and I found ourselves without car in a streaming gale, five miles from the cottage we'd rented. Never before or since have we walked in such a rain. Its flurries bounced inches off the highway. When a gust drove it against our faces, we ducked our heads to escape drowning.

In seconds, we were wet through. In a quarter-mile, our shoes were sodden and squishing. At that point, we began to enjoy the downpour; since we couldn't possibly get wetter, what was to lose?

But wetter we did get. After a mile or so, I sheltered under the limbs of an evergreen and tried to roll a cigarette. Even with three papers, I couldn't manage that smoke. My fingers were too wet. Papers and tobacco disintegrated in the spray through the cedar fronds.

About the rest of our walk, I remember only that a black bear walloped across the road so close in front of us we could smell his rank, wet pelt. Also that when we sloshed down to the cottage by the river, our pockets were brimful and running over.

At the end of your gale-walking, of course, must wait roof and fire, dry clothes and a hot dinner. That night we had potatoes, peas and cutthroat trout, and while we ate with the stove cherry-red at our backs, the big rain drummed tirelessly upon the shingles.

NEW BOY SCOUT commissioner for Greater Victoria Region is Wilfred H. Gibson, 4916 Prospect Lake Road. He has been associated with scouting since he joined Third Victoria Troop in 1920. He has since served as Scoutmaster, district Cubmaster, and district commissioner for Tsartlip district. He succeeds Lieut.-Col. Reginald Girard, regional commissioner since 1956.

DRIVER READY TO TALK WAY OUT OF JAM

Joseph Earl Graham, of Campbell River, told Saanich police when they arrested him Friday evening he was going to try to talk them out of charging him with impaired driving.

He pleaded guilty to the charge in police court today.

He was observed driving erratically on Interurban Road, and later on Burnside, about 6:50 p.m.

Magistrate William Ostler fined him $300.

Former Prisoner Pleads Guilty

A young man recently released from the B.C. penitentiary pleaded guilty in Oak Bay police court today to trying to cash a forged cheque.

Charles Herbert Pegelo, no fixed address, tried to cash a forged cheque for $138.31 in the Shop-Easy store on Oak Bay Avenue about 7:20 p.m. Friday, the court was told.

Pegelo was remanded until Tuesday at 10 a.m. for sentence.

BURNED OUT FAMILY GETS INSTANT AID

United Appeal Follows the Firemen

By RAY SINCLAIR

Swift help has come to the Clark family from three United Appeal agencies following a fire which destroyed their home and belongings Friday.

Ruth and Derek Clark and their five young children were left destitute by the blaze at 702 Blanshard.

By this morning, St. Vincent de Paul Society had made enquiries, and immediately "adopted" the family.

They are being supplied with all essentials not available, and regular checks are to be made to ensure there is enough food.

The Victorian Order of Nurses has placed itself at the disposal of the young couple in case the children should become ill.

The five children are Marcia, 6, Douglas, 4, Brian, 3, Scott, 1, and David, 3.

Any gaps left in aid for the Clarks will be filled by the Family and Children's Service.

All three agencies receive funds from the United Appeal, which is at present trying to raise $400,000 by public donation.

United Appeal president Dr. Peter Banks commented: "This is the United Appeal in swift action."

The blaze in the Clarks' old five-room house was not apparent for some time.

Mrs. Clark smelled smoke while working in the kitchen, but saw no sign of its origin.

Later Derek Clark came home from his part-time city job and was resting when Mrs. Clark smelled smoke again.

"I went back again and now I could see it," she said. "I shouted at my husband to get up and I ran out of the back door to see where the other children were."

Douglas and Brian were playing in the yard.

Mr. Clark caugh up Scott and David from where they slept and rushed outside. Marcia was at school.

The house quickly became an inferno.

The Clark family is now staying with neighbor Ernest Picton, at 749 McClure. Any financial aid can be offered by calling Mr. Picton at 385-0790.

City Solicitor Challenges A-G On Movie Vote

Victoria city solicitor T. P. O'Grady today challenged Attorney - General Bonner's solution to the Sunday movies controversy here.

Mr. Bonner said Friday, if Victoria wants Sunday movies, it should hold a plebiscite.

Mr. O'Grady said today, "I would disagree, with great respect, that this is possible."

Mr. O'Grady told the Times in an interview:

"Section 213 of the Municipal Act says council may hold a referendum on any question with which it has power to deal."

But it has no power to order its own exemption from the Lord's Day Act. This is up to the government, he said.

OUTSIDE ACT

Although Vancouver was able to hold a plebiscite and thus obtained Sunday movies, Vancouver is outside the Municipal Act's jurisdiction, operating under it own city charter, the city solicitor said.

Mr. Bonner was out of town today and unavailable for further comment.

He told reporters Friday that a plebiscite had been successful in Vancouver and added;

"It would be very difficult to reject a representation of that nature."

The attorney-general said if a plebiscite supported Sunday movies or sport, it could result in a bill before the legislature. He withdrew his personal feelings on the question.

COUNCIL TOPIC

The latest public discussions on the question grew out of a city council meeting Thursday when a group of theatre managers requested a plebiscite.

At that time Mr. O'Grady told council the Municipal Act prohibits such a vote.

The act states:

"The council may by bylaw provide for obtaining by referendum, at the time of the annual elections, the opinion of the owner-electors or the electors, upon any question which affects the municipality, and with which the council has power to deal."

Belmont PTA to Meet

Annual meeting of Belmont High School PTA will be held Monday at 8 p.m.

Election of officers will be held.

BOY HELD IN MURDER GUILTY OF CAR THEFT

A 15-year-old youth held in connection with the George Down murder, Friday pleaded guilty in juvenile court to auto theft and escaping lawful custody.

He was remanded for one week for a pre-sentence report.

The youth has now been in custody for over a month.

He was charged with escaping from Brannen Lake School and stealing a car in Nanaimo.

CHAMBER ACTS

Aid Sought For Shipyards

Victoria Chamber of Commerce acted quickly Friday in an attempt to protect local shipyards from a disastrous payroll cutback.

One day after the government officially cancelled a proposed $452,000,000 program building frigates for the RCN, the Chamber wired Prime Minister Pearson appealing for "immediate consideraiton" of measures to help Victoria yards maintain "at least a reasonably high level of employment."

Decision to make the appeal was reached at a noon meeting of Chamber directors, at which John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows Ltd., predicted very serious damage to the whole of Victoria's economy as a result of the cancellation.

He forecast layoffs at both major yards early in 1964.

The wire to Mr. Pearson stated: "The directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce are greatly concerned regarding the future of the shipbuilding industry in our community.

"Local shipyards and HMC Dockyard are currently employing 2,200 workers. The cancellation of the general purpose frigate program, coupled with the inevitable dilution of the balance of work available to the industry on a national basis forecasts major cutbacks will occur here within three months.

"In recognition of Greater Victoria's dependence on this industry in maintaining a healthy economy, we urge your government's consideration of any measures which would enable Victoria yards to maintain at least a reasonably high level of employment."

SERIOUS JEOPARDY

Mr. Wallace told the Chamber directors a monthly payroll of more than $2,000,000 was "placed in serious jeopardy."

He pointed out that the $110,000,000 Department of Transport building program, announced in the Commons Thursday following the frigate cancellation, would be of little help to western yards.

"Only 10 per cent of this money is coming to the west," he said.

He forecast increasing pressure from eastern yards, including an effort to have three West Coast destroyers escorts slated for conversion moved to the east.

NEW DIRECTOR of secondary school correspondence courses in education department is John Ross Hind. Until now assistant registrar of examinations, he holds a degree from the University of Toronto and has taught at Qualicum, West Vancouver, and Burnaby. He succeeds Dr. Edith Lucas, whose resignation is effective Oct. 31.

NEW CAPTAIN of RCN Pacific Command frigate, HMCS Jonquiere is a Victoria man, Lt.-Cmdr. Albert Peter Campbell. He was born and educated here, entering Royal Roads college in 1944. Prior to taking up his new command he served on the staff of the naval member Canadian Joint Staff at Washington, D.C.

Infant Deaths Checked

By PETE LOUDON

Provincial Health Minister Eric Martin has ordered a check of infant mortality statistics at a B.C. hospital.

He said today he ordered the inquiry following charges by Dr. Ralph E. Adams, director of St. Joseph's Hospital here.

Dr. Adams had charged in Vancouver that hospitals in B.C. are so harassed by government policies that they are unable to hire enough nurses.

He said, as a result, the infant mortality rate in one hospital was double what it should have been.

In an interview today he said the hospital is not in Victoria, but he would not identify it.

'NOT A PROBE'

Health Minister Martin said later, "This is not a probe or an investigation. It is just an inquiry by the chief inspector of hospitals.

"We have to see what the statistics say.

"He (Dr. Adams) has to substantiate his statements. We are not on the defensive."

Asked whether this might be followed by a full-scale investigation by an independent body, the minister said, "I can't commit myself."

Dr. Adams made his statements to a reporter at the B.C. Hospital Association convention in Vancouver.

Elaborating in a Victoria interview today, Dr. Adams said, "I was asked if I knew of a situation where care had gone down. I said yes." He then related the case of the infant deaths.

He added today, "I do not believe the hospital of which I have this knowledge has been featured in any controversies."

NORMAL HERE

He said Victoria hospitals' infant mortality statistics are normal.

But he maintained that all B.C. hospitals are not advancing as quickly as they should. In this regard B.C. is the least progressive province in Canada, he said.

"This doesn't mean we are not as good as we were, but we are not growing as fast as we were."

Dr. Adams noted that Health Minister Martin recently said he considered the executive of the B.C. Hospital Association are his advisers

He said he presumed therefore that Mr. Martin would contact the BCHA executive before launching any investigation.

Dr. Adams earlier appeared on television in Vancouver with charts showing the increased infant mortality rate at the "mystery" hospital.

SAME CHARTS

Mr. Martin said a pre-election issue of Hospital Employees' Union publication used the same charts presented by Dr. Adams and led him to view the charges with suspicion.

Dr. Adams apparently had information from other sources as well, but none of it came from the BCHIS, "The only accurate source of information," the minister said.

"So we look at the figures he gave with a jaundiced eye but will examine them as soon as possible."

Mr. Martin asked if a death results from neglect in a hospital "don't you think the doctors would have some responsibility?"

"If that happened, why has it not been reported to us or to the heads of the medical profession?"

The minister said the information was given to Dr. Adams instead so that "he could deliver his low blow."

MONDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Gyro Club: Noon, Empress Hotel. Owen Karn, president of Silver Threads Service speaks on the proposed federal pension plan.

TOPICS of the DAY

A two-car collision at Rose and Finlayson Friday evening sent four people from one of the cars to hospital.

Robert Lenaghan, 1074 Oliver, was the driver of one car. He and Fay Lenaghan, 17, Peter Lenaghan, 7, and John Lenaghan, 5, all were treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital and released.

Driver of the other car was William Leek, 1242 Oscar.

Air raid sirens shrieked in Langford just before noon today — without official sanction.

Short circuits caused by continued wet and windy weather set the sirens off, a navy spokesman said.

"We'd just get one fixed and another would start up," he said.

Volunteer swimmers — preferably with lifesaving certificates — are needed by the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded.

Swimming classes for retarded persons are held each Friday at HMCS Naden pool from 9:45 till 10:45 a.m.

Swimmers can call EV 2-5570.

Esquimalt Dockyard Starts First Submarine Refit

The first full refit of a submarine ever undertaken in Canada is in hand at HMC Dockyard, Esquimalt, with HMCS Grilse the subject of an inch-by-inch survey, repaint, and repairs.

The only sub in Canada's navy, Grilse is on loan from the United States. She arrived here in mid-1961, and since then has logged thousands of miles in games of hounds and hares with Pacific command destroyers and frigates.

The full refit was undertaken here to establish the capability of Dockyard to handle submarine work—much of it specializing and differing widely from refit of surface ships.

The U.S. navy co-operated by demonstrating techniques to Dockyard tradesmen at their submarine bases at Bremerton and San Francisco.

Although this is Grilse's first full refit, she was docked for an interim survey of the hull and underwater fittings in August, 1962.

During the present refit, Grilse will again be docked for a hull survey, re-painting where necessary, and the usual repairs which are undertaken during a normal refit period.

Repairs include maintenance work on main and auxiliary machinery. A special project is replacement of battery cells which must take place periodically to provide the necessary power.

As part of the change of batteries, the cells now fitted will be removed and replaced by new elements which have been charged in the Dockyard.

Our old and becoming-familiar friend Aquilo huffed into the Inner Harbor this morning after a moonlit crossing from Seattle.

(You don't know Aquilo? She's the former B. T. Rogers yacht of 50 years back, now owned by John Scott Campbell of the University of Washington.

She has 34 passengers aboard — the U. of Wash. rugger team, coaches and, as Professor Campbell puts it "what seems to be a large number of girl friends."

Aquilo is berthed at the CPR's Belleville Street docks where she will remain overnight.

* * *

Another arrival at the CPR docks today was CPSS Princess Marguerite, her summer Seattle work ended. She joins Patricia for winter lay-up.

RCN Pacific Command's fleet maintenance vessel HMCS Cape Breton is on her way to the Hawaiian Island area. She's due Nov. 1 to join the destroyer escorts Skeena, Fraser and Margaree on exercises with units of the U.S. navy.

The destroyers reached Pearl Harbor via San Diego, and are due back as Esquimalt Nov. 21. Cape Breton will return Nov. 25.

HMCS Saskatchewan is taking the long way home. The Yarrows-built DDE left Esquimalt last April 16 for Halifax and commitments with NATO. After a series of exercises in that area, she left the Atlantic Command Aug. 19 to start her journey back to the Pacific coast—via European waters.

She is now in U.K. waters, and will leave next Wednesday, returning to her home port via the following route: Arrive and depart Ponta Del Gada, Nov. 3; arrive San Juan (West Indies), Nov. 10, and leave the following day; arrive at Colon (Panama Canal Zone), Nov. 14 and leave the same day for transit through the canal; arrive at Balboa the same day and leave Nov. 15; arrive San Diego, Nov. 22; leave San Diego, returning to Esquimalt, Nov. 28.

Captain of the Saskatchewan is Cmdr. Mark Mayo. She was commissioned here on Feb. 16 last, and has a complement of 12 officers and 235 men, mostly West Coasters.

By the time the DDE returns home, she'll have steamed approximately 40,000 miles since commissioning.

HMCS Grilse gets "the works" from specially-trained tradesmen.

Miss Beverley McLaughlin finds adventure in year abroad.

London Her First Stop

By MARLENE GLASSFORD

"The whole trip was fabulous!"

This is how Miss Beverley McLaughlin, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. McLaughlin, 2601 Dufferin Avenue, sums up her recently concluded tour of the British Isles and Europe.

A year ago last September, the former Royal Jubilee Hospital X-ray technician left Victoria by train and headed for Montreal. There she boarded the Ss. Homeric which docked seven days later at Southampton.

Next stop was London where she stayed with a great-aunt, Mrs. A. Coan, and worked as a clerk in Harrods.

While employed in the department store, she served many interesting people, among them Lady Churchill and Prince Charles, who was buying his Christmas cards.

HITCH-HIKES

Five months later, the young traveller and a girl friend from New Zealand, were hitch-hiking in France, then Spain, Italy, Austria, Switzerland and Germany.

"In these countries, we estimated that we spent only $10 in fares," says the attractive traveller.

"For the most part, the people who stopped to give us a 'lift' were courteous and friendly. But, none of them spoke English."

On one occasion in Spain, the girls, having been left standing by the roadside in a heavy downpour, were offered a ride by a truck driver. Finally realizing through hand signs and gestures that he would take them from Valencia to Barcelona, they accepted the ride.

Quite unexpectedly, the truck broke down a short distance from a small town "in the middle of nowhere." The driver went into town for a mechanic. When he came back he muttered one word—"kaput!"

Translating this to mean that the truck could not be repaired, the English-speaking twosome proceeded into town and spent the remainder of the night in a half-finished apartment, courtesy of the policia.

YOUTH HOSTELS

Throughout the tour, however, the girls slept mostly in youth hostels.

"Here we were charged 50 cents a night, had to cook our own meals and we had to be in by 10 p.m.

"We were given admittance cards, enabling us to visit all the museums and art galleries—without charge."

In Florence, one of these cards admitted them to the art gallery to view the works of Michael Angelo

While at a hostel in Switzerland, Miss McLaughlin and her companion met a family from Zurich who invited them to visit in their home.

The girls were given a guided tour of that city and a wonderful home meal which was cooked as much on the English style as possible.

In all countries visited, the travellers found evening entertainment to be most reasonable.

"In London we were charged only $1 to attend 'live' productions in the theatres, and in Vienna — though we had to stand — we saw the Viennese Statopera for 16 cents."

Returning to France by herself, Miss McLaughlin went to work in Strasbourg as a children's nurse for a German family.

"Although they spoke no English, we were all able to make ourselves understood in French."

It was in Strasbourg, too, that Miss McLaughlin visited Mrs. E. Young, an old friend who is formerly of Victoria, and presently studying at the university there.

Back in London, the traveller was joined by her mother, who toured England and Scotland with her for five months before returning to Canada.

Then Beverley went back to work. This time it was as a secretary in Great Ormond Street Hospital, London, where she remained until she boarded the Ss. Homeric for the homeward journey — almost a year from the time she arrived in Southampton.

Her parents met her in Montreal and they travelled back across Canada together, stopping in Dauphin, Man., to visit her brother and his family.

Of the many places she visited, Miss McLaughlin says:

"Rome was the most beautiful; France, the most unclean, and Switzerland was the most friendly."

Female Bellafonte 'The Greatest'

By PAT DUFOUR

Harry Belafonte has a female counterpart in Victoria. She's Irene Harris, a slim third-year nursing student at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Like the internationally-known star, Irene packs all the warmth and rhythm of Jamaica in her songs.

There's one big difference. Born and brought up in the United States, Belafonte has only seen Jamaica as a visitor but Irene and her family lived in Kingston, the Jamaican capital, until they came to Victoria when she was nine years old.

Six weeks ago Miss Harris joined the Chariot Singers, a local group that are "tops" with the local hootenanny crowd. The leader, Mike Gibbs, classes her as "the greatest!" When she made her first appearance with them at The Secret the audience was equally as enthusiastic.

LIKES BLUES

The young singer confesses, "I've never been very fond of folk songs, I prefer the blues. You can really put your heart into them and improvise as the mood takes you. But, I've come to love the songs and spirituals that we sing."

And, sing she does. With a range that slides to almost four octaves and in a voice that pulses with feeling. Only lessons she has had are "six with Gipsy Mahaffey when I was in Grade 10."

But she had more than a nodding acquaintance with music long before she began to walk.

"When we were babies we'd wake up to the sound of Dad's records. He's a jazz fanatic."

The family came to Victoria at the suggestion of Irene's grandfather, H. L. Harris, who settled here on his retirement as town clerk of Kingston. He, too, helped set the family's musical atmosphere.

"My grandfather owned his own dance band before he became a preacher."

The Harrises belong to the Brethren Church and Mr. Harris still preaches in churches across North America.

Jamaicans, says Irene, are the greatest church-goers in the world. "No matter how big the church—it's always full. We jump at the chance to get together and sing."

The whole family went back to Jamaica for a holiday in 1961. A visit that made the young singer-cum-nurse decide to go to Jamaica and work "for at least six months" when she graduates.

"It was wonderful to be able to eat all those gorgeous tropical fruits again. One day, I sat under a mango tree and ate myself through a huge pile of mangoes!"

As a school girl, Irene Harris played the saxaphone in S. J. Willis and Mount View High School bands and she sang lead parts in operas at Victoria College.

She sang solos in church, too, as one of a trio that included her sister, Juliette and aunt Mrs. Rosalie Conarroe.

Even the atmosphere of a hospital cannot restrain this love of music. "I cannot resist humming—even in the halls—I do it almost as often as I breathe."

Is there a danger that Miss Harris may be tempted to forsake her role of Florence Nightingale and stay with singing?

"Yes—although I do love nursing. I want to take more singing lessons when I graduate and can earn the money to pay for them."

Would she put her RN in storage and concentrate on a singing career if she had a chance?

Her eyes shine as she quietly admits, "I think I would. There is nothing like the thrill of hearing people clap and knowing that you've done something well."

Irene Harris has a 21st birthday on Sunday. She plans to spend it with her boy friend in Seattle. He's a fellow Jamaican who boarded with her family in Kingston before leaving for the United States. When the Harris family stopped over in New York, en route to Victoria, they met him again.

Entertained

Senior ladies of the Caledonia Society were entertained recently at a luncheon and musical afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Raines at Fulford Harbor. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Dirom, Mr. and Mrs. S. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. D. Osler, Mr. and Mrs. D. Burns, Mrs. M. Primrose, Mrs. J. Robertson, Mrs. P. Campbell, Mrs. J. Milton, Mrs. J. Wilson, Mrs. B. Kinlock and Mrs. H. Webster.

Sather-Anderson Vows

Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiated at the recent ceremony in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church which united Janet Ann Anderson and Ronald Lamont Sather.

The church was decorated with baskets of autumn-toned flowers for the double-ring ceremony. John Bray sang "Because" during signing of the register.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Anderson, 1821 Haultain Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Soren Sather, 2743 Victor Street. Mr. Anderson gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a classic floor-length gown of bridal lace styled with bouffant hooped skirt with a folding bustle bow that created back interest. Tiny pearls and sequins enhanced the scalloped neckline and sleeves ended in lily points.

A finger-tip chapel veil misted from a sparkling crown of pearls and sequins. Red roses and white stephanotis were in the bouquet.

Senior and junior attendants wore identical gowns of chiffon with whimsies and shoes en tone.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Cynthia Finlay, was gowned in pink and carried bronze chrysanthemums. Nile green was choice of senior bridesmaid, Miss Linda Graves, and junior bridesmaids, Misses Linda Brown, Cathy Jacob and Mavis Anderson, sister of the bride. All carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Flower girl, Miss Terri Leah Garvie, wore a pink and white chiffon and taffeta frock, and carried a basket of bronze chrysanthemums.

Lester Sather came from Alberta to be best man for his brother. Ushering guests to pews marked with white satin bows and carnations were Don King, Alton King, Roger Loggin and Don Snyder. Master Billy Pearce was ring bearer.

Joseph Law, Saanich fire chief, proposed the toast at a reception in Holyrood House. A three-tier wedding cake, surrounded by red roses and tulle centered the bride's table.

Lester Sather sang "Hand in Hand We'll Walk Together" and "How Great Thou Art" at the reception.

Following a honeymoon in Vancouver and the United States, the newlyweds are now living at 968 Lyall Street.

The bride's going away outfit was a turquoise and grey tweed suit, white feather hat and gloves, black accessories and white gardenia corsage.

10-YEAR JAIL TERM IN GALIANO SLAYING

Rehabilitation Offer by Woman

A Galiano Island fisherman today was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary for manslaughter after a Saanich widow had offered to put up $1,000 to buy him a fishboat and give him "a fresh start."

Mrs. Hazel Jones' offer was made in Assize Court here after John Stanley Crocker, 21, had been found guilty of manslaughter in connection with the death of 80-year-old Joseph George on Galiano Island last Aug. 12.

Joseph McKenna, QC, Crocker's defence counsel, pleaded for a suspended sentence in view of this generosity, but Mr. Justice J. G. A. Hutcheson said manslaughter is "still one of the most serious crimes."

NO EXCUSE

"Drunkenness is no excuse for manslaughter," the judge told Crocker, "and a person convicted of it is liable to imprisonment for life.

"Your record during the last two years indicates that you have shown a repeated disregard for the laws of the land and the rights of others.

"I hope you will take advantage of the opportunities you will have in prison to cure your weakness and to improve yourself and fit yourself to take your proper place in society when you are released."

Before sentence was passed, Mr. McKenna read a letter from Mrs. Jones in which she offered to put up $1,000 to buy a fishboat for Crocker.

HAD EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Jones said she lived 12 years on an Indian reservation in Idaho before coming to Saanich and had considerable experience in Indian welfare.

"I would like to do something for him if he will give up drinking," she wrote.

Mr. McKenna said Crocker had several previous convictions and in each case he was drinking at the time.

"The difficulty," he added, "is that Indians in this area—and white men as well—go out fishing for a number of days,

WASHINGTON ADVISED

U.S. Pickets Disturb Ottawa

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA—A renewed boycott of Canadian ships by U.S. maritime trade unions has been "drawn to the attention" of the U.S. government, Labor Minister Allan MacEachen said today.

MacEachen told reporters that while he personally had not been in touch with U.S. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz, the Canadian government was relying on previous assurances by the Kennedy administration of co-operation to end Great Lakes labor strife.

"This matter has been drawn to the attention of U.S. authorities," MacEachen said of the renewed harrassment of Canadian vessels in U.S. lakes ports.

He indicated the contact with Washington had been made by his departmental officials. He also hinted that the issue would be carried to the ministerial level should the U.S. picketing continue to spread.

He made the statement after vice-president of the Seafarers' International union in the U.S. Al Tanner, said in Detroit U.S. unions would picket Canadian ships in protest against "seizure" of the Canadian section of the SIU through imposition of a public trusteeship over the SIU and its rival lakes unions.

MacEachen Warned of Boycott

The Canadian government trusteeship is "the same as actions against labor unions taken by Hitler and Mussolini," said Mr. Tanner. "And Canada is only a few miles away."

The statement recalled a warning Oct. 9 by Canadian Labor Minister Allan MacEachen. He told Parliament when the trusteeship legislation was first introduced that there might be a "total boycott" against Canadian ships in U.S. ports.

The situation could "grow worse before it gets better," he said then.

In Superior, Wis., Friday, four members of the Great Lakes district of the SIU suspended picketing of the J. N. McWatters

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker was given a rousing and prolonged standing ovation today after a 90-minute damn-the-Grits and boost-the-Tories speech to the Progressive Conservative party national executive.

Even executive members known to oppose Mr. Diefenbaker's continued leadership of the party applauded him and one said afterwards: "It was a good performance."

Mr. Diefenbaker spoke to 120-odd members of the executive in private session and at the luncheon break said the reception was "tremendous." He told Gordon Churchill and Richard Thrasher, who hav been co-leaders of the national organization, to brief reporters on the meeting.

At the executive session it was announced that Mr. Thrasher takes over the full duties of national director of the party after sharing them with Mr. Churchill, who remains chief liaison link among party headquarters, the Conservative caucus and the party leader.

APPLAUDED FREQUENTLY

In closed session, executive members interrupted Mr. Diefenbaker's speech repeatedly with rounds of applause and laughter with his political sallies. In the enthusiasm created by the meeting, Mr. Churchill told reporters:

"I have never seen such enthusiasm and such a prolonged ovation for Mr. Diefenbaker in all these seven years he has been leader."

One of the anti-Diefenbaker element said the leader tended to dwell too much on recent party history in his speech, but Mr. Churchill said Mr. Diefenbaker also urged the delegates

SUSPECTS GET CHANCE TO ANSWER

Security Case Review Set Up by Government

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has introduced procedures to review cases in which members of the forces or federal employees become tagged as security risks.

Prime Minister Pearson told the Commons Friday night that henceforth such persons will be told of the accusations against them and given a chance to tell their side of the story to a secret board of review.

But, he said, the security of the nation precludes the establishment of any quasi-judicial tribunal such as has been suggested by the New Democratic Party.

The NDP urged the setting up of such a body after it was learned Gordon Knott, a Lake Cowichan, B.C., youth, was dismissed from the navy as a security risk on the basis of false information received by RCMP.

After NDP members raised a row in the Commons, the justice department ordered a new investigation which turned up the error. Justice Minister Chevrier made a public apology to Knott and ordered his security file destroyed.

REJECT NDP ARGUMENT

Mr. Pearson and Justice Minister Chevrier, who expanded on the prime minister's statements, also rejected an NDP argument that persons should not be branded as security risks because of the beliefs or activities of relatives.

In sensitive security jobs, people related to known subversives were liable to be subjected to pressure to pass on secret data.

Those with relatives living in countries behind the Iron Curtain were particularly open to terrible emotional pressures.

Knott was listed as a security risk because an uncle was said to be a Communist. It turned out it was not his uncle, but another man of the same name.

Mr. Pearson said the board of review will consist of members drawn from the existing security panel. This panel is composed of government officials of deputy minister rank who study reports from the RCMP on suspected security risks.

This procedure will apply:

The suspect will be informed in general of the allegations against him and be invited to refute them personally in an interview with the permanent head of his department or agency.

The board of review will examine all the facts and hear

BACK, That Is, BACK!

Backward, turn backward, o time in thy flight, is the watchword this weekend.

Daylight saving ends in British Columbia at 2 a.m. Sunday, and clocks which have been running an hour ahead of standard time, should be moved back 60 minutes at that time.

But there's no penalty for waiting until you wake up Sunday.

High Tides Precede Ginny

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Ginny, still dangerous and unpredictable, romped near the North Carolina coast today.

The erratic storm, which became a hurricane 90 miles off Cape Hatteras last week, shuttled in toward land early today.

In an early advisory, the weather bureau estimated her centre to be about 60 miles southeast of Wilmington.

The weather bureau warned that all precautions should be continued along North Carolina's southeastrn coast. Gales and tides two to five feet above normal levels, with rough seas, were expected.

LATE SUMMER OR EARLY SPRING?

Easterners Never Had It So Good

CHICAGO (AP)—The season is autumn and winter is only 58 days away, but the characteristics today are those of spring.

For example, many heat records are toppling daily; raspberries and strawberries are taking advantage of the unseasonably warm weather to hatch a new brood; roses are still blooming and hydrangea are reappearing.

The brisk coolness of typical autumn is replaced by humid weather, parched land, hundreds of forest fires and rationing of water.

Hunters who revelled in the snap of early-morning October as they stamped through the dew-stricken weeds have placed their guns back in the closet. The sport has become dangerous because of fire hazards.

In the U.S. midwest, temperature records are falling and even the vegetation is confused.

Heat records fell for the second consecutive day in Cincinnati. Friday's 83 was the warmest Oct. 25 since 1902. Thirty-five miles east of Cincinnati, the 1,100 residents of Mount Orab are working day and night to lay a 3.5-mile pipeline. The town's water supply will be exhausted by Monday.

A year ago today, Ohio's first snow of the season blanketed much of the state. Now, 419 fires have been reported since Oct. 1 involving 2,515 acres of land.

TORONTO (UPI)—Record temperatures baked southwestern Ontario's parched farmland again Friday as a government emergency committee geared for an assault on a two-month drought that threatens to ruin many farmers.

H. F. Crown, vice-chairman of the emergency committee, said numerous offers of aid in hauling water to stricken areas have come from the Automotive Transport Association of Ontario, several dairies and trucking firms.

Canadian National Railways offered to provide a 20-car water train service from Sarnia with 10,000 gallon tank cars, and Supertest Petroleum Corporation Limited said it would provide tank trucks to carry water on request.

Areas suffering from lack of rain are invited to write, wire, or telephone Bill Mackie, care of Victoria Weather Office, Gonzales Heights.

He has gallons of it, and would be happy to export it in quantity.

But as things stand, Mr. Mackie has to forecast a changeable, blustery weekend, with occasional clearing to tease the outdoorsmen, generally cloudy with showers and steady rain.

Temperatures in the range of 35 to 42 overnight, possibly creeping up to 50 Sunday. Winds? Of course; (i.e.) 15 to 25 overnight, increasing to 25 with gusts up to ? Sunday afternoon.

Sailor's Release May Get Hearing

The case of a discharged Victoria seaman could be the first to be reviewed by a new board on national security risks, lawyer Lloyd McKenzie suggested today.

The barrister referred to the discharge of petty officer Eric Clifford Petersen from the RCN on grounds that his father-in-law, had been a depression-days member of the Communist party.

Mr. McKenzie earlier this year protested the discharge to Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, who reported to the Commons that the matter rests.

Commenting on Mr. Pearson's announcement of the new board, Mr. McKenzie expressed the hope that the Petersen case may be the first one taken up.

Creation of the board is "a vast improvement" over the previous situation in which a person could be accused, dismissed from government service and have no appeal, Mr. McKenzie said.

"But it is difficult to know whether this is the best possible tribunal to ensure that justice is done. It is certainly worth a try. In the first place, it gives the accused an opportunity to be heard."

Mr. McKenzie said the structure of the board seems to achieve a form of judicial impartiality.

"Security matters are of special nature and can't be held in an open trial," the lawyer noted.

Peace Talks Slated

MARRAKECH (AP)—The Moroccan government announced today it will take part in four-power talks to end Morocco's frontier dispute with Algeria in Bamako, Mali, Tuesday.

The announcement, from Information Minister Abdel Hadi Boutaleb, came after President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria said he would leave within 48 hours to attend a summit conference on the border conflict in Tunis, Tunisia, or Tripoli, Libya.

Algeria announced Friday night that a summit conference between Ben Bella and King Hassan II of Morroco would be held in Tunis Monday with six other African leaders participating.

But the word from the Moroccans had been that they wanted a foreign ministers conference to precede the meeting of the heads of state.

DOES IT AGAIN

REGINA (CP)—For the second year in a row Regina is the first major Canadian city to surpass its United Appeal campaign target.

Officials said today $143,915 has been collected, surpassing by more than $1,400 its objective. It took 38 days to reach the target—tying last year's record. The target was $12,000 more than in 1962.

The Joy Of Good Living

Someone once said: "It is nice to be important, but it is much more important to be nice." How true!

In the hurry and scurry of everyday life we often forget to be kind and helpful to one another. It seems in our anxiety to reach the top we lose the "human touch."

Tis the human touch in the world that counts,
The touch of your hand in mine.
For it means much more to a sorrowing heart
Than shelter, or bread, or wine.
For shelter is gone when the night is o'er
And bread lasts but a day
But the touch of the hand, and the sound of the voice
Lives on in the soul for aye. —Author unknown.

I often think back to the wartime days when I was overseas with my husband in England. The spirit of helpfulness and genuine interest in one another was unequalled. With bombs dropping and the threat of invasion, it seemed to knit people together—as only tragedy can.

A real nostalgia comes over me when I remember some of the quaint little white-washed cottages in North Cumberland with thatched roofs and red geraniums in the front windows. Such pride these housewives had in the appearances of their little homes—both inside and out. It seemed there was endless polishing of the hearth with black lead and red-stoning the front door step—not to mention the way they kept the copper and brass so beautifully shiny. All these things gave love and a "human touch" to the home.

Many a time I have seen scenes like these on Christmas cards, but to see it in reality was lovely. What a contrast to the ugly camouflaged hangers and buildings all around.

Just think what a shining example our own lives can be in this troubled world, if we just polish up our "sterling" qualities and not let them get tarnished. We can bring love and harmony into our lives that will radiate to all those we come in contact.

PTA Charge Denied By Theatre Managers

Victoria theatre managers today denied that youngsters are viewing restricted movies here.

Theatre manager Martin Cave, speaking for a group of theatre officials, said ages of ticket buyers are checked when a restricted movie is shown.

Replying to Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council, which charged restrictions are not being applied, Mr. Cave said no one under 18 is knowingly admitted to shows in the "black cat" category.

Under provincial law, movies which are considered unfit for youngsters are labeled in their advertising with a small black cat symbol. No one under 18 can be legally admitted.

Such movies are shown only two or three times a year, Mr. Cave stated.

At such times, any person who appears to be under 18 is challenged by the ticket seller. The youth must show proof of age. A "student card" or birth certificate is usually tendered.

"We challenge half a dozen or so every night that a restricted movie is showing," said Mr. Cave. "We have got to be right or we lose our licence," he said.

Mr. Cave added some movies are classified as "adult entertainment." This tag does not restrict anyone's admission. It is merely a suggestion to parents to employ discretion.

He said it would be a worthwhile project for the PTA to educate parents to this situation.

BACKS MANAGERS

B.C. movie censor R. W. McDonald supported the movie house managers in their claim. He issues the permits required for restricted films. He said he has had no evidence that persons under 18 have been admitted to restricted pictures and said he would look into the matter if anyone has proof of such infractions.

Mr. McDonald pointed out that persons under 18 may be admitted to restricted films when parents give their permission in person.

This happens rarely. In the current showing of a restricted film, it has happened once only.

CHILDREN'S FUND

Halloween Fun Shared With Needy

For ten years now children on Vancouver Island have been sharing their Halloween fun with the children in Korea.

Instead of collecting candy, which will more than likely be confiscated at home base, many children go collecting coins which will be used to buy milk and other essential foods for those children who are starving in Korea.

This year 4,000 Save the Children Fund collection cans are being distributed on Vancouver Island. On Halloween it is hoped they will be filled with $5,000.

Behind each can is a host of volunteer help. Cans, made at Steveston, B.C., are picked up by a B.C. Packers' barge, then delivered locally by a Dowell's truck and up-Island by Vancouver Island Coach Lines, all free of charge.

Cans may be picked up at First Baptist Church Saturday morning till 12 noon. After that they will be available at McGill and Orme, Fort at Broad, until Thursday.

Anyone wishing more information about the SCF collection cans should contact the local representative, Mrs. W. W. McGill, 3441 Mayfair Avenue.

EDGES BURNLEY

Sheffield United Grabs Top Berth

LONDON (AP)— Left-winger Ron Simpson scored two goals in the first eight minutes today to send Sheffield United into a two-point lead at the head of the English League soccer standings.

Sheffield defeated Burnley 2-1 at Burnley—on a day of sensational upsets.

Manchester United and Tottenham Hotspur, previously joint leaders with Sheffield, were both beaten.

The day's see - sawing left Sheffield with 21 points from 15 games. Arsenal, Everton and Liverpool all won and joined Manchester United and Tottenham on the 19-point mark in second place of the First Division.

Shefield United staggered 25,000 Burnley fans with an explosive start. Simpson got a goal within 10 seconds of the kick-off. Eight minutes later he sent another shot curling into the net from 40 yards.

Burnley could not score until five minutes from the end, when inside - left Jimmy Robson clicked.

CHAMPIONS WIN

A crowd of 68,000 roared Everton, reigning league champions, on to a 1-0 win over Tottenham at Liverpool's Goodison Park stadium.

A brilliant display by both teams was crowned by a goal by Everton left-winger Derek Temple in the 78th minute.

Manchester United slipped 1-0 at home to West Ham—a team reduced to 10 men for the whole of the second half after right-winger Alan Sealey was carried off with a back injury.

Centre-forward Martin Britt scored West Ham's goal in the 36th minute after Manchester had attacked almost continualy. In the second half, with 45,000 fans cheering them on, Manchester stormed into one attack after another—but West Ham's defence held out.

Arsenal slammed in four goals, two by right-winger Geof Strong, in the first 35 minutes at London's Highbury stadium and finally beat Nottingham Forest 4-2.

JFK SEEKS RIGHTS BILL COMPROMISE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy and Congressional leaders of both parties today worked against a deadline only hours away to rescue the administration's civil right bill from a bewildering legislative tangle.

They groped for agreement on a bill which would unite the militant and moderate factions of both parties, but the effort to draft a "harmony" measure still had a long way to go.

The White House and the justice department were negotiating with key House Republicans in the search for an acceptable compromise measure. They believed that everything less was doomed to defeat.

to bring forward their suggestions for future party policy.

Mr. Diefenbaker, his hair tousled, circulated the hotel conference hall after his speech, meeting delegates and renewing old acquaintenceships. He was to leave almost immediately for a speaking engagement in Winnipeg.

A conference source said Mr. Diefenbaker emphasized four main themes: The history of the party in politically difficult times, the work of the opposition in Parliament now "compelling the government to retrace its steps and modify its program," the increasing number of disclosures tending to show in retrospect that Conservative government decisions were based on wise precedents, and inspiration for the party to face the future with hard work but with confidence.

Mr. Diefenbaker also laid his continued leadership on the line—as he did in a press conference two months ago—by saying he will submit it to a vote of confidence in the national general meeting of the party expected to be called for early next year.

FEARS ACT NOT RIGHT

City Chamber Favors Pension Plan Review

An impartial commission to review the proposed federal pension plan is urged in a resolution passed by the directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce Friday.

In introducing the resolution, chamber president E. E. Pearlman said that every sensible Canadian would approve of a suitable pension scheme, but asked whether the proposed act is the right vehicle.

"It is a question of seeing that hurried legislation is not put through," he said.

The resolution stated "there is some evidence that this legislation has been too hastily drawn, and grave doubts have been expressed by knowledgeable citizens as to its actuarial soundness, this chamber therefore recommends that the entire subject of pensions in Canada be subject to exhaustive review by an impartial commission to be named by the government, and that no action on a federal pension plan be taken until the findings of the commission are public."

EXAMINE ACT

The resolution also recommended that the proposed commission examine the Old Age Security Act, "there being some reason to think this act imposes an unnecessarily heavy tax burden . . . and there may be some merit in an amendment making this security available only to citizens in need of it."

The directors, meeting in the Empress Hotel, heard a report the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island has sent representation to Ottawa asking a seven-man salt water fishing advisory board, composed of two members from Vancouver and five from Vancouver Island.

In making the report, Sam Lane said the board would include no members connected with commercial fishing, as this industry is adequately represented on other boards.

The chamber's retail merchants' group reported its intention to co-operate with the Junior Chamber in promoting a Christmas parade and other Christmas activities.

Dockers Still Tie Up Canadian Grain Ship

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain handlers refused again today to load a Canadian ship that is caught in the middle of a bitter dispute between two labor unions.

The freighter John Ericsson moved to Elevator B of the Continental Grain Corporation in the Calumet River, ready to take on a cargo of grain.

But shortly afterward Gunter Goldschmidt, superintendent of the elevator, announced:

"The men have refused to load the boat."

A police guard was at the scene but no pickets were in sight.

It was the fourth time the workers have refused to pour grain into the Ericsson since she arrived in Chicago Oct. 4.

SWITCHED UNIONS

The owner of the Ericsson, Upper Lakes Shipping Limited of Toronto, switched from the Seafarers' International Union to the Canadian Maritime Union as the source of its crew members a year ago. That caused a flareup in the rivalry between the two unions.

JUDGES SWORN

'Champion Becomes Umpire'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Angelo Branca, well-known Vancouver criminal lawyer, and Nathan Nemetz, an expert in the field of labor law, became judges of the British Columbia Supreme Court Thursday.

They were sworn in by Chief Justice J. O. Wilson in a courtroom crowded with relatives, friends and representatives of the legal profession.

The chief justice described them as "two distinguished and accomplished lawyers" and termed Mr. Branca a "gladiator and a virtuoso of the court."

"But the champion has now become the umpire," he added.

Chief Justice Wilson said the only regret his fellow judges have in regard to Mr. Branca's appointment is that they will miss having him appear before them as a lawyer.

Stiffer Penalties

Central Saanich council may impose stiffer penalties on delinquent taxpayers.

It has authorized the municipal clerk to investigate the rates of interest charged on unpaid taxes with a view to imposing a heavier rate.

Concern was expressed by councillors at the number of ratepayers who are late in meeting their taxes.

Suspected Poison Food Recalled

MONTREAL (CP) — Delicious Food Products Ltd., announced Thursday it is recalling its liver paste from the market immediately because of a federal health department report that a death in Montreal had been linked to poisoned liver paste. The company's product sells under the trade name Paragon.

In a prepared statement, the company said it firmly believes it is premature to link its product directly with the case of food poisoning. No direct relationship had been established between its product and the case of food poisoning.

The statement said the manufacture of the paste has always been carried out at the plant under the supervision of a federal health inspector.

PRELATES' RINGS PRIZE OF ITALIAN PICKPOCKETS

ROME (AP)—The "borsaioli" of Rome would be hurt if anything should come of a Brazilian prelate's suggestion that Roman Catholic bishops give up their rings and crosses.

A borsaioli is a pickpocket, and these Italian thieves have been doing their best to find loose-fitting episcopal rings, and pectoral crosses weakly connected to chains, among the 2,300 prelates attending the Vatican ecumenical council.

While no official figures are available, at least a dozen rings and crosses have been stolen.

"I go around with one hand against my chest and the other in my pocket," said an African bishop.

OPPOSES TITLES

Auxiliary Archbishop Helder Pessoa Camara of Rio de Janeiro has said the Catholic hierarchy would do well to rid itself of expensive rings, crosses, limousines, and titles of "eminence" (for a cardinal) and "excellency" (for an archbishop or bishop). Nothing does more to separate the clergy from the people—especially the poor—than signs of opulence, he said.

Rome's borsaioli operate with a different motivation, but their goal is identical—separating the bishops from their crosses and rings.

One trick is to stop a bishop in a crowd, take his right hand and murmur "sua eccelenza" (your excellency) while kissing the bishop's ring in homage.

If the ring is loose, it can disappear before the prelate realizes it is gone.

Episcopal rings and crosses vary in value from a few dollars to several hundred.

Viet Nam Program Disturbs Mission

SAIGON (Reuters)—A United Nations fact-finding mission to South Viet Nam today scrapped the remainder of the program prepared for its visit by President Ngo Dinh Diem's government.

Mission officials said: "There are no fixed appointments for the future. All future arrangements are at present under discussion."

Members of the UN survey mission were reported to be unhappy with the tightly-organized program prepared by the government for their study of allegations of government persecution of Vietnamese Buddhists.

The government has denied that the official program was "imposed" on the mission.

The prepared program envisaged four days of guided visits to the provinces before the mission's scheduled departure next week.

This left them little time or opportunity to speak to the people other than government officials in Saigon.

ABANDON HOPE 39 MINERS STILL ALIVE

PEINE, Germany (UPI)—Mine officials abandoned hope today for 39 miners trapped 330 feet underground in the Lengede-Broistedt iron mine. But they said there was a "very, very slim chance" that four others might be still alive in an air pocket at the 270-foot level.

Rescue teams were drilling toward the 270-foot level despite lowering hopes. A flicker of hope raised when a picked up knocking sounds was dashed when experts decided the sound came from the rattling of rocks.

. . . PICKETS

after being served with the injunction. The court order was secured by lawyers for Scott Misener Steamships Limited of Port Colborne, Ont., owners of the ship.

The pickets carried signs, one of which read: "Der Fuehrer MacEachen has placed Canadian seamen in captivity, following in Hitler's footsteps."

Mr. Tanner said picket boats will be used in the various Great Lakes demonstrations, and SIU men will also patrol docks to carry the union's story to other union members. The protest will last "indefinitely."

Picketing was under way Friday in at least two U.S. ports — Buffalo and Superior. A temporary injunction, however, suspended the picketing today at Superior.

"It is obvious that Mr. Tanner does not understand the purpose of the trusteeship—to restore free trade unionism in Canada," Mr. MacEachen commented.

Earlier, Canadian Labor Congress President Claude Jodoin charged that the boycott of Canadian ships in U.S. ports was "completely unwarranted."

Meanwhile, the three federal trustees flew to their homes Friday for weekend rests after getting shipping in Canada back into smooth water following a conference Thursday with Hal Banks, head of the SIU in Canada.

In Vancouver, Mr. Justice Victor Dryer angrily denied that any bargain had been made with Mr. Banks to get the walkout ended. The trustees had made it clear, he said, that if Mr. Banks didn't end the illegal strike, "we would."

Family Flees Fire

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four adults and two children escaped in night clothes early today when fire swept through a home here.
